Brokers and Shoshones. Holding Up the Mirror. Clergyman In Earnest. We Are Very Rich.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

STOCKS went up, new high prices were recorded, the price of money went down, you could speculate cheaply, francs collapsed, bears shed tears, bulls said, "I told you so." That was yesterday's financial record.

While these things happened, Indians of the Bannoe and Shoshone tribes were dancing wildly around their totem pole near Pocatello, to please the Sun God. Aged warriors dropped in their tracks.

Authorities allowed the dance on condition that the Indians would not, as in former days, insert thongs of deer skin under the muscles of their backs and hang themselves from branches of trees, staying there until muscles or thongs gave way. Whites call that shocking. Indians think it pleases the Sun God.

Perhaps, where the angel Gabriel sits, the difference between Indians dancing around the totem pole and brokers dancing around the General Motors pole is not so great.

TO HOLD the mirror up to modern times, read headlines in newspapers, and listen to the radio.

Young people park their cars along roadsides and indulge in affectionate demonstrations. Samuel Hurd, farmer, objected. One of the young people shot him dead. Hurd will know better next time, if he returns to this plane.

THE Rev. Dr. Norris, earnest clergyman of Fort Worth, Tex., refers to himself as a "hellfire and damnation" preacher, and lives up to the description.

He attacked the mayor of his town, on religious and other grounds. When a friend of the mayor called to remonstrate Dr. Norris sent three bullets through his body. It was self-defense, he said, and thousands crowded to his church to shake hands with him.

Madison Township Farm is Hottest Place in County

The district near the Madison township farm home of Charles Swan, R. F. D. No. 1, out of Wellsville, was the hottest zone in Columbiana county yesterday.

A physician's fever thermometer placed on the north side of the house which is protected from the sun, registered 100 2-5 degrees at 3 p. m., Swan said.

Swan, who has lived on the farm for 20 years, said it was the hottest day in his memory.

THUNDERSHOWERS ARE FORECAST

Twenty-four Persons Dead in Chicago and Suburbs as Result of Heat.

With the death toll in Ohio's two-day heat wave totalling 15 at noon, relief in the form of showers is promised by the weather man tonight in the East Liverpool district.

Despite the terrific torrid temperature, no prostrations have been reported here.

Tuesday was the warmest day of the year, according to records at the United States Lock No. 8. The mercury went soaring to the 98-degree mark at 3 p. m., two degrees higher than the mark recorded at the same hour on Monday.

Government Readings.

Readings at the dam, which are taken every three hours, were: 12 noon Tuesday, 96; 3. p. m., 98; 6 p. m., 96; 9 p. m., 76; 12 midnight, 74; 3 a. m. (Wednesday), 68; 6 a. m., 66; 8 a. m., 78. The 8 a. m. reading today was four degrees higher than that recorded at the same hour yesterday morning and 10 degrees warmer than that which prevailed on Monday morning.

Lawrence Copeland, government observer at Millport, 19 miles west of here, reported a maximum temperature of 96 degrees at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Tuesday, Copeland said, was the hottest day on record so far this year. The mercury climbed to the 92-degree mark during the middle of the afternoon on Monday.

A large thermometer on the St. Clair avenue side of the Central fire station registered 118 degrees in the sun at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Temperatures in Ohio.

CLEVELAND, July 21.—The break in the terrific heat wave that has held Ohio and the middle west in its grip for two days was expected by nightfall, E. H. Emery, the government weatherman, said here today. Thundershowers are on the way.

At least 15 persons have died in Ohio as the result of the two days of hot weather.

BIDS ON FOUR CITY PARCELS ARE TOO LOW

Rejection of Offers Made to Director Moore Looms.

OPENED TUESDAY

No Bidders Seek Taylor Lot in Sixth Street.

Bids for four of the seven pieces of city real estate offered for sale by Service-Safety Director John W. Moore were opened yesterday by the board of control, but indications today were all bids would be rejected.

Offers were submitted for the vacant lot opposite the City hospital in West Fifth street; West End fire station, Lisbon street; property in Harvey avenue at the state line and the old River Road pump station site.

No bids were received for the Taylor lot in West Sixth street, now under lease as a parking place, and gasoline station, for the vacant lot in Houston avenue, adjoining the Houston avenue pump station, or the vacant lots in St. George street.

Four offers were made for the Fifth street lot, which has a frontage of 50 feet on Fifth street and extends through to Drury lane. The highest of these was $3,050. The others were $2,760, $1,805 and $1,500. This lot, according to the service-safety director, is appraised at $4,000, but inasmuch as the city pays no taxes it is not costing the municipality anything for its upkeep.

One Offer for Pump Station.

The property at the state line which has a frontage of about 900 feet on Harvey avenue and extends through to the old state road, brought two bids, one for $2,560 and the other for $2,005. Part of this ground, which at the present is leased for gasoline filling station purposes, brings in $25 per month, which revenue, the director points out, is six per cent interest on an investment of $5,000.

One bidder offered $2,505 for the two-story brick building in Lisbon street, formerly the West End fire station. The first floor, is being leased for an automobile paint shop, brings in a rental of $20 per month. The second floor, which until recently was leased by a West End club, netted $15 per month. The $20 rental,

Wellsville Junk Dealer's Horse is Drowned in River

A horse, owned by an unidentified Wellsville junk dealer, was drowned in the Ohio river at the Broadway wharf at 6 o'clock last evening, but the driver escaped by jumping from a wagon to which the animal was hitched.

The junk dealer, it is claimed, drove to the river for the purpose of watering his horse. Unaware of the depth at the upper part of the wharf, he directed the animal across the low retaining wall into the water. The horse and wagon sank in about 14 feet of water.

With the aid of grappling hooks, a chain and a motor truck the horse and vehicle were recovered an hour later by Peter Milliron, Second street contractor.

NEW YORK MAN ADMITS ROLE IN $75,000 JEWEL ROBBERY

CAUGHT IN HOTEL

One Prisoner Tells of Maiden Lane Hold-up.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Detectives early today raided a room in a Broadway hotel near Sixty-fifth street and captured two men, one of whom confessed, the police say, to the participation in a $75,000 gem robbery on Maiden lane last Monday.

In the room were found two loaded revolvers and a sawed-off shotgun. One of the men intimated that Chicago police would be glad to get him and question him about the murder of a Chicago official, believed to be Assistant State's Attorney W. H. McSwiggen.

The man said he came here from Chicago on July 12 last and mustered a gang of thieves with intent of emulating the activities of the famous Whittemore gang. He described himself as George Cohen, 26, alias Mitchell and Simonds of 4241 Roosevelt road, Chicago, Ill.

In admitting this, Cohen is alleged to have said the murder of the policeman resulted from a fight over alcohol.

"When I get to Chicago," Cohen said, "I can give valuable information about the bootleg ring there."

In addition to the Maiden lane holdup, police believe Cohen and his confederates robbed a jewelry store at 34th street and Third avenue about a month ago and that about the same time they held up another jewelry store on Broadway near 181st street.

One Man Dying, Others Injured in Toledo Plant Riot

TOLEDO, July 22.—Frank Harrison is lying at the point of death today in a local hospital and several other workmen are nursing painful injuries at the result of a riot at the Standard Oil plant in Baxshore road.

Harrison and a fellow worker quarrelled over the use of a gas still at the plant, according to police. Harrison was hit over teh head with a wrench and ageneral fight ensued.

A riot call was sent to police headquarters and after a battle the figat was stopped. Harrison will probably die, physicians said. A number of other workmen were badly beaten up.

TWO AUTOMOBILES REPORTED STOLEN

Police today were searching for two automobiles which were reported stolen from their parking places near Patterson field Monday evening.

One of the cars is a Chrysler, carrying a Florida license. According to a report received by the police, a woman about five feet four inches tall, wearing a black hat and polka dot dress was seen driving the machine away. Name of the owner was not given the police.

The other car was a 1925 model Overland touring car owned by William Walters. It carried Ohio license number 241-561.

C. B. McClintock, Stark County Prosecutor Indicates no Further Effort Will be Made to Hold "George the Greek" in Connection With Slaying of Canton Editor.

EDITOR'S ASSASSINS ARE STILL IN CANTON, SAYS DONAHEY AGENT

COLUMBUS, O., July 21.—Belief that the murder of Don. R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, was committed by two residents of Canton's underworld who are still in Canton, was voiced here today by C. H. Sisson, special investigator for Governor Vic Donahey.

Sisson returned today from Canton, where he spent the past five days conducting an investigation at the direction of the governor, into the "intrigue and corruption" which, it is believed, prompted the murder of Mellett.

Following a conference this forenoon between Sisson and Jacob Mockstroth, secretary to the governor, announcement was made that Sisson will go to Camp Perry Friday for a conference with the governor and with Adjutant General Henderson.

PITTSBURGH, July 21.—Common Pleas Judge James R. MacFarlane today ordered George Psialias, held in connection with the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton, O., publisher, released on a writ of habeas corpus.

Judge MacFarlane delivered his decision without calling for witnesses, holding that there was insufficient evidence in the brief read by William M. Randolph, assistant city prosecutor, to hold Psialias.

C. B. McClintock, city prosecutor of Canton, O., indicated that no further effort would be made to hold Psialias in connection with the murder of the editor.

Psialias' release followed the failure of Henry S. Deville, Canton broker upon whom authorities pinned their hopes of having the man held, to identify Psialias as the man he saw in the vicinity of the Mellett residence shortly before the slaying.

'GEORGE THE GREEK,' KNOWN AS CARD SHARP, MADE BIG WINNINGS HERE

The spotlight has been turned on East Liverpool in the search for the slayers of Don R. Mellett, crusading Canton newspaper publisher, who was shot to death by hired assassins as he placed his automobile in a garage last Friday morning.

As New Kensington police continued to check up on the mystery Chevrolet coach which was abandoned after it was wrecked on the Lincoln highway near West Point on Monday morning, and which is believed a factor in the assassination, it developed today that George the Greek Psialias, now held in Pittsburgh, is well known in the East Liverpool district.

Psialias, said to be the owner of a chain of coffee houses between Pittsburgh and Canton, has a reputation as a card sharp, police say. Two years ago he was a frequent visitor in East Liverpool, and is reported to have made big winnings in a gambling game that operated then in a Fourth street building.

"George the Greek," however, who has denied all knowledge of the killing, apparently has established a flawless alibi.

Registered at Warren Hotel.

WARREN, O., July 21. — After a thorough check-up on the movements of George Psilias, "George, the Greek," during his stay here Thursday night Warren police announced that they have been unable to find a flaw in his alibi offered to Pittsburgh police to prove he knows nothing of the murder of Don Mellett, Canton publisher.

The movements of Psilias were checked from 9 o'clock last Thursday night until 12:45 Friday morning. After completing the investigation

W. J. BURNS AGENCY IS RETAINED TO PROBE PLOT AGAINST OTHER EDITORS

CANTON, Ohio, July 21.—Accepting the belief that Don R. Mellett, 36, was assassinated in the first move of a general conspiracy to kill all newspaper publishers and editors whose crusades hurt the activities of organized gangs of violence, the Fourth Estate one of the leading newspaper trade journals, through its publisher, H. M. Newman, has engaged the William J. Burns International Detective agency to track down the slayers of Canton's courageous publisher.

According to a telegram received today by the editors of the Canton Daily News, the Burns agency has been instructed to investigate the different ramifications of "what appears to be a concerted attempt to throttle the press of the United States by thug violence on certain newspaper editors and publishers who are prominent for their activities against organized crime."

The action was decided upon, the communication stated, at a "conference in the Fourth Estate offices at which were reviewed not only the Mellett murder but also the persecutions of Carl R. Magee, New Mexico editor of the Teapot Dome oil scandal, and George Dale of Muncie, Indiana, who, according to his own statement, was stripped of his newspaper and fortune and railroaded to jail by alleged agents of the Ku Klux Klan."

A huge fund backs the activities of these criminals who are warring on all truth telling newspapers in the

SHERIFF WRIGHT SEIZES SLOT MACHINES AT BAYARD AS COUNTY LAUNCHES DRIVE AGAINST GAMBLERS

In keeping with a state-wide "clean-up" movement to rid the state of gamblers, gunmen and undesirables, following the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton News, who was shot from ambush near his home early Friday morning, Sheriff George Wright last night launched an offensive against slot machines and other gambling devices.

Starting at Bayard in the western part of the county, he confiscated five machines. Three of these were of the money type, while the others were known as the mint machines. They were removed to the county jail.

Lisbon police last night took two machines which were found in stores of the county seat town. Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter today is at work in the vicinity of Leetonia and Columbiana.

Other towns are to be combed until all gambling equipment has been confiscated, it was declared.

Police in cities are to be requested to co-operate in the drive which was launched upon instructions of Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes.

No slot machines are operating in East Liverpool, police said.

The three money machines seized last night have been operated in the county for a long time, but the mint machines were installed only a few weeks ago, according to reports.

Probe Bootlegging Industry.

CLEVELAND, July 21—A wide flung probe into the activities of the bootlegging industry in northern Ohio was launched today by United States District Attorney A. E. Bernsteen.

The first move was the issuing of warrants for the arrests of Dan and Rose Weiner, of Cleveland, alleged members of Phil Porris gang which, according to Bernsteen, is konwn as the "Big Four" in the local underworld.

Bernsteen said he planned to throw the spotlight first on the Porris group.

No Bidders Seek Taylor Lot in Sixth Street.

Bids for four of the seven pieces of city real estate offered for sale by Service-Safety Director John W. Moore were opened yesterday by the board of control, but indications today were all bids would be rejected.

Offers were submitted for the vacant lot opposite the City hospital in West Fifth street; West End fire station, Lisbon street; property in Harvey avenue at the state line and the old River Road pump station site.

No bids were received for the Taylor lot in West Sixth street, now under lease as a parking place, and gasoline station, for the vacant lot in Houston avenue, adjoining the Houston avenue pump station, or the vacant lots in St. George street.

Four offers were made for the Fifth street lot, which has a frontage of 50 feet on Fifth street and extends through to Drury lane. The highest of these was $3,050. The others were $2,760, $1,805 and $1,500. This lot, according to the service-safety director, is appraised at $4,000, but inasmuch as the city pays no taxes it is not costing the municipality anything for its upkeep.

CANTON RESIDENT IS UNCERTAIN PRISONER IS PERSON HE SAW

C. B. McClintock, Stark County Prosecutor Indicates no Further Effort Will be Made to Hold "George the Greek" in Connection With Slaying of Canton Editor.

EDITOR'S ASSASSINS ARE STILL IN CANTON, SAYS DONAHEY AGENT

COLUMBUS, O., July 21.—Belief that the murder of Don. R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, was committed by two residents of Canton's underworld who are still in Canton, was voiced here today by C. H. Sisson, special investigator for Governor Vic Donahey.

Sisson returned today from Canton, where he spent the past five days conducting an investigation at the direction of the governor, into the "intrigue and corruption" which, it is believed, prompted the murder of Mellett.

Following a conference this forenoon between Sisson and Jacob Mockstroth, secretary to the governor, announcement was made that Sisson will go to Camp Perry Friday for a conference with the governor and with Adjutant General Henderson.

PITTSBURGH, July 21.—Common Pleas Judge James R. MacFarlane today ordered George Psialias, held in connection with the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton, O., publisher, released on a writ of habeas corpus.

Judge MacFarlane delivered his decision without calling for witnesses, holding that there was insufficient evidence in the brief read by William M. Randolph, assistant city prosecutor, to hold Psialias.

C. B. McClintock, city prosecutor of Canton, O., indicated that no further effort would be made to hold Psialias in connection with the murder of the editor.

Psialias' release followed the failure of Henry S. Deville, Canton broker upon whom authorities pinned their hopes of having the man held, to identify Psialias as the man he saw in the vicinity of the Mellett residence shortly before the slaying.

'GEORGE THE GREEK,' KNOWN AS CARD SHARP, MADE BIG WINNINGS HERE

The spotlight has been turned on East Liverpool in the search for the slayers of Don R. Mellett, crusading Canton newspaper publisher, who was shot to death by hired assassins as he placed his automobile in a garage last Friday morning.

As New Kensington police continued to check up on the mystery Chevrolet coach which was abandoned after it was wrecked on the Lincoln highway near West Point on Monday morning, and which is believed a factor in the assassination, it developed today that George the Greek Psialias, now held in Pittsburgh, is well known in the East Liverpool district.

Psialias, said to be the owner of a chain of coffee houses between Pittsburgh and Canton, has a reputation as a card sharp, police say. Two years ago he was a frequent visitor in East Liverpool, and is reported to have made big winnings in a gambling game that operated then in a Fourth street building.

"George the Greek," however, who has denied all knowledge of the killing, apparently has established a flawless alibi.

Registered at Warren Hotel.

WARREN, O., July 21. — After a thorough check-up on the movements of George Psilias, "George, the Greek," during his stay here Thursday night Warren police announced that they have been unable to find a flaw in his alibi offered to Pittsburgh police to prove he knows nothing of the murder of Don Mellett, Canton publisher.

The movements of Psilias were checked from 9 o'clock last Thursday night until 12:45 Friday morning. After completing the investigation

W. J. BURNS AGENCY IS RETAINED TO PROBE PLOT AGAINST OTHER EDITORS

CANTON, Ohio, July 21.—Accepting the belief that Don R. Mellett, 36, was assassinated in the first move of a general conspiracy to kill all newspaper publishers and editors whose crusades hurt the activities of organized gangs of violence, the Fourth Estate one of the leading newspaper trade journals, through its publisher, H. M. Newman, has engaged the William J. Burns International Detective agency to track down the slayers of Canton's courageous publisher.

According to a telegram received today by the editors of the Canton Daily News, the Burns agency has been instructed to investigate the different ramifications of "what appears to be a concerted attempt to throttle the press of the United States by thug violence on certain newspaper editors and publishers who are prominent for their activities against organized crime."

The action was decided upon, the communication stated, at a "conference in the Fourth Estate offices at which were reviewed not only the Mellett murder but also the persecutions of Carl R. Magee, New Mexico editor of the Teapot Dome oil scandal, and George Dale of Muncie, Indiana, who, according to his own statement, was stripped of his newspaper and fortune and railroaded to jail by alleged agents of the Ku Klux Klan."

A huge fund backs the activities of these criminals who are warring on all truth telling newspapers in the

SHERIFF WRIGHT SEIZES SLOT MACHINES AT BAYARD AS COUNTY LAUNCHES DRIVE AGAINST GAMBLERS

In keeping with a state-wide "clean-up" movement to rid the state of gamblers, gunmen and undesirables, following the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton News, who was shot from ambush near his home early Friday morning, Sheriff George Wright last night launched an offensive against slot machines and other gambling devices.

Starting at Bayard in the western part of the county, he confiscated five machines. Three of these were of the money type, while the others were known as the mint machines. They were removed to the county jail.

Lisbon police last night took two machines which were found in stores of the county seat town. Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter today is at work in the vicinity of Leetonia and Columbiana.

Other towns are to be combed until all gambling equipment has been confiscated, it was declared.

Police in cities are to be requested to co-operate in the drive which was launched upon instructions of Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes.

No slot machines are operating in East Liverpool, police said.

The three money machines seized last night have been operated in the county for a long time, but the mint machines were installed only a few weeks ago, according to reports.

Probe Bootlegging Industry.

CLEVELAND, July 21—A wide flung probe into the activities of the bootlegging industry in northern Ohio was launched today by United States District Attorney A. E. Bernsteen.

The first move was the issuing of warrants for the arrests of Dan and Rose Weiner, of Cleveland, alleged members of Phil Porris gang which, according to Bernsteen, is konwn as the "Big Four" in the local underworld.

Bernsteen said he planned to throw the spotlight first on the Porris group.

Big Game Increases In National Forests; Reserve is Advocated

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Big game is increasing in the national forests of the United States, according to J. B. Royall, Florida commissioner of game and fish. National authorities attribute the increase, Royall said, to more effective enforcement of game laws, destruction of predatory animals by state and federal hunters, and, in a few states, complete prohibition of hunting in the forest reserves because of the danger of forest fires.

There are two national forests in Florida. Commissioner Royall advocates a game reserve for a permanent breeding ground for wild game in each county of the state.

CHAPTER TWENTY.

They were silent for a time. Lou sipped her coffee. For once in her capable life she found herself completely at a loss. As incapable as he had been in the evening.

"Better eat your breakfast, Wilbur," she said, to break the tension of the silence. "Food is useful, you know."

"Yes, I know." He ate a little, then laid down his egg-spoon. "But I'm coming to what I've got to ask you. It's pretty difficult. I—" That sentence didn't get really begun. But after a moment he went at it again, resolutely. "It's a lot to ask, what I'm going to ask of you. Probably it's weak in me. I just thought it would—of course, you may feel you couldn't do any such thing—"

"What is it?" she asked, almost sharply.

"Well, I can ask it. And you can refuse. It wont make any difference in our friendship. I just felt—"

"Wilbur, what is it?"

"You see, Mother's deepest fear is that I'll marry. I've known that for years. You didn't know that I was engaged for a while. Three years ago. It didn't get anywhere. She—" His voice failed him, but he came back to it. "She really broke it off — the things she said and did. It was on her nerves so. Well, anyway, here's what I've been working out. It's the only course I seem to be able to see. I've got to do everything possible to make her realize that it's a real break—and then start in trying to be decent—kinder than I have been. And I wondered if you—if you'd be willing to let me tell her I'm engaged to you."

Her lids drooped. She thought swiftly, wondering at first if he was merely traveling that emotional circle of the evening, and then considering the many possible complications.

He went on with a sort of eagerness: "Of course, I realize now that you could never marry me. I guess I was crazy. I'm not the—I wouldn't tell anybody else. And it needn't mean a thing. Just to help me now."

"It would get out," said she.

"It needn't—not in your crowd down here. You see, I want her to see that I've actually bought a ring, and—"

"Oh, no," said she. "No ring!"

"I—" He hesitated. "I'm afraid that would be part of it."

"I want to help you Wilbur—in any possible way. But I'm afraid I can't let you give me a ring."

"I want to show it to her. And I couldn't hide it in the apartment. She goes through everything—opens my letters—everything."

"There's your desk at the office. She can't very well get into that."

"That's so. I hadn't thought. Perhaps I was partly selfish in that. I couldn't help wanting to—well, to find a beautiful stone and give it to you. Even if it meant nothing except how I feel. You've been so—there'll never be anybody—"

He faltered. And she sat thinking. Finally she looked at him in her direct way, and smiled gently.

"All right," she said. "I'll do it. I'll do what I can, if it will help you work it out. Yes, I could go through with that. I'll come and have dinner with you and her. Act it out the best I can. Yes, I could do that."

Misgivings came later at the office. It was an odd tangle. Rather theatrical, she felt—with possibilities of development in the direction of comedy as well as of somewhat more serious drama. It could no more have been explained to Leslie than to a child of two. He would settle down on the unshakable belief that she played double all along.

Bee came home from the theater on that last Saturday night, her last night of regular work, in fatalistic mood. Her thoughts, as she climbed to the apartment, were on anything but the tempestuous Fred.

Lou, curled up on the couch, reading greeted her with a significant nod toward the center-table. A small parcel lay there, nearly covered with insurance stamps. Bee lifted it and turned it over in her hand.

"Aren't you going to open it?" Lou asked.

"Why should I? It's from Fred."

"Haven't you any curiosity? My word, I have!"

"I don't know." Bee hung up her coat and hat, and then, returning to the table, picked it up again.

"What do you suppose it is?"

"Rather looks like jewelry.

"Hmp!" Bee weighed it in her hand; then, with another little "Hmph!" slowly untied the knotted string. "Jewelry is right," she said, opening the box within the wrappings and exhibiting a platinum bracelet. "Hmp! Diamonds!"

Lou grinned—then threw back her head and laughed aloud as Bee, with an indignant expression (she was too weary for humor) reached quickly for the telephone. "Shucks!" she said. "Why not keep it. I wouldn't mind wearing it. I will say Fred has nice ideas. And he couldn't be called stingy."

But the adamantine Bee sent it straight back by district messenger. Her only remark regarding the incident, after the boy had come and gone, was: "Wish I'd waited an hour—just to be reasonably sure of waking him up. But I'm too sleepy myself."

All day Monday Bee tramped Broadway, looking her desperate prettiest, going from one theatrical office to another. Nearly everywhere she was confronted with the familiar placard, "Positively no engagements today." Other girls and women, in similar cases—girls with bobbed heads and suspiciously copper hair, tall girls and little ingenues—were coming and going in and out of the musty corridors, and a few men.

When she reached home, at six o'clock, aching with weariness, she found Lou standing over an enormous cabinet with a tall pile of disk records beside it on a chair.

Mrs. Nellstrom must have let them in with it," said Lou. "Did you ever see anything so big! It's a regular house." And she added: "There's a note tied to the handle."

"I'm not going to read it."

"Oh, come!"

"You can, if you want to. Not me."

Lou opened the envelope, then chuckled. "Fred is a man of ideas, in his rather primitive way, Bee. He says: 'Try waking me up with this, and see what luck you have.' "

"He's rather got you there, old thing. I can't quite picture a messenger-boy carrying that structure uptown under his arm,"

"All right. But it goes straight back in the morning. I don't care what it costs."

A dried-rose-petal fluttered from the envelope to the floor.

"Mm!" observed Lou. "Romantic stuff."

"If he's romantic, I'm not," said Bee savagely, disappearing into the bedroom.

But nevertheless she returned home on the following evening with a measure of dread; and even, as the week wore on and no further gifts appeared with a little pique. Without a word Fred appeared to have dropped his campaign. It could hardly mean that he had changed overnight. He wasn't that sort. Nor was it likely that the prompt return of that monstrous cabinet had discouraged him. More likely he would pop up when she least looked for it.

"I'll say this for Fred,' she remarked one morning over the coffee, "he did pretty nearly set me on edge. I'm beginning to wish I could get out of this darn town for a while.

"Where could you go?"

Bee spread her hands. "Nowhere. I certainly wont give up and go back home. I'll never do that!"

Announcement was made today that an extra feature had been arranged for the annual outing of the employes of the Homer Laughlin China company to be held at Idora park on Saturday, August 21.

This will consist of a ball game between the Homer Laughlin China team of the Industrial league and the Youngstown O. & P. league club. The game will be played either in the morning or afternoon. Manager Reisinger, of the Youngstown club, plans to make an effort to have the regular league game scheduled for that day sidetracked and if he fails in this the game will be staged in the morning.

Plans for the event are going forward and will be completed at a meeting of the general committee composed of representatives from the six shops of the company next week.

32 PRISONERS IN COUNTY JAIL

Perfect co-ordination between the county, district, city and state law enforcement officials of Hancock county has crowded the county prison at New Cumberland to near its capacity, Sheriff Al Tope announced yesterday.

There are 32 prisoners including three women now occupying cells. Many are being held without bond for the next term of court, although the majority are serving sentences.

Never at any time during the present county administration has there been more perfect harmony among authorities of the different branches, the sheriff pointed out, with the result that conditions in the county are said to be the best in years.

Building Frit House.

New building to house the frit kiln is being erected at plant No. 5 of the Homer Laughlin China company. When completed it will house machinery and other equipment.

Many Attending Outing.

CHAPTER TWENTY.

They were silent for a time. Lou sipped her coffee. For once in her capable life she found herself completely at a loss. As incapable as he had been in the evening.

"Better eat your breakfast, Wilbur," she said, to break the tension of the silence. "Food is useful, you know."

"Yes, I know." He ate a little, then laid down his egg-spoon. "But I'm coming to what I've got to ask you. It's pretty difficult. I—" That sentence didn't get really begun. But after a moment he went at it again, resolutely. "It's a lot to ask, what I'm going to ask of you. Probably it's weak in me. I just thougnt it would—of course, you may feel you couldn't do any such thing—"

"What is it?" she asked, almost sharply.

"Well, I can ask it. And you can refuse. It wont make any difference in our friendship. I just felt—"

"Wilbur, what is it?"

"You see, Mother's deepest fear is that I'll marry. I've known that for years. You didn't know that I was engaged for a while. Three years ago. It didn't get anywhere. She—" His voice failed him, but he came back to it. "She really broke it off — the things she said and did. It was on her nerves so. Well, anyway, here's what I've been working out. It's the only course I seem to be able to see. I've got to do everything possible to make her realize that it's a real break—and then start in trying to be decent—kinder than I have been. And I wondered if you—if you'd be willing to let me tell her I'm engaged to you."

Her lids drooped. She thought swiftly, wondering at first if he was merely traveling that emotional circle of the evening, and then considering the many possible complications.

He went on with a sort of eagerness: "Of course, I realize now that you could never marry me. I guess I was crazy. I'm not the—I wouldn't tell anybody else. And it needn't mean a thing. Just to help me now."

"It would get out," said she.

"It needn't—not in your crowd down here. You see, I want her to see that I've actually bought a ring, and—"

"Oh, no," said she. "No ring!"

"I—" He hesitated. "I'm afraid that would be part of it."

"I want to help you Wilbur—in any possible way. But I'm afraid I can't let you give me a ring."

"I want to show it to her. And I couldn't hide it in the apartment. She goes through everything—opens my letters—everything."

"There's your desk at the office. She can't very well get into that."

"That's so. I hadn't thought. Perhaps I was partly selfish in that. I couldn't help wanting to—well, to find a beautiful stone and give it to you. Even if it meant nothing except how I feel. You've been so—there'll never be anybody—"

He faltered. And she sat thinking. Finally she looked at him in her direct way, and smiled gently.

"All right," she said. "I'll do it. I'll do what I can, if it will help you work it out. Yes, I could go through with that. I'll come and have dinner with you and her. Act it out the best I can. Yes, I could do that."

Misgivings came later at the office. It was an odd tangle. Rather theatrical, she felt—with possibilities of development in the direction of comedy as well as of somewhat more serious drama. It could no more have been explained to Leslie than to a child of two. He would settle down on the unshakable belief that she played double all along.

Bee came home from the theater on that last Saturday night, her last night of regular work, in fatalistic mood. Her thoughts, as she climbed to the apartment, were on anything but the tempestuous Fred.

Lou, curled up on the couch, reading greeted her with a significant nod toward the center-table. A small parcel lay there, nearly covered with insurance stamps. Bee lifted it and turned it over in her hand.

"Aren't you going to open it?" Lou asked.

"Why should I? It's from Fred."

"Haven't you any curiosity? My word, I have!"

"I don't know." Bee hung up her coat and hat, and then, returning to the table, picked it up again.

"What do you suppose it is?"

"Rather looks like jewelry.

"Hmp!" Bee weighed it in her hand; then, with another little "Hmph!" slowly untied the knotted string. "Jewelry is right," she said, opening the box within the wrappings and exhibiting a platinum bracelet. "Hmp! Diamonds!"

Lou grinned—then threw back her head and laughed aloud as Bee, with an indignant expression (she was too weary for humor) reached quickly for the telephone. "Shucks!" she said. "Why not keep it. I wouldn't mind wearing it. I will say Fred has nice ideas. And he couldn't be called stingy."

But the adamantine Bee sent it straight back by district messenger. Her only remark regarding the incident, after the boy had come and gone, was: "Wish I'd waited an hour—just to be reasonably sure of waking him up. But I'm too sleepy myself."

All day Monday Bee tramped Broadway, looking her desperate prettiest, going from one theatrical office to another. Nearly everywhere she was confronted with the familiar placard, "Positively no engagements today." Other girls and women, in similar cases—girls with bobbed heads and suspiciously copper hair, tall girls and little ingenues—were coming and going in and out of the musty corridors, and a few men.

Mexican Boosters

Wonders will never cease. The incredible is always breaking out in some new form. Mexico has taken up the American boosting spirit and is full of Babbitts and publicity stunts. This is on the authority of a dispatch from Dallas, Tex., from which vantage-point eagle-eyed newspaper men interpret Mexico to the states.

"The Chamber of Commerce," we read, "has become a real part of Mexican civic life. Scores of smaller communities have their chambers to promote home affairs, much as do towns in the United States, but yet with a sufficiently different character to retain a distinct Mexican atmosphere."

For example, a special train laden with tourists will be taken several hundred miles, into a strange town, where the passengers will be transferred to dilapidated carriages and hauled over unpaved streets, past one-story adobe buildings, to the local chamber of commerce. There they will find an official welcome, translated from Spanish into English, and a reception and dance, in which introductions are waived and the visitors may dance, to good music, with handsome Mexican girls. After prolonged entertainment and manifestations of good will, the guests are returned to their train, and as they move away the orchestra stands on the station platform bidding them good-by with music.

This sort of thing, widely done, will give Americans a more friendly interest in Mexico and Mexicans, quite aside from their business interest. It also challenges admiration. If the slow, backward Mexicans are evolving into a nation of boosters and go-getters, then, the average American will conclude, there is hope for Mexico.

Farm Engineering

"Modern farming in 85 per cent engineering," says Thomas D. Campbell, a big Montana wheat grower. He thinks the farmer of the future will necessarily be a skilled engineer, and the farm hand will be a skilled mechanic.

Farm work tends more and more to be done by machinery. There is amazingly effective machinery available now for nearly all important farm operations, and the mechanism and method are continually improving, thanks to American inventiveness. America is teaching the world how to farm.

Farming is literally the greatest of our industries, Mr. Campbell reminds those who belittle it. During the height of the season it requires more horsepower than any other industry.

As machines are substituted for men, giving more horsepower and less manpower, the men employed must necessarily change in type, and their fortunes much change with them.

"Farming employes will ultimately be paid wages as attractive as those offered to the skilled laborer in the cities. This will be done through the use of power machinery, employment of skilled artisans and the consequent increased output per man power which will result in reducing the labor cost per acre. We have worked out a method of power farming in connection with farm management which takes a great portion of the weather hazard out of farming in the great wheat growing states, especially in those where the rainfall averages some 14 to 15 inches a year. We feel that we can eliminate low grade transient labor which for years has come to the harvest fields. By substituting skilled mechanics we have greatly decreased the production cost per acre."

This kind of progress, applied to agriculture in general, will unquestionably make farming far more congenial in the future than it is today, and far more profitable for those engaged in it. This is a natural and inevitable development which is overlooked by most of those who say there is "no future in farming."

A Horrific Epithet

Lady Astor, formerly of Kentucky, now a prominent member of the British parliament, has won a new distinction. George Lansbury, Labor member, called her a "liar," to her face, in a parliamentary debate.

Just how her ladyship reacted to that unaccustomed epithet is not recorded, but the offending member was promptly called to order and asked to withdraw the expression. Whereupon he distinguished himself and the unabridged dictionary by apologizing and explaining that the lady, instead of lying, was merely guilty of a "terminological inexactitude."

That was dreadful enough. Thinking it over, a short and ugly word is no worse than two long and ugly words.

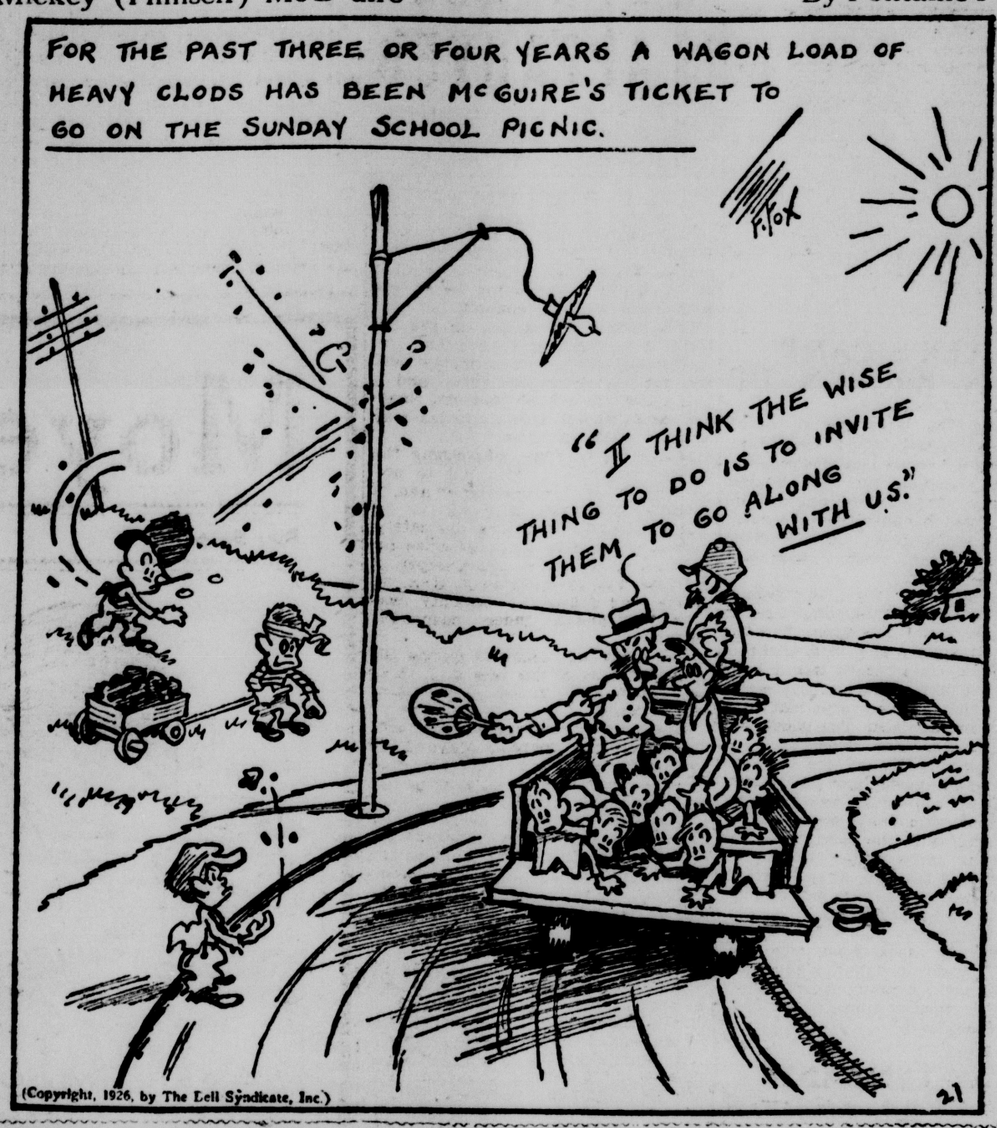
Medicine For The Franc

When the French franc sinks from a fraction over five to the dollar to 37 to the dollar, it is pretty far down, to be sure, as the German mark and Russian ruble went—but look what happened to them. France doesn't want ever to see a million francs paid for a bowl of soup.

The new Briand ministry, straining to keep that poor franc from slipping farther and willing to do almost anything to start it up again toward par, urges ratification of the Berenger-Mellon agreement made at Washington a few months ago for the funding of the French debt.

That is undoubtedly right as far as it goes. Failure to settle with America has driven the franc down by creating general distrust of French finance. Ratification of the agreement, which on the whole is about as favorable to France as can be expected, would strengthen the franc by strengthening faith in France's financial integrity.

Mickey (Himself) McG uire— By Fontaine Fox



NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 21.—Perhaps no character in Manhattan proves so puzzling as Waldo Pierce, a silk-stocinged aristocrat who elects to travel rather unconventional paths. He has wealth, but he might be taken at times for a carrier of the banner.

From his enormous 250-pounds bulk issues an oddly modulated voice. His face is adorned with a shaggy beard, his shoes run out at heel, his shirt held together with a safety pin, tieless and his hat ready to adorn a refuse can.

His epigrams are reminiscent of the brilliant mots of Oscar Wilde. He is a painter—having exhibited on Fifth avenue—a writer and a globe trotter of note. During the war he was among the first of the American ambulance drivers and was a distinguished Harvard football star before that.

He once decided on a steamer a few miles out he didn't really care to go to Europe, so he jumped off and swam ashore. He is not a publicity seeker, and for years has led reporters a merry chase. He merely likes to live as the impulses seize him.

In Paris he is almost as well known as the Trocadero. One night, the story goes, he was complaining in a cafe that he had to pay 10 centimes more than most folk for butter. A sympathetic waiter told him where he could go for better treatment. So he promptly bought the cafe and gave it to the astonished garcos.

His father is an indulgent lumberman in Maine whose purse is always open for any outlandish whim of adventure that may start his son off overnight to a far-flung spot on the outer rim of the world. One summer day he is reported walking up the avenue with his feet clad only in rubbers. "They're comfortable," he explained.

People may smile at Pierce but when they meet him they are astounded at his knowledge of almost every topic. Just now he is reported on his way to a tiny Arab fishing village of Tunis with his wife, Ivy Troutman, a former distinguished actress, who adores him.

Pierce somehow reminds me of a writer of gypsy stories who several years back was swept into a sudden success. He had before that been a $25-a-week fiddler in an East Side cafe. He bought a home on Riverside drive and with his wife and children moved in. The home was luxuriously furnished, but during most of their occupancy they lived in the basement, where they also entertained friends. "We find we are more comfortable there," was the simple explanation of the writer.

I've always been afraid of those elegant mansions for a somewhat similar reason. I don't believe I could keep out of the kitchen. Cholly Knickerbocker, my favorite society spy, tells me the super rich never go near the kitchen.

I've wondered if—Otto Kahn, for instance—hedged about by butlers, pantrymen, second pantrymen and such, ever goes pirooting into the ice box after all the help has gone to the servants' hall. If there's any delicacy that beats the boiled cold potato out of the ice box late at night I've never run across it. Somehow one must be dressed—or rather undressed—for the event. Either in pajamas or the long-tailed night shirt.

A New York salesman writes this: "Before a mirror in Grand Central I saw what passes for a man powder his face, take a lipstick from his pocket and rouge his lips. Several others saw it. And nobody did a thing."

There is doubtless too much of this live and let live spirit in New York.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Aviation to The Fore.
I—Army Air Plans.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Aviation, both military and civil, is coming into a place of increased importance in the United States as a result of bills passed by the session of congress just ended, which were based on the several investigations held during the past year, particularly on that by the president's aircraft board over which Dwight P. Morrow presided.

Three new assistant cabinet officers were authorized by the congress, and definite, constructive aviation programs laid out for the Army, for the Navy, and for commercial aviation. After many struggles and some bitter differences of opinion, the United States, the nation which through the Wright brothers, gave aviation to the world, is again in a way to a place of world leadership in flying. We have some distance to go to make up for lost time, but the basic fabric of law has been laid down to permit steady, accurate development.

The new assistant secretaries of the war and navy departments will be the directors of the flying programs for the national defense. The new assistant secretary of commerce will have charge, under Mr. Hoover, of matters dealing with commercial aviation. Each of the armed service has a definite five year program laid out by congress, providing both for men and for machines, or as they say in the army, for personnel and material.

Congress really had a big task in coordinating all of the information and advice which was laid before it into three constructive laws. The case of army aviation will illustrate how difficult was the task and how faithfully the law-makers worked at it. The army five year aviation program was before the military committees of both house and senate from practically the day congress assembled in December last. The bill finally agreed to and smoothed out in conference between the house and senate was one of the last acts passed before the congress adjourned in July.

Back of all this work in congress were the reports of the Lassiter board, the special select committee of the house which met much of last year, and the president's aircraft board of civilian experts which met last autumn under Mr. Morrow's chairmanship. The episodes of the General Wm. Mitchell court martial also furnished information which was of use.

The resulting army five year program is described by Congressman W. Frank James, of Michigan, its principal author, in a statement in United States Air Service Magazine, as "a compromise, but at the same time a most important step in the right direction for the development of the air forces in our national defense."

EASY FOR THE TRAINED GERMAN MIND

Stowe quietly slipped the paper into his pocket and caught the first train for town. He couldn't read German himself, so he took his find to the office of the German consul. There he met an elderly, spectacled, exceedingly serious-looking under-secretary, who translated the printed and written inscriptions for him.

Then the secretary wanted to know what it was all about. Stowe told him, explaining that the identity of the murdered woman was still a profound mystery—that nobody could guess who or what she was. He described her clothing in some detail.

Pooh! snorted the German. 'Stupid fools that these American policemen are! To the trained mind the whole thing is simplicity itself. By a process of elimination and deduction it is possible to ascertain beyond question exactly what manner of woman this was."

"Could you do it!" asked Strowe hopefully.

"In one little minute!" said the under secretary impressively.

"Go ahead then, please, and do it," begged Strowe.

"Very well," said the German. "My young friend, please follow me closely. This paper shows that some women bought at a store in Leipsic certain small articles, kitchen utensils—a breadknife, a potato-masher, a coffee-grinder. No woman in Germany, unless she was a housewife, would buy such things. So!

Mexican Boosters

Wonders will never cease. The incredible is always breaking out in some new form. Mexico has taken up the American boosting spirit and is full of Babbitts and publicity stunts. This is on the authority of a dispatch from Dallas, Tex., from which vantage-point eagle-eyed newspaper men interpret Mexico to the states.

"The Chamber of Commerce," we read, "has become a real part of Mexican civic life. Scores of smaller communities have their chambers to promote home affairs, much as do towns in the United States, but yet with a sufficiently different character to retain a distinct Mexican atmosphere."

For example, a special train laden with tourists will be taken several hundred miles, into a strange town, where the passengers will be transferred to dilapidated carriages and hauled over unpaved streets, past one-story adobe buildings, to the local chamber of commerce. There they will find an official welcome, translated from Spanish into English, and a reception and dance, in which introductions are waived and the visitors may dance, to good music, with handsome Mexican girls. After prolonged entertainment and manifestations of good will, the guests are returned to their train, and as they move away the orchestra stands on the station platform bidding them good-by with music.

This sort of thing, widely done, will give Americans a more friendly interest in Mexico and Mexicans, quite aside from their business interest. It also challenges admiration. If the slow, backward Mexicans are evolving into a nation of boosters and go-getters, then, the average American will conclude, there is hope for Mexico.

Farm Engineering

"Modern farming in 85 per cent engineering," says Thomas D. Campbell, a big Montana wheat grower. He thinks the farmer of the future will necessarily be a skilled engineer, and the farm hand will be a skilled mechanic.

Farm work tends more and more to be done by machinery. There is amazingly effective machinery available now for nearly all important farm operations, and the mechanism and method are continually improving, thanks to American inventiveness. America is teaching the world how to farm.

Farming is literally the greatest of our industries, Mr. Campbell reminds those who belittle it. During the height of the season it requires more horsepower than any other industry.

As machines are substituted for men, giving more horsepower and less manpower, the men employed must necessarily change in type, and their fortunes much change with them.

"Farming employes will ultimately be paid wages as attractive as those offered to the skilled laborer in the cities. This will be done through the use of power machinery, employment of skilled artisans and the consequent increased output per man power which will result in reducing the labor cost per acre. We have worked out a method of power farming in connection with farm management which takes a great portion of the weather hazard out of farming in the great wheat growing states, especially in those where the rainfall averages some 14 to 15 inches a year. We feel that we can eliminate low grade transient labor which for years has come to the harvest fields. By substituting skilled mechanics we have greatly decreased the production cost per acre."

This kind of progress, applied to agriculture in general, will unquestionably make farming far more congenial in the future than it is today, and far more profitable for those engaged in it. This is a natural and inevitable development which is overlooked by most of those who say there is "no future in farming."

A Horrific Epithet

Lady Astor, formerly of Kentucky, now a prominent member of the British parliament, has won a new distinction. George Lansbury, Labor member, called her a "liar," to her face, in a parliamentary debate.

Just how her ladyship reacted to that unaccustomed epithet is not recorded, but the offending member was promptly called to order and asked to withdraw the expression. Whereupon he distinguished himself and the unabridged dictionary by apologizing and explaining that the lady, instead of lying, was merely guilty of a "terminological inexactitude."

That was dreadful enough. Thinking it over, a short and ugly word is no worse than two long and ugly words.

Medicine For The Franc

When the French franc sinks from a fraction over five to the dollar to 37 to the dollar, it is pretty far down, to be sure, as the German mark and Russian ruble went—but look what happened to them. France doesn't want ever to see a million francs paid for a bowl of soup.

The new Briand ministry, straining to keep that poor franc from slipping farther and willing to do almost anything to start it up again toward par, urges ratification of the Berenger-Mellon agreement made at Washington a few months ago for the funding of the French debt.

That is undoubtedly right as far as it goes. Failure to settle with America has driven the franc down by creating general distrust of French finance. Ratification of the agreement, which on the whole is about as favorable to France as can be expected, would strengthen the franc by strengthening faith in France's financial integrity.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 21.—Perhaps no character in Manhattan proves so puzzling as Waldo Pierce, a silk-stocking aristocrat who elects to travel rather unconventional paths. He has wealth, but he might be taken at times for a carrier of the banner.

From his enormous 250-pounds bulk issues an oddly modulated voice. His face is adorned with a shaggy beard, his shoes run out at heel, his shirt held together with a safety pin, tieless and his hat ready to adorn a refuse can.

His epigrams are reminiscent of the brilliant mots of Oscar Wilde. He is a painter—having exhibited on Fifth avenue—a writer and a globe trotter of note. During the war he was among the first of the American ambulance drivers and was a distinguished Harvard football star before that.

He once decided on a steamer a few miles out he didn't really care to go to Europe, so he jumped off and swam ashore. He is not a publicity seeker, and for years has led reporters a merry chase. He merely likes to live as the impulses seize him.

In Paris he is almost as well known as the Trocadero. One night, the story goes, he was complaining in a cafe that he had to pay 10 centimes more than most folk for butter. A sympathetic waiter told him where he could go for better treatment. So he promptly bought the cafe and gave it to the astonished garcos.

His father is an indulgent lumberman in Maine whose purse is always open for any outlandish whim of adventure that may start his son off overnight to a far-flung spot on the outer rim of the world. One summer day he is reported walking up the avenue with his feet clad only in rubbers. "They're comfortable," he explained.

People may smile at Pierce but when they meet him they are astounded at his knowledge of almost every topic. Just now he is reported on his way to a tiny Arab fishing village of Tunis with his wife, Ivy Troutman, a former distinguished actress, who adores him.

Pierce somehow reminds me of a writer of gypsy stories who several years back was swept into a sudden success. He had before that been a $25-a-week fiddler in an East Side cafe. He bought a home on Riverside drive and with his wife and children moved in. The home was luxuriously furnished, but during most of their occupancy they lived in the basement, where they also entertained friends. "We find we are more comfortable there," was the simple explanation of the writer.

I've always been afraid of those elegant mansions for a somewhat similar reason. I don't believe I could keep out of the kitchen. Cholly Knickerbocker, my favorite society spy, tells me the super rich never go near the kitchen.

I've wondered if—Otto Kahn, for instance—hedged about by butlers, pantrymen, second pantrymen and such, ever goes pirooting into the ice box after all the help has gone to the servants' hall. If there's any delicacy that beats the boiled cold potato out of the ice box late at night I've never run across it. Somehow one must be dressed—or rather undressed—for the event. Either in pajamas or the long-tailed night shirt.

A New York salesman writes this: "Before a mirror in Grand Central I saw what passes for a man powder his face, take a lipstick from his pocket and rouge his lips. Several others saw it. And nobody did a thing."

There is doubtless too much of this live and let live spirit in New York.

Aviation to The Fore.
I—Army Air Plans.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Aviation, both military and civil, is coming into a place of increased importance in the United States as a result of bills passed by the session of congress just ended, which were based on the several investigations held during the past year, particularly on that by the president's aircraft board over which Dwight P. Morrow presided.

Three new assistant cabinet officers were authorized by the congress, and definite, constructive aviation programs laid out for the Army, for the Navy, and for commercial aviation. After many struggles and some bitter differences of opinion, the United States, the nation which through the Wright brothers, gave aviation to the world, is again in a way to a place of world leadership in flying. We have some distance to go to make up for lost time, but the basic fabric of law has been laid down to permit steady, accurate development.

The new assistant secretaries of the war and navy departments will be the directors of the flying programs for the national defense. The new assistant secretary of commerce will have charge, under Mr. Hoover, of matters dealing with commercial aviation. Each of the armed service has a definite five year program laid out by congress, providing both for men and for machines, or as they say in the army, for personnel and material.

Congress really had a big task in coordinating all of the information and advice which was laid before it into three constructive laws. The case of army aviation will illustrate how difficult was the task and how faithfully the law-makers worked at it. The army five year aviation program was before the military committees of both house and senate from practically the day congress assembled in December last. The bill finally agreed to and smoothed out in conference between the house and senate was one of the last acts passed before the congress adjourned in July.

Back of all this work in congress were the reports of the Lassiter board, the special select committee of the house which met much of last year, and the president's aircraft board of civilian experts which met last autumn under Mr. Morrow's chairmanship. The episodes of the General Wm. Mitchell court martial also furnished information which was of use.

The resulting army five year program is described by Congressman W. Frank James, of Michigan, its principal author, in a statement in United States Air Service Magazine, as "a compromise, but at the same time a most important step in the right direction for the development of the air forces in our national defense."

The new program is a compromise from the extreme view of Gen. Mitchell, who wanted a separate flying department, but it is quite closely in accord with the views of the Morrow board. In the matter of administration it creates a new assistant secretary of war in charge of aviation, sets up the air corps of the army on a firm basis, with representation on the general staff, with a major general in charge as chief of the air corps, three brigadier generals to assist him, and an adequate force of officers, ninety per cent of whom, including the chief of the air corps and two of the brigadiers, must be flying officers.

MRS. LEONARD RITES FRIDAY

Succumbs After Observing One Hundredth Birthday.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hannah Leonard, Columbiana county's only centenarian, who died yesterday shortly after noon, will be held Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the late home in Sixth street, in charge of Rev. L. E. Lee, pastor of the First Christian church, and Rev. Armstrong, retired minister. Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Leonard was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stockman, and the oldest of a family of 13—six boys and seven girls. She was a girl when her family moved westward from Pennsylvania into Ohio. Their trip into New Lisbon, now Lisbon and the county seat of Columbiana county, was not a matter of a few hours' ride on the train. It took days and weeks to wend their way through the hills and valleays to the Ohio river, and then down the river in a barge-like craft, mostly hand propelled. She was 14 years old when the family settled in Columbiana county.

Married When 20.

One year later she became a member of the Christian church by immersion in Little Beaver creek by Rev. Harrison Jones, then in charge of the little flock there.

When she was 20 she became the bride of Thomas P. Leonard, the marriage being solemnized in western Pennsylvania by a justice of the peace. No licenses were required at that time. Her husband has been dead for 46 years.

Seven years after her marriage she and her husband went over the stage route to Wellsville and she has lived here since.

Remembers First Train.

In 1852 Mrs. Leonard was a resident here when the most of Wellsville's population stood out in the rain all day to see the first train in from Cleveland on the connecting railroad line that was completed that year. They were rewarded by the sight of a small engine and caboose.

The blood of Quaker stock flowed through Mrs. Leonard's veins, and, consequently she did not believe in war, although 14 of her great-grandsons fought for Uncle Sam in the World conflict.

She lived in the atmosphere of hostilities during the Mexican conflict, the Civil war, the Spanish war and the World war. Of the 14 youths of her line who shouldered guns in 1918, one lost his life—Earl McLain, oldest grandson of her daughter, Mrs. Ellen McLain.

Her views on warfare and bloodshed were undisturbed during the excitement that accompanied the farthest northern foray of Morgan, "The Raider," and his capture on the Crubaugh farm, eight miles north of Wellsville. That was in July of 1863.

Cooked for Union Soldiers.

probably the most outstanding occurrence to her in connection with Morgan's visit was the fact that she and other housewives of the day baked and cooked for several days for the union forces that tented in Creek Bottom prior to Morgan's capture.

Mrs. Leonard has four children living: Mrs. Elizabeth Myers, of Cleveland, the oldest; Mrs. Hannah Polyblank, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Ellen McLain, both of whom are with their mother now, and Charles Leonard, of Cleveland, sheriff of Columbiana county in 1903 and 1904.

NO FIREWORKS REQUEST FILED

Council Asked Not to Permit St. Rocco Observance.

Asserting that "it is to the best interests of the town and that the citizens demand it," the Wesleyan Bible class of the First Methodist Episcopal church last night asked council to refuse to grant a permit for the observance of St. Rocco's day by Italian residents of the city.

The request was made in a letter composed by the class, said to include 100 members, and signed by Holly M. Kessell, president.

Petitioning council "to decline to grant a permit for the annual demonstration by Italian people in honor of St. Rocco," the Wesleyan class referred to the intense feeling at the time of the slaying of Patrolman James Kenney. The class charged that the observance is "actuated as a commercial proposition for certain individuals."

Council received the letter and placed it on file, debating for a short time as to who had authority to grant or refuse the permission, the matter reaching a settlement when City Solicitor Luccock pointed out that primarily a decision is in the hands of council by virtue of an ordinance enacted in 1910.

Question of authority was raised by Mayor W. L. Fogo who anounced that he had already granted Italian residents permission to hold the observance and asserted that if it was not his place to do so he wanted to know about it.

He prefaced his request with a few remarks. He pointed out that several hundred people can be seen every other day or so watching City Industrial League baseball games at Central park.

He further explained that crowds sometimes reaching into the thousands derive pleasure from football games at Central park.

Continuing, he called to mind how, in previous observances by Italians in honor of St. Rocco, the breaking of an aerial light over Central park revealed hundreds crowded on the hillside, countless automobiles surrounding the park and two or three thousand crowded in the park.

He asserted that he had no more than a nominal interest in baseball, was not a football enthusiast, nor did he derive any untold satisfaction out of fireworks, but, nevertheless, he pointed out, other people did and if it was their pleasure to go to ball games or fireworks, it was inconsistent to legislate against some one else's activities.

At the same time, he explained, he had warned against the practice of exploding bombs daily for a week or so previous to the actual celebration as was done last year and he suggested that more set pieces and fewer noise making devices be used.

Although President Clyde Baker called for councilmanic action immediately in order that those promoting the observance could know how to act, solons adjourned and it is likely that nothing further will be done until the next session.

WALKER'S 'CAMP' IS BROKEN UP

Heeding the injunction to wreck what was termed "Hell's Half Acre, Camp No. 2," located on the property formerly occupied by the Walker Sewer Pipe Co., overlooking the Ohio river midway between East Liverpool and Wellsville, those who operated the camp silently folded their tent and moved away.

Sheriff George Wright and Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter made a trip to the camp site again Tuesday night. All remaining to indicate there had been a camp there was a dirty plank used as a table and the whitewashed line of sewer pipe laid in a circle about the place. The plank was shoved into the Ohio river.

When Sheriff Wright and his raiders swooped down upon the camp shortly before midnight last Saturday, sleepy-eyed attendants were told to break camp with the dawn, also that the raiding party would make a return visit. When the second visit to the camp was made there was no tent, and no one about the place.

"We propose to visit this spot several times a week from now on," Sheriff Wright declared Wednesday, "and there will be no more camp there as long as we can prevent one from being established."

LOT DEFENDANT TO FILE ANSWER

Cecil H. Taylor, defendant in two actions pending in court, all growing out of a lot sale in Wellsville several months ago, has been granted leave by Judge William H. Spence to file his answer by July 31. In the case of M. K. Duty, of Wellsville, against Taylor, an injunction was sought, and on whose petition a temporary restraining order was issued April 12 when the petition was filed, and in the case of Flay Clapsaddle, of East Liverpool, money and a restraining order were also sought.

Duty claims those interests who put the lot sale on is indebted to him for work and labor, and Clapsaddle has a claim against the defendant for the same cause. The restraining order was for the purpose of preventing any distribution of funds that were the result of the sale of lots by an intensified advertising campaign.

1927 BUDGET IS APPROVED

City's Estimates Will be Submitted to County Auditor.

City Auditor Fred Eckfeld's budget estimate for 1927, calling for approximately $94,000, which will be turned in to the county auditor, was approved last night by council.

The budget is compiled on the basis of a valuation of $10,074,150.

Although the municipal budget will cut the tax rate about three and a half mills, the school district's financial needs, as well as state levies, may bring it back up again.

Mayor W. L. Fogo, addressing the solons, admonished them not to permit the rate to become higher and, if possible, slice some of it off.

An ordinance directing the safety-service department to readvertise for bids for a fire truck and pumper of not less than 33 horsepower, S. A. E., rating, and 500 gallon capacity, was passed by solons under suspended rules.

Seven old bids, received during the administration of the late J. J. Grafton, which were never acted upon, will be returned.

Objecting to a 10-year contract with the Ohio Power company, Mayor Fogo cautioned council to review their electric light needs before completing the deal for municipal current.

Although favoring back street lights, the mayor also declared that the city should, if possible, light the white way, burning the entire system up until 11 o'clock and then switching half of the lights off.

"Light is the best police protection," asserted Mayor Fogo.

The use of saws and shears on trees throughout the city, which are at present preventing the spread of illumination from street lights, was recommended by the mayor.

Auditor Eckfeld's report for June showed the following balances: General fund, $162.25 overdrawn; safety, $174.19 overdrawn; health, $478.48; service, $1,167.95; water, $1,645.44; cemetery, $1,868.34; library, $320.86; special water, $29,954.62; gasoline tax, $3.996; auto licenses, $4,216.03; cemetery trust, $414.77; firemen's indemnity, $192.52; sinking fund depository, $34,494.

Councilman Ted Swearingen, acting for W. B. Nicholson, as chairman of the street and light committee, called council's attention to a garage built into Beech street over the regular property line, it is said.

The owner of the garage was forced to extend the garage into the street in order to get his car into it. Later, it was said, an adjoining property owner pushed his fence back on a line with the garage.

Solons pointed out that if all of the property owners along the street act likewise, the city is liable to lose some property.

The street and light committee was instructed to investigate the situation.

MRS. LEONARD RITES FRIDAY

Succumbs After Observing One Hundredth Birthday.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hannah Leonard, Columbiana county's only centenarian, who died yesterday shortly after noon, will be held Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the late home in Sixth street, in charge of Rev. L. E. Lee, pastor of the First Christian church, and Rev. Armstrong, retired minister. Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Leonard was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stockman, and the oldest of a family of 13—six boys and seven girls. She was a girl when her family moved westward from Pennsylvania into Ohio. Their trip into New Lisbon, now Lisbon and the county seat of Columbiana county, was not a matter of a few hours' ride on the train. It took days and weeks to wend their way through the hills and valleys to the Ohio river, and then down the river in a barge-like craft, mostly hand propelled. She was 14 years old when the family settled in Columbiana county.

Married When 20.

One year later she became a member of the Christian church by immersion in Little Beaver creek by Rev. Harrison Jones, then in charge of the little flock there.

When she was 20 she became the bride of Thomas P. Leonard, the marriage being solemnized in western Pennsylvania by a justice of the peace. No licenses were required at that time. Her husband has been dead for 46 years.

Seven years after her marriage she and her husband went over the stage route to Wellsville and she has lived here since.

Remembers First Train.

In 1852 Mrs. Leonard was a resident here when the most of Wellsville's population stood out in the rain all day to see the first train in from Cleveland on the connecting railroad line that was completed that year. They were rewarded by the sight of a small engine and caboose.

The blood of Quaker stock flowed through Mrs. Leonard's veins, and, consequently she did not believe in war, although 14 of her great-grandsons fought for Uncle Sam in the World conflict.

She lived in the atmosphere of hostilities during the Mexican conflict, the Civil war, the Spanish war and the World war. Of the 14 youths of her line who shouldered guns in 1918, one lost his life—Earl McLain, oldest grandson of her daughter, Mrs. Ellen McLain.

Her views on warfare and bloodshed were undisturbed during the excitement that accompanied the farthest northern foray of Morgan, "The Raider," and his capture on the Crubaugh farm, eight miles north of Wellsville. That was in July of 1863.

Cooked for Union Soldiers.

probably the most outstanding occurrence to her in connection with Morgan's visit was the fact that she and other housewives of the day baked and cooked for several days for the union forces that tented in Creek Bottom prior to Morgan's capture.

Mrs. Leonard has four children living: Mrs. Elizabeth Myers, of Cleveland, the oldest; Mrs. Hannah Polyblank, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Ellen McLain, both of whom are with their mother now, and Charles Leonard, of Cleveland, sheriff of Columbiana county in 1903 and 1904.

NO FIREWORKS REQUEST FILED

Council Asked Not to Permit St. Rocco Observance.

Asserting that "it is to the best interests of the town and that the citizens demand it," the Wesleyan Bible class of the First Methodist Episcopal church last night asked council to refuse to grant a permit for the observance of St. Rocco's day by Italian residents of the city.

The request was made in a letter composed by the class, said to include 100 members, and signed by Holly M. Kessell, president.

Petitioning council "to decline to grant a permit for the annual demonstration by Italian people in honor of St. Rocco," the Wesleyan class referred to the intense feeling at the time of the slaying of Patrolman James Kenney. The class charged that the observance is "actuated as a commercial proposition for certain individuals."

Council received the letter and placed it on file, debating for a short time as to who had authority to grant or refuse the permission, the matter reaching a settlement when City Solicitor Luccock pointed out that primarily a decision is in the hands of council by virtue of an ordinance enacted in 1910.

Question of authority was raised by Mayor W. L. Fogo who anounced that he had already granted Italian residents permission to hold the observance and asserted that if it was not his place to do so he wanted to know about it.

He prefaced his request with a few remarks. He pointed out that several hundred people can be seen every other day or so watching City Industrial League baseball games at Central park.

He further explained that crowds sometimes reaching into the thousands derive pleasure from football games at Central park.

Continuing, he called to mind how, in previous observances by Italians in honor of St. Rocco, the breaking of an aerial light over Central park revealed hundreds crowded on the hillside, countless automobiles surrounding the park and two or three thousand crowded in the park.

He asserted that he had no more than a nominal interest in baseball, was not a football enthusiast, nor did he derive any untold satisfaction out of fireworks, but, nevertheless, he pointed out, other people did and if it was their pleasure to go to ball games or fireworks, it was inconsistent to legislate against some one else's activities.

At the same time, he explained, he had warned against the practice of exploding bombs daily for a week or so previous to the actual celebration as was done last year and he suggested that more set pieces and fewer noise making devices be used.

Although President Clyde Baker called for councilmanic action immediately in order that those promoting the observance could know how to act, solons adjourned and it is likely that nothing further will be done until the next session.

WALKER'S 'CAMP' IS BROKEN UP

Heeding the injunction to wreck what was termed "Hell's Half Acre, Camp No. 2," located on the property formerly occupied by the Walker Sewer Pipe Co., overlooking the Ohio river midway between East Liverpool and Wellsville, those who operated the camp silently folded their tent and moved away.

Sheriff George Wright and Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter made a trip to the camp site again Tuesday night. All remaining to indicate there had been a camp there was a dirty plank used as a table and the whitewashed line of sewer pipe laid in a circle about the place. The plank was shoved into the Ohio river.

When Sheriff Wright and his raiders swooped down upon the camp shortly before midnight last Saturday, sleepy-eyed attendants were told to break camp with the dawn, also that the raiding party would make a return visit. When the second visit to the camp was made there was no tent, and no one about the place.

"We propose to visit this spot several times a week from now on," Sheriff Wright declared Wednesday, "and there will be no more camp there as long as we can prevent one from being established."

LOT DEFENDANT TO FILE ANSWER

Cecil H. Taylor, defendant in two actions pending in court, all growing out of a lot sale in Wellsville several months ago, has been granted leave by Judge William H. Spence to file his answer by July 31. In the case of M. K. Duty, of Wellsville, against Taylor, an injunction was sought, and on whose petition a temporary restraining order was issued April 12 when the petition was filed, and in the case of Flay Clapsaddle, of East Liverpool, money and a restraining order were also sought.

Duty claims those interests who put the lot sale on is indebted to him for work and labor, and Clapsaddle has a claim against the defendant for the same cause. The restraining order was for the purpose of preventing any distribution of funds that were the result of the sale of lots by an intensified advertising campaign.

A varied program of music and dramatics will be given.

City's Estimates Will be Submitted to County Auditor.

City Auditor Fred Eckfeld's budget estimate for 1927, calling for approximately $94,000, which will be turned in to the county auditor, was approved last night by council.

The budget is compiled on the basis of a valuation of $10,074,150.

Although the municipal budget will cut the tax rate about three and a half mills, the school district's financial needs, as well as state levies, may bring it back up again.

listed men, including 500 flying cadets. It contemplates 1800 serviceable airplanes and as many airships and balloons as may be required for auxiliary purposes and training. One of the assistants to the chief of the air corps will have charge of material and supply.

The development of the army program is designed to work in harmony with the business of airplane building as an industry, so that as time goes on we may have a more substantial industry furnishing planes and supplies to both military and civil aviation, and available for emergency development in case of war. In matters of engineering and design, the officers of the air corps will, it is planned, work in harmony with civilian inventors and manufacturers, to keep the United States in the forefront of modern development of better and safer airplanes, as well as more durable and useful machines for all purposes.

Sound Forward Step.

The new five year program does not run into any vast expense but will direct the expenditures for army aviation along definite, budgetted lines. The money which congress does appropriate, from year to year, will be for a known and well-charted program, not for fads and notions as they crop up. All of the studies and investigations which have led to a five year program, while they took time and created some bitterness, have resulted in a definite line of procedure, constructive at each step, and economical in operation. Men like Mr. James, who has headed the house sub-committee on army aviation since 1919 without ever being able to pass a single bill until 1926, feel that their studies and labors have at length been rewarded by a sound forward step.

President Coolidge, who appointed the president's aircraft board in 1925 to study the whole program of air defenses, after Secretary of War Davis had recommended such a step, promptly signed the James bill, and named for the position of assistant secretary of war in charge of aviation F. Trubee Davison of New York, a young man who was in the flying service in the World war. Mr. Davison is a son of the late Henry P. Davison, who was a member of the firm of J P. Morgan & Company and was chairman of the American Red Cross during the war. The younger Davison has been a member of the New York legislature, an organizer of the Crime commission which has sought ways and means of eradicating crime in our cities, and is devoting his life to public service.

General Mason M. Patrick becomes chief of the air corps, a post for which he is well fitted because, although an army officer before flying was invented, he qualified as a pilot when 59 years old, an almost unprecedented accomplishment. He has been at the head of the army aviation prior to the passage of the new act, and the five year program follows many of his suggestions.

Additional training facilities to bring the list of flying officers up to the strength required for a real air force are being provided, and by the end of five years the air corps will have no difficulty providing the trained experts for every phase of its work. The ten per cent of non-flying officers allowed gives room for such technical non-flyers as may be needed to complete the work of the corps.

Miss Sylvia Shay Becomes Bride of Rev. J. H. Smith

A pretty wedding took place this afternoon in the Orchard Grove Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, when Miss Sylvia Ethelyan Shay, daughter of Mrs. Morcy Shay of Riverview street, became the bride of Rev. Jay Holmes Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith of Canton, O.

The church was elaborately decorated with palms, ferns,, summer flowers and white streamers. Previous to the ceremony Oliver Johnson sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." Mrs. A. M. Burns played Handel's, "Largo." Mrs. Foster Brindley sang "Oh! Promise Me."

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, the bridal party took their places. The ring service was read by Rev. S. Lee-Whiteman, Sr., pastor of the Orchard Grove church, assisted by Rev. W. S. Speaker, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Smithfield. Miss Anna Grace McCoy, a niece of the bride, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mont McCoy of New Sheffield, Pa., served as flower girl.

The bride was gowned in ivory satin crepe, with pearl trimming. She wore a veil of tulle, and a strand of pearls was her adornment. Her shower bouquet was of bride's roses. Previous to her marriage she was engaged as a bookkeeper at the Potters' National bank.

The maid of honor was Miss Eva Marie Smith of Canton, a sister of the bridegroom. She was gowned in orchid georgette embroidered with silver. Her corsage was of rosebuds.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Mt. Union college with the class of '25, and took a post graduate course in the theological seminary at Louisville, Ky. He is assistant pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church in Louisville, Ky.

His best man was Rev. Bruce Walker, pastor of the Marion Heights Methodist Episcopal church of Youngstown. The ushers were George Noblock, Fred Pollock, U. S. Cunningham and Fred Neiser.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother in Riverview street, where a wedding dinner was served. The bride's table was centered with a large wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and groom. At this time Oliver Johnson sang, "At Dawning."

Rev. and Mrs. Smith left for a honeymoon to be spent in Canton and Cincinnati. They will make their future home in Louisville, Ky.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eck of New Waterford; Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson of Martin's Ferry; Miss Anna McCarty of Sewickley; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith and daughter, Betty of Canton; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beck of Youngstown; Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Speaker of Smithfield; Rev. Girls! Whiten Skin With Lemon Juice

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

HERRIOT READY TO QUIT PARIS PREMIER JOB

Ministerial Declaration Will be Cabinet Valedictory.

48-HOUR TENURE

Franc Hits New Low, But Shows Signs of Recovery.

PARIS, July 31.—The Herriot ministry will resign tonight, after its ministerial declaration of policy has been read in the chamber of deputies, according to a report circulated this afternoon by the semi-official French News Agency.

The government, it is stated, has reached the conclusion that it cannot possibly secure a vote of confidence and will offer its ministerial declaration as a valedictory, after a tenure of less than 48 hours.

Expect Drastic Action.

Showing greater power of recovery than it has for almost a fortnight the franc, after opening at 50.05 to the dollar, a low record for all time, had climbed to 46.44 at noon today.

The relative steadiness of the franc is ascribed to the widespread belief that something drastic in the direction of relieving the French financial chaos would be done before the day was over.

One of the possibilities was that a national union government headed by former President Raymond Poincare would be formed. This government would have the support of a substantial and steady majority in parliament.

Another possibility was the establishment of a "committee of safety" independent of parliament. This was being urged today by a bloc of some 250 deputies.

Both the Echo De Paris, which is a militarist organ, and the Nationalist L'Avenir hinted guardedly of a possible revolution if Herriot, "representing the party of disorder," remains in power long.

Americans Are Attacked.

PARIS, July 21.—American sightseers on a bus enroute to Montmartre were attacked today by about 100 residents who, it is claimed, resented the loud talk of the visitors.

The Americans fought back and were holding their own fairly well when the police arrived.

Passengers in another bus also were booed and hissed, a crowd reminding the tourists of the attack in the open-air restaurant atop Montmartre yesterday, calling out, "You 'll receive the same reception as yesterday."

Numerous minor altercations have been reported. Until today resentment against Americans and other foreigners had been confined to hooting and catcalls.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 21. — Industrial stock prices were depressed as the result of liberal selling of the speculative leaders in the early trading today, and moderate losses were scored by the active motor, steel, oil and specialty stocks. Selling was attributed mostly to professional sources, in recognition of the weakened technical position of the market following a week or more of uninterrupted advances in prices. Call money renewals were quoted at 4 per cent.

Selling concentrated on Hudson Motors, General Motors and other spectacular leaders in the latest advance in the market. Hudson sold down 3¼ point at 63½; General Motors lost 2 points; Mack Trucks 1; Baldwin Locomotive 1½; United States Steel and other active industrials sold fractionally lower. Weakness in the oil stocks continued, selling being induced by the large increase last week in the daily production of crude oil.

Offerings of industrial stocks were well absorbed, and prices rallied in the second hour. With the exception of a few of the southwestern issues, the railroad stocks were inactive and quiet. Coppers were firm.

Dempsey-Tunney prize fight in Chicago.

He predicts a bigger "gate," which means more money than was ever paid for any prize fight in the history of the world.

The Dempsey-Carpentier fight drew a crowd of 80,000 that paid $1,600,000 for their pleasure. Mr. Rickard expects Chicago to do better, also that Chicago will appreciate the great honor, as it should.

WE ARE a rich people. Twenty-eight thousand, nine hundred and eighty-nine banks in the United States have deposits of $54,000,000,000. That sounds like a great deal, but it is only $450 apiece for 100,000,000 Americans, of whom many are worth $100,000, many others worth $1,000,000 many worth ten, twenty, thirty millions, some worth $100,000,000 and a good deal more. This is a rich country, and we are getting richer every day, but with no particular plan visible.

THIRTEEN, burned to death in a mountain inn at Haines Falls, N. Y., cannot be identified and will go to the graves with religious rites of two kinds. Monday, Roman Catholic rites were celebrated. Yesterday, Protestant rites were added. If there happens to be a Buddhist, Mohammedan or Confucian among the 13, he will have to take his chance.

SAM WING, accomplished gunman on the On Leong tong, went to the electric chair, but first gave orders for burial service, both Chinese and Christian. He was never a Christian, but told his friends that the electric chair, being unknown to Chinese gods, they might have no provision for a corpse from that source.

Christians having invented the electric chair, doubtless have a God that would know what to do with the remains, so the thoughtful Chinese decided on both religions for the funeral service.

WE SPEND our lives watching men and women passing through a door labeled "Death," and we all have theories, but nobody, apart from faith, has any knowledge of what is on the other side of the door. By and by our time comes, and we go.

"NEWARK gunmen kill cashier, flee with $13,000." That's the latest; the average is half a dozen such murders a day.

MIKE McERLINE, gangster, brought from Chicago to jail to face the judge, insists upon delivering a long, very drunken speech, expressing his low opinion of all judges.

This indicates that prohibition is not a 100 per cent success, at least in Chicago jails.

NEWS about one kind of "bad business" from the west will please everybody. The jail in the Yellowstone National park has been closed for lack of "trade." It stood there 32 years, with never a customer, and now it is torn down.

Two Autos Damaged In Crash in Which Street Car Figures

Two automobiles, one owned by the Columbiana County Finance company and the other by Wilbur Enochs, Maplewood, were damaged in a collision with a west-bound Steubenville-East Liverpool interurban car on West Sixth street at 1:45 o'clock this morning.

The accident occurred when Enochs, who had parked his car at one side of the street, attempted to pull into the middle of the thoroughfare, failing to notice the approach of the street car. His machine was crushed against the Overland coupe owned by the finance company.

The front wheels of Enoch's auto were locked beneath the front vestibule of the street car and the crew was compelled to jack up one end of the street car to release it. Traffic along the street was tied up for nearly half an hour. Enochs was unhurt.

The street car was in charge of Motorman George Culp, Wellsville, and Conductor Harvey Allison, East Liverpool.

Florence Allen Releases Cleveland Dems From Pledge

Forest City Republicans Endorse Myers Y. Cooper for Nomination for Governor.

CLEVELAND, July 21.—Judge Florence Allen has released the Cuyahoga county Democrats from their pledge to support her for the senatorial nomination.

At the same time, local Republicans endorsed Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, for governor.

These two developments in the political situation here were believed today to have an important effect in the state campaign.

In a letter to W. B. Gongwer, county chairman, Judge Allen explained that she took her action because of the "perplexing situation" caused by the entry of former Senator Atlee Pomerene into the senatorial race.

The Republicans picked Cooper to head their ticket because he is likely to help their county ticket most, Maurice Maschke said.

At the Democratic ward leaders' meeting last night "slate ballots" were distributed on which both Judge Allen's name and Pomerene's had been printed. Next to Pomerene's name was a note: "Senator Pomerene and this organization are friendly."

Other state candidates whose names appear on the slate included James A. Reynolds, Cleveland, Lieutenant-governor; Stephen M. Young, Cleveland, secretary-of-state; John W. Pattison, and Cincinnati. state treasurer.

The Republicans gave endorsement at their meeting last night to the following:

Henry L. Emmerson, Cleveland, ieutenant-governor; Clarence J. Brown, Blanchester, secretary of state; Guy C. Davis, Findlay, state treasurer; H. H. Griswold, Chardon, attorney general; Frank B. Willis, United States senator; Edward S. Matthias of Van Wert and Thomas A. Jones of Jackson, supreme court.

Sandles Attacks Donahey.

COLUMBUS, July 21.—Declaring the Democratic party unafraid of grand juries, and urging Governor Donahey to permit Attorney General Crabbe to make a special probe into the alleged graft attempts in connection with the selection of a site for the Northern Ohio feeble-minded institution, A. P. Sandles, Ottawa, Democratic candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, today attacked the governor in a letter.

The letter declared the governor's actions and the silence maintained by the accused threatened the entire Democratic party at the coming primary and called upon the governor to "forget your third term ambitions and save your state and friends embarrassment by granting the attorney general's request before primary day."

Leland Thompson Purchases Building in Fourth Street.

Purchase of the E. J. Smith's three-story brick business and apartment building in East Fourth street, east of the Presbyterian church, by Leland Thompson, was announced today. The consideration was not made public.

The first floor of the structure is occupied by the city water works department and an electrical supply shop. The second and third floors are living apartments. The new owner will assume possession of the property August 1.

The building was purchased by Smith about three years ago from Mrs. Harry Surles. It housed the down town postoffice for many years before it moved into the larger quarters in what is now the Moose temple.

Thompson also owns the adjoining three-story brick building occupied by the Ohio Power company and the business property in Washington street housing the Smith & Phillips Music company.

"George the Greek"

Police Chief Gillen announced these results:

Was in Youngstown.

At 9 o'clock Psilias was in Youngstown, according to George Morris, of Youngstown, who joined the suspected man there. Psilias and Morris drove to Niles, reaching there at 9:30 o'clock.

At Niles they picked up Harry Andrackos, according to a story Andrackos told police, and which was verified by Andrackos' wife. From Niles they drove on to Warren, reaching Warren at 9:45 o'clock.

At that point, track of Psilias was lost until 11 o'clock, an hour and 15 minutes later. The trail was picked up at a Warren confectionery store, where the proprietress, known only as "Mary" claimed she saw Psilias at that time.

Seen By Detectives.

She also declared, police say, that two Warren city detectives were in the store at the time Psilias was there. Later, these men reported that they saw a big automobile of the make Psilias is said to have driven standing outside the store.

At 11 o'clock, police say, Psilias returned to Youngstown and remained there for an hour and a half, driving to Niles, which he reached at 12:30. At that time, the police say, he put up his car in the garage of the Hunt Motor Car company.

Shortly after that he registered at the Lincoln hotel in Warren and remained there until 9:30 o'clock Friday morning, according to Chief Gillen.

"Jimmy" Lamont Held.

CLEVELAND, O., July 21.—"Warren Jimmy" Lamont who surrendered to the police with the words "I see in the papers that you are looking for me" was being held by police here today who planned to question him closely again in connection with the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher.

Lamont claimed he was in Cleveland at the time of the Canton murder but Patrolman August Beckman said he saw Lamont driving a new Chevrolet car in that city last Thursday or Friday.

A bloodstained new Chevrolet car was found wrecked near Lisbon, Ohio.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the late residence.

Up until about a year and a half ago he lived in Armstrong lane, Park boulevard. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Elizabeth, five years old, and one stepson, George E. Willshaw.

Psialias Released

Witness' Name Made Public.

After viewing Psialias, Deville said he was not certain that he was the man he saw at the wheel of an automobile near the Mellett home, although the prisoner "resembled him somewhat."

Deville came here with the understanding that his name would not be made public, but learned upon his arrival at the county jail that his name had been broadcast.

Detective Ora Slater, special investigator, and Police Lieut. Peter Conners, of the local homicide squad, said that fear of vengeance from the gang that killed Mellett might have influenced the witness in his identification effort after he learned that his name had been revealed.

Lengel Resumes Probe

CANTON, O., July 21.—Authorities determined to solve the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher who laid down his life for the cause of righteousness, were reported speeding back to Canton from a futile trip to Pittsburgh today without a single, definite clew to the slaying but resolved to turn the guns of sleuthdom against the walls of mystery that have surrounded the crime.

Meantime the underworld of Canton was restlessly stirred by an announcement that Chief of Police S. A. Lengel had held an harmonious two hours' conference with Safety Director Earl Hexamer and had promised to call in the lords of Canton's jungle district and subject them to a further, severe grilling.

This latter fact was looked upon today as one of the biggest developments in the case. Hexamer reported that the chief declared that he was more than willing to go into the matter as deeply as those conducting the probe wished.

He had been previously told by Hexamer to attend to police matters and Slater would have complete charge of the probe. The reconciliation between the two forces was greeted with much accord by those most interested in the probe, who declared that it was the fore-runner of a complete agreement wherein the police department and Slater's forces would soon be working hand in hand.

Mellett's Spirit Carries On.

CANTON, July 21. — The spirit of Don R. Mellett is carrying on.

One of the fearless publisher's campaigns was for the removal of Canton Civil Service Commissioners John W. Burris and Price Janson.

Common Pleas Judge Charles Krichbaum today announced that if attorneys could agree on certain technical facts he would probably hear arguments for the dissolution of a restraining order granted to Commissioner Janson after George Beresford, policeman friend of Mellett's, had filed charges against the commissioners.

The hearing, it was said, will be another important move by Mellett's attorney, H. C. Pontius, in an effort to oust the two commissioners who voted for the reinstatement of Chief of Police Lengel.

Additional Customs Patrolmen on Duty at Borders.

OHIO WATCHED

Forty-five Agents Plan to Check Canadian Flow.

WASHINGTON, July 21. — Allocation of reinforcements to complete the wall of men and guns erected about the United States to check liquor and narcotics smuggling was announced by the treasury today.

Practically every district excepting New Orleans, New Jersey, and North and South Carolina were given additional customs patrolmen. These districts are adequately protected by the coast guard and prohibition service, according to Frank Dow, acting prohibition chief.

The principal reinforcement detail went to the Ohio-Michigan district which was given 45 men. Many of these will form a special patrol along the Detroit river where a big quantity of Canadian liquor crosses into the United States.

New York city was given a patrol of 34 men to watch incoming ships for liquor shipments and merchandise smugglers, and to combat smugglers who succeed in getting their goods through the coast guard blockade off Long Island.

Eighteen men were assigned to northern New York, Buffalo and Rochester to combat liquor shipments over the Canadian border.

ture of 98 degrees was recorded late yesterday afternoon, breaking a July heat record of 55 years. On August 6, 1918, the mercury climbed to 100 degrees here.

Many points in the state today reported prospects of still hotter weather. East Liverpool, which had a high mark of 98 decrees yesterday, had 78 degrees at 8 a. m. today, which was four points higher than the mark at that hour yesterday morning.

Kentucky Suffers.

Further southward the heat was greater as was apparent by reports from Kentucky, where marks well over the century point were registered. Owensboro, Ky., had 105 and Paducah 104.

Newark and Middletown had 98 degrees, while Wellsville unofficially reported 100 2-5 degrees. Other high readings were Marion, Lima and Dayton, 96; Wooster, 97; Akron, Bowling Green and Cincinnati, 95, and Coshocton, 91 1-2.

To the six heat victims reported Monday have been added nine more. Loriers Ford, 11, was drowned at Madison-on-the-Lake, near Cleveland; Ellis Neal, 44, died of the heat at Akron; Brant B. Albin, 45, was drowned and Harvey Rollins, Jr., 5, died of the heat at Dayton; Samuel Blumberg was probably fatally hurt at Middletown when he struck his head on the concrete bottom of the municipal swimming pool; at Newton Falls, Robert Preto, 28, was believed to have been crazed by the heat and killed three members of his family and himself, and at Bowling Green Mrs. William Potts, 67, dropped dead on the street overcome by the heat.

Seek Relief Along the Lake Front.

CHICAGO, July 21.—With 24 dead in Chicago and suburbs as a result of the record-breaking heat wave of the past two days, relief in the form of thundershowers was promised by the weather bureau today.

The mercury has hovered around the 90 mark since Sunday. Monday a maximum temperature of 94.2 made that day the hottest July 19 in the history of the local weather bureau. It claimed 14 lives. Yesterday the mercury climbed to 95 and 10 more persons succumbed to the heat.

The present torrid wave has been general over the middle western states. It is traveling slowly from west to east.

It was estimated that one million persons, a third of the population of Chicago, sought relief along the 30 miles of lake front yesterday. The beaches were crowded from dawn to dusk, many persons remaining there throughout the night.

Five of the heat victims were babies less than a year old. Hospitals are jammed with cases of prostration. One man dropped dead after playing 18 holes of golf in the hot sun.

WEST'S SHOWS DRAW THRONG

Carnival Patrons Have Gala Time at Patterson Field.

Another immense crowd thronged the midway last evening of the West's Wonder Shows, which is playing a week's engagement at Patterson field, under auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Spanish-American War Veterans.

All of the dozen or more shows and the eight rides were well patronized. A special matinee for the school children this afternoon was also well attended.

Among the attractions this year is "Lady Fanchon," which is advertised as the "world's greatest educated horse." This show, in charge of Col. William Littleton, is now enroute to California where Lady Fanchon will appear in the movies. Rescue of a baby by the horse from a burning building is one of the features of this act.

Other offerings are the Dixieland Minstrels, wild animal show, St. Moritz ice skaters, Jolly Bonita, Bug House, Lula-Lee, circus side show and others.

Concerts by two bands were given at the carnival grounds during the evening.

HERRIOT READY TO QUIT PARIS PREMIER JOB

Ministerial Declaration Will be Cabinet Valedictory.

48-HOUR TENURE

Franc Hits New Low, But Shows Signs of Recovery.

PARIS, July 31.—The Herriot ministry will resign tonight, after its ministerial declaration of policy has been read in the chamber of deputies, according to a report circulated this afternoon by the semi-official French News Agency.

The government, it is stated, has reached the conclusion that it cannot possibly secure a vote of confidence and will offer its ministerial declaration as a valedictory, after a tenure of less than 48 hours.

Expect Drastic Action.

Showing greater power of recovery than it has for almost a fortnight the franc, after opening at 50.05 to the dollar, a low record for all time, had climbed to 46.44 at noon today.

The relative steadiness of the franc is ascribed to the widespread belief that something drastic in the direction of relieving the French financial chaos would be done before the day was over.

One of the possibilities was that a national union government headed by former President Raymond Poincare would be formed. This government would have the support of a substantial and steady majority in parliament.

Another possibility was the establishment of a "committee of safety" independent of parliament. This was being urged today by a bloc of some 250 deputies.

Both the Echo De Paris, which is a militarist organ, and the Nationalist L'Avenir hinted guardedly of a possible revolution if Herriot, "representing the party of disorder," remains in power long.

Americans Are Attacked.

PARIS, July 21.—American sightseers on a bus enroute to Montmartre were attacked today by about 100 residents who, it is claimed, resented the loud talk of the visitors.

The Americans fought back and were holding their own fairly well when the police arrived.

Passengers in another bus also were booed and hissed, a crowd reminding the tourists of the attack in the open-air restaurant atop Montmartre yesterday, calling out, "You 'll receive the same reception as yesterday."

Numerous minor altercations have been reported. Until today resentment against Americans and other foreigners had been confined to hooting and catcalls.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 21. — Industrial stock prices were depressed as the result of liberal selling of the speculative leaders in the early trading today, and moderate losses were scored by the active motor, steel, oil and specialty stocks. Selling was attributed mostly to professional sources, in recognition of the weakened technical position of the market following a week or more of uninterrupted advances in prices. Call money renewals were quoted at 4 per cent.

Selling concentrated on Hudson Motors, General Motors and other spectacular leaders in the latest advance in the market. Hudson sold down 3½ point at 63½; General Motors lost 2 points; Mack Trucks 1; Baldwin Locomotive 1½; United States Steel and other active industrials sold fractionally lower. Weakness in the oil stocks continued, selling being induced by the large increase last week in the daily production of crude oil.

Offerings of industrial stocks were well absorbed, and prices rallied in the second hour. With the exception of a few of the southwestern issues, the railroad stocks were inactive and quiet. Coppers were firm.

Dempsey-Tunney prize fight in Chicago.

He predicts a bigger "gate," which means more money than was ever paid for any prize fight in the history of the world.

The Dempsey-Carpentier fight drew a crowd of 80,000 that paid $1,600,000 for their pleasure. Mr. Rickard expects Chicago to do better, also that Chicago will appreciate the great honor, as it should.

WE ARE a rich people. Twenty-eight thousand, nine hundred and eighty-nine banks in the United States have deposits of $54,000,000,000. That sounds like a great deal, but it is only $450 apiece for 100,000,000 Americans, of whom many are worth $100,000, many others worth $1,000,000 many worth ten, twenty, thirty millions, some worth $100,000,000 and a good deal more. This is a rich country, and we are getting richer every day, but with no particular plan visible.

THIRTEEN, burned to death in a mountain inn at Haines Falls, N. Y., cannot be identified and will go to the graves with religious rites of two kinds. Monday, Roman Catholic rites were celebrated. Yesterday, Protestant rites were added. If there happens to be a Buddhist, Mohammedan or Confucian among the 13, he will have to take his chance.

SAM WING, accomplished gunman on the On Leong tong, went to the electric chair, but first gave orders for burial service, both Chinese and Christian. He was never a Christian, but told his friends that the electric chair, being unknown to Chinese gods, they might have no provision for a corpse from that source.

Christians having invented the electric chair, doubtless have a God that would know what to do with the remains, so the thoughtful Chinese decided on both religions for the funeral service.

WE SPEND our lives watching men and women passing through a door labeled "Death," and we all have theories, but nobody, apart from faith, has any knowledge of what is on the other side of the door. By and by our time comes, and we go.

"NEWARK gunmen kill cashier, flee with $13,000." That's the latest; the average is half a dozen such murders a day.

MIKE McERLINE, gangster, brought from Chicago to jail to face the judge, insists upon delivering a long, very drunken speech, expressing his low opinion of all judges.

This indicates that prohibition is not a 100 per cent success, at least in Chicago jails.

NEWS about one kind of "bad business" from the west will please everybody. The jail in the Yellowstone National park has been closed for lack of "trade." It stood there 32 years, with never a customer, and now it is torn down.

Two Autos Damaged In Crash in Which Street Car Figures

Two automobiles, one owned by the Columbiana County Finance company and the other by Wilbur Enochs, Maplewood, were damaged in a collision with a west-bound Steubenville-East Liverpool interurban car on West Sixth street at 1:45 o'clock this morning.

The accident occurred when Enochs, who had parked his car at one side of the street, attempted to pull into the middle of the thoroughfare, failing to notice the approach of the street car. His machine was crushed against the Overland coupe owned by the finance company.

The front wheels of Enoch's auto were locked beneath the front vestibule of the street car and the crew was compelled to jack up one end of the street car to release it. Traffic along the street was tied up for nearly half an hour. Enochs was unhurt.

The street car was in charge of Motorman George Culp, Wellsville, and Conductor Harvey Allison, East Liverpool.

Florence Allen Releases Cleveland Dems From Pledge

Forest City Republicans Endorse Myers Y. Cooper for Nomination for Governor.

CLEVELAND, July 21.—Judge Florence Allen has released the Cuyahoga county Democrats from their pledge to support her for the senatorial nomination.

At the same time, local Republicans endorsed Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, for governor.

These two developments in the political situation here were believed today to have an important effect in the state campaign.

In a letter to W. B. Gongwer, county chairman, Judge Allen explained that she took her action because of the "perplexing situation" caused by the entry of former Senator Atlee Pomerene into the senatorial race.

The Republicans picked Cooper to head their ticket because he is likely to help their county ticket most, Maurice Maschke said.

At the Democratic ward leaders' meeting last night "slate ballots" were distributed on which both Judge Allen's name and Pomerene's had been printed. Next to Pomerene's name was a note: "Senator Pomerene and this organization are friendly."

Other state candidates whose names appear on the slate included James A. Reynolds, Cleveland, Lieutenant-governor; Stephen M. Young, Cleveland, secretary-of-state; John W. Pattison, and Cincinnati, state treasurer.

The Republicans gave endorsement at their meeting last night to the following:

Henry L. Emmerson, Cleveland, lieutenant-governor; Clarence J. Brown, Blanchester, secretary of state; Guy C. Davis, Findlay, state treasurer; H. H. Griswold, Chardon, attorney general; Frank B. Willis, United States senator; Edward S. Matthias of Van Wert and Thomas A. Jones of Jackson, supreme court.

Sandles Attacks Donahey.

COLUMBUS, July 21.—Declaring the Democratic party unafraid of grand juries, and urging Governor Donahey to permit Attorney General Crabbe to make a special probe into the alleged graft attempts in connection with the selection of a site for the Northern Ohio feeble-minded institution, A. P. Sandles, Ottawa, Democratic candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, today attacked the governor in a letter.

The letter declared the governor's actions and the silence maintained by the accused threatened the entire Democratic party at the coming primry and called upon the governor to "forget your third term ambitions and save your state and friends embarrassment by granting the attorney general's request before primary day."

Leland Thompson Purchases Building in Fourth Street.

Purchase of the E. J. Smith's three-story brick business and apartment building in East Fourth street, east of the Presbyterian church, by Leland Thompson, was announced today. The consideration was not made public.

The first floor of the structure is occupied by the city water works department and an electrical supply shop. The second and third floors are living apartments. The new owner will assume possession of the property August 1.

The building was purchased by Smith about three years ago from Mrs. Harry Surles. It housed the down town postoffice for many years before it moved into the larger quarters in what is now the Moose temple.

Thompson also owns the adjoining three-story brick building occupied by the Ohio Power company and the business property in Washington street housing the Smith & Phillips Music company.

"George the Greek"

Police Chief Gillen announced these results:

Was in Youngstown.

At 9 o'clock Psilias was in Youngstown, according to George Morris, of Youngstown, who joined the suspected man there. Psilias and Morris drove to Niles, reaching there at 9:30 o'clock.

At Niles they picked up Harry Andrackos, according to a story Andrackos told police, and which was verified by Andrackos' wife. From Niles they drove on to Warren, reaching Warren at 9:45 o'clock.

At that point, track of Psilias was lost until 11 o'clock, an hour and 15 minutes later. The trail was picked up at a Warren confectionery store, where the proprietress, known only as "Mary" claimed she saw Psilias at that time.

Seen By Detectives.

She also declared, police say, that two Warren city detectives were in the store at the time Psilias was there. Later, these men reported that they saw a big automobile of the make Psilias is said to have driven standing outside the store.

At 11 o'clock, police say, Psilias returned to Youngstown and remained there for an hour and a half, driving to Niles, which he reached at 12:30. At that time, the police say, he put up his car in the garage of the Hunt Motor Car company.

Shortly after that he registered at the Lincoln hotel in Warren and remained there until 9:30 o'clock Friday morning, according to Chief Gillen.

"Jimmy" Lamont Held.

CLEVELAND, O., July 21.—"Warren Jimmy" Lamont who surrendered to the police with the words "I see in the papers that you are looking for me" was being held by police here today who planned to question him closely again in connection with the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher.

Lamont claimed he was in Cleveland at the time of the Canton murder but Patrolman August Beckman said he saw Lamont driving a new Chevrolet car in that city last Thursday or Friday.

A bloodstained new Chevrolet car was found wrecked near Lisbon, Ohio.

W. R. PARKS DIES IN YOUNGSTOWN

W. R. Parks, former resident of this city, died Monday night at his home, 3611 Beachwood place, Cochran park, Youngstown.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the late residence.

Up until about a year and a half ago he lived in Armstrong lane, Park boulevard. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Elizabeth, five years old, and one stepson, George E. Willshaw.

Psialias Released

Witness' Name Made Public.

After viewing Psialias, Deville said he was not certain that he was the man he saw at the wheel of an automobile near the Mellett home, although the prisoner "resembled him somewhat."

Deville came here with the understanding that his name would not be made public, but learned upon his arrival at the county jail that his name had been broadcast.

Detective Ora Slater, special investigator, and Police Lieut. Peter Conners, of the local homicide squad, said that fear of vengeance from the gang that killed Mellett might have influenced the witness in his identification effort after he learned that his name had been revealed.

Lengel Resumes Probe

CANTON, O., July 21.—Authorities determined to solve the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher who laid down his life for the cause of righteousness, were reported speeding back to Canton from a futile trip to Pittsburgh today without a single, definite clew to the slaying but resolved to turn the guns of sleuthdom against the walls of mystery that have surrounded the crime.

Meantime the underworld of Canton was restlessly stirred by an announcement that Chief of Police S. A. Lengel had held an harmonious two hours' conference with Safety Director Earl Hexamer and had promised to call in the lords of Canton's jungle district and subject them to a further, severe grilling.

This latter fact was looked upon today as one of the biggest developments in the case. Hexamer reported that the chief declared that he was more than willing to go into the matter as deeply as those conducting the probe wished.

He had been previously told by Hexamer to attend to police matters and Slater would have complete charge of the probe. The reconciliation between the two forces was greeted with much accord by those most interested in the probe, who declared that it was the fore-runner of a complete agreement wherein the police department and Slater's forces would soon be working hand in hand.

Mellett's Spirit Carries On.

CANTON, July 21. — The spirit of Don R. Mellett is carrying on.

One of the fearless publisher's campaigns was for the removal of Canton Civil Service Commissioners John W. Burris and Price Janson.

Common Pleas Judge Charles Krichbaum today announced that if attorneys could agree on certain technical facts he would probably hear arguments for the dissolution of a restraining order granted to Commissioner Janson after George Beresford, policeman friend of Mellett's, had filed charges against the commissioners.

The hearing, it was said, will be another important move by Mellett's attorney, H. C. Pontius, in an effort to oust the two commissioners who voted for the reinstatement of Chief of Police Lengel.

Rev. J. V. Wright To Preach Tonight In Chester Church

Rev. J. Vernon Wright, Pittsburgh, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church, will preach tonight at 8 o'clock in the Chester M. E. church. He will also conduct the fourth quarterly conference.

Bids Too Low

Moore declared, will pay the interest on an investment of $4,000.

The one offer for the River Road pump station site, sought it is believed for a filling station, was $201. The property has a frontage of about 100 feet on the improved highway and extends back to the low water mark at the river's edge.

Boy Killed By Train.

STEUBENVILLE, July 21.—Robert Grayson, 18, one of the two youths seriously injured when run down by a Pennsylvania flyer while returning from a swimming partly last night, died in the Valley hospital today from a fractured skull. William Snodgrass, 19, his companion, may recover, hospital attaches said.

WALL OF MEN AND GUNS BARS RUM SMUGGLER

Additional Customs Patrolmen on Duty at Borders.

OHIO WATCHED

Forty-five Agents Plan to Check Canadian Flow.

WASHINGTON, July 21. — Allocation of reinforcements to complete the wall of men and guns erected about the United States to check liquor and narcotics smuggling was announced by the treasury today.

Practically every district excepting New Orleans, New Jersey, and North and South Carolina were given additional customs patrolmen. These districts are adequately protected by the coast guard and prohibition service, according to Frank Dow, acting prohibition chief.

The principal reinforcement detail went to the Ohio-Michigan district which was given 45 men. Many of these will form a special patrol along the Detroit river where a big quantity of Canadian liquor crosses into the United States.

New York city was given a patrol of 34 men to watch incoming ships for liquor shipments and merchandise smugglers, and to combat smugglers who succeed in getting their goods through the coast guard blockade off Long Island.

Eighteen men were assigned to northern New York, Buffalo and Rochester to combat liquor shipments over the Canadian border.

She was taken to the City hospital, where her injuries were dressed by Dr. Larkins and Dr. Hobbs. She was afterwards removed to her home.

ture of 98 degrees was recorded late yesterday afternoon, breaking a July heat record of 55 years. On August 6, 1918, the mercury climbed to 100 degrees here.

Many points in the state today reported prospects of still hotter weather. East Liverpool, which had a high mark of 98 decrees yesterday, had 78 degrees at 8 a. m. today, which was four points higher than the mark at that hour yesterday morning.

Kentucky Suffers.

Further southward the heat was greater as was apparent by reports from Kentucky, where marks well over the century point were registered. Owensboro, Ky., had 105 and Paducah 104.

Newark and Middletown had 98 degrees, while Wellsville unofficially reported 100 2-5 degrees. Other high readings were Marion, Lima and Dayton, 96; Wooster, 97; Akron, Bowling Green and Cincinnati, 95, and Coshocton, 91 1-2.

To the six heat victims reported Monday have been added nine more. Loriers Ford, 11, was drowned at Madison-on-the-Lake, near Cleveland; Ellis Neal, 44, died of the heat at Akron; Brant B. Albin, 45, was drowned and Harvey Rollins, Jr., 5, died of the heat at Dayton; Samuel Blumberg was probably fatally hurt at Middletown when he struck his head on the concrete bottom of the municipal swimming pool; at Newton Falls, Robert Preto, 28, was believed to have been crazed by the heat and killed three members of his family and himself, and at Bowling Green Mrs. William Potts, 67, dropped dead on the street overcome by the heat.

Seek Relief Along the Lake Front.

CHICAGO, July 21.—With 24 dead in Chicago and suburbs as a result of the record-breaking heat wave of the past two days, relief in the form of thundershowers was promised by the weather bureau today.

The mercury has hovered around the 90 mark since Sunday. Monday a maximum temperature of 94.2 made that day the hottest July 19 in the history of the local weather bureau. It claimed 14 lives. Yesterday the mercury climbed to 95 and 10 more persons succumbed to the heat.

The present torrid wave has been general over the middle western states. It is traveling slowly from west to east.

It was estimated that one million persons, a third of the population of Chicago, sought relief along the 30 miles of lake front yesterday. The beaches were crowded from dawn to dusk, many persons remaining there throughout the night.

Five of the heat victims were babies less than a year old. Hospitals are jammed with cases of prostration. One man dropped dead after playing 18 holes of golf in the hot sun.

WEST'S SHOWS DRAW THRONG

Carnival Patrons Have Gala Time at Patterson Field.

Another immense crowd thronged the midway last evening of the West's Wonder Shows, which is playing a week's engagement at Patterson field, under auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Spanish-American War Veterans.

All of the dozen or more shows and the eight rides were well patronized. A special matinee for the school children this afternoon was also well attended.

Among the attractions this year is "Lady Fanchon," which is advertised as the "world's greatest educated horse." This show, in charge of Col. William Littleton, is now enroute to California where Lady Fanchon will appear in the movies. Rescue of a baby by the horse from a burning building is one of the features of this act.

Other offerings are the Dixieland Minstrels, wild animal show, St. Moritz ice skaters, Jolly Bonita, Bug House, Lula-Lee, circus side show and others.

Concerts by two bands were given at the carnival grounds during the evening.

opinion of the publishers of the Fourth Estate as expressed in the communication.

"The point of this probe is that the freedom of the American press has been placed in jeopardy by repeated outrages which call for a swift punishment," was the battle cry sounded in the telegram.

"The day of the armed city editor has passed but if outlawry against editors continues, the newspaper world is prepared to defend itself," the message said.

OPEN SMITH'S FERRY HIGHWAY BIDS TUESDAY

Call for Proposals on Section of Midland Road.

SECOND LETTING

Rinehart Brothers Low Bidders Few Weeks Ago.

Bids for the readvertised section of the Midland-East Liverpool road through Smith's Ferry, will be opened by the Pennsylvania state highway department at Harrisburg next Tuesday.

Rinehart Brothers, local contractors, who recently completed that section of the road from Midland to the upper end of Smiths Ferry, were the low bidders when the work was advertised a few weeks ago. All bids were rejected when an irregularity was found at Beaver in the certification of records from the borough of Glasgow, providing for a change in the highway.

Owing to the extensive grading work, it is doubtful if the road will be completed before winter. The contracts will require the moving of approximately 47,000 cubic yards of earth to cut the highway along the hillside from the creek to the east end of the village. Rinehart brothers are prepared to put two steam shovels to work if they are awarded the contract.

This job will link up the improved road between East Liverpool and Beaver.

Women's Peace-of-Mind

under trying hygienic conditions is assured this new way. Gives absolute protection—discards like tissue

A DANCE, a sheer gown to be worn; a difficult hygienic situation. You need no longer give this complication a second thought.

The hazards of the old-time sanitary pad have been supplanted with a protection both absolute and exquisite.

It is called "KOTEX" . . . five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Absorbs and deodorizes at the same time. Thus ending ALL fear of offending.

You discard it as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it for a few cents at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." Women ask for it without hesitancy.

Try Kotex. Comes 12 in a package. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.

Chester Stops Turk-Nash Flag Rivals at Smith Field, 4-0

Mike Is on and Ohio Pennant Seekers Are Held to Three Blows

Riley Slab Ace Puts Steam Behind Slants to Blank Fowler Combine R. Pollock and Eddie Bayley Only Enemy Batters to Connect Safely.

MEETING for the first time in combat for second half honors in the City Industrial league, Chester, 1925 champions, defeated the well-balanced fast stepping Turk-Nash aggregation on Smith field yesterday, 4 to 0.

"How did it happen?" queried an East Liverpool spectator to a group of cross river fans in middle field as the big crowd that witnessed the contest filed out.

"Mike" was the cryptic response of one silent man in the background. And there was not one dissenting voice to the viewpoint thus adduced.

And so by unanimous accord of friend and foe alike, the single word "Mike" tells the whole story. For Mike, whatever his off form in the final contests of the first half, was, in the language of the fans, "On again" on this important occasion. Steam? Yes. The ball fairly sizzled across the plate into the cavernous glove of W. McMath, who caught him. But three safe hits were made off him, two singles by the brilliant and hard-working R. Pollock in the second and fifth innings and one by the dependable Eddie Bayley in the third. Mike fanned eight.

Failed to Reach Second.

Not a single Turk-Nash player reached second during the contest. Pollock twice was forced by Alcock as he essayed to make the spot while E. Bayley was caught stealing by a wide margin on the occasion he held forth on the paths.

Opposing Cebula on the hilltop was "Sonny" Deshler, who, in the closing period of the first half, beat Mike and Chester, 4 to 1. As on the former occasion he allowed seven hits, but yesterday they produced three more runs from them.

Deshler's control, however, was equal to Cebula's. Neither could have done better for each refused to allow a single walk.

Play Errorless Ball.

Chester played errorless ball, while only a muff and bad throw by McConnell marred the fielding of Turk-Nash.

Manager Fowler presented his usual lineup. Eddie Bayley and J. Watson accepted four chances and D. Morgan three. Deshler handled the two that came to him.

Heckathorne covered first for Chester and did it well. Wyant was in right. He negotiated a timely double in the sixth, but later was caught napping by the wily Bayley, who signalled a quick assist by Deshler.

L. McMath's triple in the fourth was the longest hit of the game. It landed behind the automobiles, from where Pollock relayed it to E. Bayley and he to Morgan, holding the runner at the hot corner.

Evans, opening Chester's half of the first, flew to A. Bayley. Greene singled to left and stole second from where he scored on P. Cebula's sizzling single past third base. Wyant forced P. Cebula at second, D. Morgan to J. Watson. L. McMath fanned.

Heckathorne singled to left in the second but was forced by F. Marshall at second, E. Bayley to J. Watson. W. McMath singled to middle, F. Marshall going to second from where he reached third as McConnell muffed M. Cebula's high drive to left. McConnell threw to the plate, the ball bounding past Schneidmiller into the crowd on which F. Marshall finished, W. McMath took third and M. Cebula second. Evans went out, E. Bayley to Alcock. On the play M. Cebula ran to third, forcing W. McMath towards the plate. Alcock ran across the diamond with the ball, assisted to Schneidmiller, who returned the ball to the bagman in time for him to tab the catcher and retire the side.

L. McMath tripled to right in the fourth and scored on a passed ball. Heckathorne fanned, F. Marshall went out, D. Morgan to Alcock. W. McMath fanned.

P. Cebula, singling to left in the sixth, scored on Wyant's long double to middle. L. McMath and Heckathorne fanned while Wyant was caught off second, Deshler to E. Bayley.

All in all the game was well played and will take its place as one of the best and hardest fought of the season.

DRUGS WIN GAME WITH GLENMOOR

Bulger's Drugs defeated the Glenmoor nine last evening on the Glenmoor diamond, 11 to 4, the contest marking the downtown team's second victory over the Glenmoor contingent.

YOUNG CHASE, JOINING COAST CLUB, FOLLOWS FAMOUS DAD'S FOOTSTEPS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—A lithe, bronzed lad of sixteen, stalked into the offices of the Mission club of the Pacific Coast league yesterday and signed a contract.

The boy is Hal Chase, Jr., son of the once famous baseball star of the same name and according to those who have watched him, is a "chip off the old block" when it comes to playing baseball.

Young Chase has determined to make baseball his career and to redeem on the diamond the name of his father.

He is still in school and will remain there for the next two years, practicing with the Missions on Saturdays and Sundays and during vacation periods.

In 1928 he will join the club regularly, President William H. McCarthy announced after the boy had affixed his signature to the contract.

"He has the same natural ability of his father and with the experience he will gain with us during the next two years, I expect him to develop into a valuable man," McCarthy said.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

In the back swing, when the player reaches slightly outward with the club and with the head held still, the left shoulder must, of course, come down under. Near the top when, with the grip tightening, the pull becomes pronounced, this shoulder pulls some to the right side of the line from the eye to the ball. How far it can go to the right of this line is measured by the resiliency of the player's muscles. Youth goes far with it, but the average business man golfer will do well not to try for so much. Getting this shoulder—the left one—in back of the line from the eye to the ball is the pivot. Be satisfied if your shoulder is about even with the line to the ball. Stopping there will not cause so much strain in the swing as to destroy rhythm and overthrow your balance.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The fast-traveling Tigers knocked the Athletics for two successive and distinct goals by scores of 5 to 0 and 8 to 3, sweeping the series. Rip Collins held the A's to five hits in the opener.

Scoring seven runs in one inning, Cleveland thrashed the Senators, 9 to 2, behind Sherry Smith's twirling.

The White Sox murdered the Red Sox again, 13 to 2. Red Faber was hit hard but stood for no nonsense when hits meant runs.

Pete Donohue, the champion hard-luck pitcher of the big leagues, had a bit of good luck for a change when the Reds beat the Dodgers in the ninth, 5 to 4, on an error.

Pittsburgh joined the Reds in pulling away from the madding crowd of pennant contenders by pushing the Braves off the cliff again, 8 to 5. The Pirates were outbatted but the Braves were outsmarted.

The amazing Cubs knocked the Giants silly again and beat them to a pulp, 16 to 2. The enraged Bruins pounded four New York pitchers for 18 singles while Irish Meusel got half of the Giants' eight hits.

After English had fanned in the third Gilcrist singled through short. Suder went out to J. Strobel. Crawford singled to left, scoring Gilcrist. Parson, singling, scored Crawford. Babb was retired, V. Bailey to Mundy.

HAGEN FAILS TO SET RECORD

Beats Farrell, However, for Eastern Title.

DELAWARE WATER GAP, Pa., July 21.—Although golfers were loud in their praise of Walter Hagen today as a result of his victory over Johnny Farrell by a margin of nine strokes in the eastern open championship here, disappointment was expressed because of Sir Walter's failure to break the world's record of 274 for 72 holes of medal golf, set by Emmet French, of Youngstown, in the Ohio open championship in 1922.

Hagen's brilliant 69 in the afternoon failed to offset a mediocre round of 74 in the morning round, which was marred by rain. His final score was 275, one stroke above the record.

Bill Mehlhorn, of Chicago, finished third with 289.

But When and Where's Secret With Rickard

Most Likely, Say Guessers, it Will be Tunney in Either New York or New Jersey, September.

By Copeland C. Burg.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Jack Dempsey is going to fight.

Just when and where and who are elements still unknown but it was definitely learned today that the heavyweight champion is actually to affix his wavering signature to a contract immediately after his arrival in Chicago in August from his Colorado training camp.

That day—August 5—is significant.

Twenty-four hours previous Dempsey's long-lamented contract with his former manager, will have expired.

Most likely Dempsey will defend his title against Gene Tunney and the bout will be staged in New York or New Jersey.

That appears the final low-down today, as Tex Rickard, the happy New York promoter, girded himself for a conference with Dempsey's new manager, Gene Normile, following five successive days of giving Chicago the hectic merry-go-round in approved fashion of the roaring forties.

Rickard has an option on Dempsey's services and as soon as Kearn's contract has expired he will exercise it most fully by having the heavy king sign a contract, thus shutting out Kearns from any of the boodle.

Rickard again declared this morning that he was ready to make a positive announcement regarding a Dempsey-Tunney bout and that unless "something very unexpected" happened he would today name the location and date of the bout. Sept. 1 was rumored as the likely day.

Coliseum Contract Void.

Normile, who arrived in Chicago shouting Dempsey only weighed 196 pounds and was in superb shape, made it plain the champion had no contract with the Chicago Coliseum club.

Normile said the Chicago club forgot to pay Dempsey $100,000 last March, as agreed, and as a consequence the contract was now null and void.

That the wise Mr. Rickard has any future Dempsey bout right at the bottom of the bag and intends to stage it either in New York or vicinity or Chicago there appears no question.

As soon as Dempsey has signed a contract with him, Rickard will jump a rattler to New York and make a final appearance before the commission on a Dempsey-Tunney fight. Should the New York body bow him out, Rickard plans to sell his contract to the highest bidder.

While spending five days in Chicago preparing for Dempsey's arrival, Rickard has not been idle.

Details of a visit paid by him to the new Illinois boxing commission revealed today that Rickard highly complimented the commissioners on this and that, including the weather, and established himself on extremely friendly terms with the commission.

Having Dempsey's contract in his pocket and basking in the smile of the Illinois commission, Rickard may with much fortitude face the frowns of the New York body.

Average wages paid in Paris and vicinity range from $1.33 to $1.77 a day, according to figures recently given out.

Here's the Cigarette
Because "It's Toasted"

LUCKY STRIKES are made from the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, perfectly blended.

Besides this supreme quality of leaf tobacco as compared with all other Cigarettes—"IT'S TOASTED".

Just what does this mean—this phrase, "IT'S TOASTED"?

The tobacco is oven toasted at very high heats for 45 minutes; then chilled with the moisture completely restored. The toasting brings out the hidden flavors of the superbly fine tobacco. The chilling seals in these flavors; seals in, too, the moisture that has been restored. It all acts like a cold plunge on the pores of the body.

That's why LUCKIES taste so good. Why LUCKIES are always fresh when they come to you. Why millions prefer this uniquely fine cigarette.

DRUGS WIN GAME WITH GLENMOOR

Bulger's Drugs defeated the Glenmoor nine last evening on the Glenmoor diamond, 11 to 4, the contest marking the downtown team's second victory over the Glenmoor contingent.

Haney, pitching for the Drugs, was effective in the pinches, letting the opposition down with four hits, while Mackey was touched for an even dozen by the winners.

YOUNG CHASE, JOINING COAST CLUB, FOLLOWS FAMOUS DAD'S FOOTSTEPS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—A lithe, bronzed lad of sixteen, stalked into the offices of the Mission club of the Pacific Coast league yesterday and signed a contract.

The boy is Hal Chase, Jr., son of the once famous baseball star of the same name and according to those who have watched him, is a "chip off the old block" when it comes to playing baseball.

Young Chase has determined to make baseball his career and to redeem on the diamond the name of his father.

He is still in school and will remain there for the next two years, practicing with the Missions on Saturdays and Sundays and during vacation periods.

In 1928 he will join the club regularly, President William H. McCarthy announced after the boy had affixed his signature to the contract.

"He has the same natural ability of his father and with the experience he will gain with us during the next two years, I expect him to develop into a valuable man," McCarthy said.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

In the back swing, when the player reaches slightly outward with the club and with the head held still, the left shoulder must, of course, come down under. Near the top when, with the grip tightening, the pull becomes pronounced, this shoulder pulls some to the right side of the line from the eye to the ball. How far it can go to the right of this line is measured by the resiliency of the player's muscles. Youth goes far with it, but the average business man golfer will do well not to try for so much. Getting this shoulder—the left one—in back of the line from the eye to the ball is the pivot. Be satisfied if your shoulder is about even with the line to the ball. Stopping there will not cause so much strain in the swing as to destroy rhythm and overthrow your balance.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The fast-traveling Tigers knocked the Athletics for two successive and distinct goals by scores of 5 to 0 and 8 to 3, sweeping the series. Rip Collins held the A's to five hits in the opener.

Scoring seven runs in one inning, Cleveland thrashed the Senators, 9 to 2, behind Sherry Smith's twirling.

The White Sox murdered the Red Sox again, 13 to 2. Red Faber was hit hard but stood for no nonsense when hits meant runs.

Pete Donohue, the champion hard-luck pitcher of the big leagues, had a bit of good luck for a change when the Reds beat the Dodgers in the ninth, 5 to 4, on an error.

Pittsburgh joined the Reds in pulling away from the madding crowd of pennant contenders by pushing the Braves off the cliff again, 8 to 5. The Pirates were outbatted but the Braves were outsmarted.

The amazing Cubs knocked the Giants silly again and beat them to a pulp, 16 to 2. The enraged Bruins pounded four New York pitchers for 18 singles while Irish Meusel got half of the Giants' eight hits.

MOTORS TRIM LAUGHLIN, 7-3

Continue Winning Streak at Newell Club's Expense.

CONTINUING its winning streak, Victory Motor defeated Laughlin in a fast City Industrial league contest last evening at Newell, 7 to 3.

Baker held the Potters to three runs in three innings. After he had permitted a double and a single by Finley and W. Watson, respectively, in the fourth, Mundy succeeded him and held the opposition scoreless for the rest of the game. Sainor, tripling in the first, drove in two runs.

After English had fanned in the third Gilcrist singled through short. Suder went out to J. Strobel. Crawford singled to left, scoring Gilcrist. Parson, singling, scored Crawford. Babb was retired, V. Bailey to Mundy.

Davis beat out an infield hit in the fourth. Coleman walked. Sainor fanned. V. Bayley doubled to center, scoring Davis and Coleman. W. Mundy doubled, scoring Bailey. The former stole third and finished on a wild pitch.

Bailey accepted five chances and C Coleman six chances during the game, while Finley grabbed seven.

Davis, J. Strobel and Bailey of Victory Motors and Crawford, of Laughlin, swatted at a .500 clip, each with two hits in four chances.

PITTSBURGH, July 21. — Infielder Eddie Moore, formerly of the Atlanta club of the Southern association, has been released to the Boston Braves by the Pittsburgh Pirates, it was announced today. The Boston club is understood to have paid the Pirates $4,000 for Moore's contract. He will join the Braves in Cincinnati.

HAGEN FAILS TO SET RECORD

Beats Farrell, However, for Eastern Title.

DELAWARE WATER GAP, Pa., July 21.—Although golfers were loud in their praise of Walter Hagen today as a result of his victory over Johnny Farrell by a margin of nine strokes in the eastern open championship here, disappointment was expressed because of Sir Walter's failure to break the world's record of 274 for 72 holes of medal golf, set by Emmet French, of Youngstown, in the Ohio open championship in 1922.

Hagen's brilliant 69 in the afternoon failed to offset a mediocre round of 74 in the morning round, which was marred by rain. His final score was 275, one stroke above the record.

Bill Mehlhorn, of Chicago, finished third with 289.

But When and Where's Secret With Rickard

Most Likely, Say Guessers, it Will be Tunney in Either New York or New Jersey, September.

By Copeland C. Burg.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Jack Dempsey is going to fight.

Just when and where and who are elements still unknown but it was definitely learned today that the heavyweight champion is actually to affix his wavering signature to a contract immediately after his arrival in Chicago in August from his Colorado training camp.

That day—August 5—is significant.

Twenty-four hours previous Dempsey's long-lamented contract with his former manager, will have expired.

Most likely Dempsey will defend his title against Gene Tunney and the bout will be staged in New York or New Jersey.

That appears the final low-down today, as Tex Rickard, the happy New York promoter, girded himself for a conference with Dempsey's new manager, Gene Normile, following five successive days of giving Chicago the hectic merry-go-round in approved fashion of the roaring forties.

Rickard has an option on Dempsey's services and as soon as Kearn's contract has expired he will exercise it most fully by having the heavy king sign a contract, thus shutting out Kearns from any of the boodle.

Rickard again declared this morning that he was ready to make a positive announcement regarding a Dempsey-Tunney bout and that unless "something very unexpected" happened he would today name the location and date of the bout. Sept. 1 was rumored as the likely day.

Coliseum Contract Void.

Normile, who arrived in Chicago shouting Dempsey only weighed 196 pounds and was in superb shape, made it plain the champion had no contract with the Chicago Coliseum club.

Normile said the Chicago club forgot to pay Dempsey $100,000 last March, as agreed, and as a consequence the contract was now null and void.

That the wise Mr. Rickard has any future Dempsey bout right at the bottom of the bag and intends to stage it either in New York or vicinity or Chicago there appears no question.

As soon as Dempsey has signed a contract with him, Rickard will jump a rattler to New York and make a final appearance before the commission on a Dempsey-Tunney fight. Should the New York body bow him out, Rickard plans to sell his contract to the highest bidder.

While spending five days in Chicago preparing for Dempsey's arrival, Rickard has not been idle.

Details of a visit paid by him to the new Illinois boxing commission revealed today that Rickard highly complimented the commissioners on this and that, including the weather, and established himself on extremely friendly terms with the commission.

Having Dempsey's contract in his pocket and basking in the smile of the Illinois commission, Rickard may with much fortitude face the frowns of the New York body.

Average wages paid in Paris and vicinity range from $1.33 to $1.77 a day, according to figures recently given out.

Here's the Cigarette
Because "It's Toasted"

LUCKY STRIKES are made from the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, perfectly blended.

Besides this supreme quality of leaf tobacco as compared with all other Cigarettes—"IT'S TOASTED".

Just what does this mean—this phrase, "IT'S TOASTED"?

The tobacco is oven toasted at very high heats for 45 minutes; then chilled with the moisture completely restored. The toasting brings out the hidden flavors of the superbly fine tobacco. The chilling seals in these flavors; seals in, too, the moisture that has been restored. It all acts like a cold plunge on the pores of the body.

That's why LUCKIES taste so good. Why LUCKIES are always fresh when they come to you. Why millions prefer this uniquely fine cigarette.

BECAUSE IT'S TOASTED

BEBE DANIELS AND RICARDO CORTEZ IN A SCENE FROM "VOLCANO" A PARAMOUNT PICTURE A WILLIAM HOWARD PRODUCTION

Ceramic theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday

BURIED ALIVE IN LOVE TOMB

Fate of Two Stars in Ceramic Play, "Lady of Harem."

Buried alive in the Tomb of Love amid sounds of feasting and gay music!

Such was the fate meted out to William Collier Jr. and Greta Nissen in "The Lady of the Harem," a spectacle production directed for Paramount by Raoul Walsh, at the Ceramic theatre.

"The Lady of the Harem," adapted by James T. O'Donohoe from James Elroy Flecker's stage production, "Hassan," is a story of ancient Persia filmed on a scale of tremendous magnitude and lavishness with its plot woven around a cruel Sultan, a kind hearted confectioner and two lovers.

Briefly, the story is this:

The glittering city of Khorasan suffers countless cruelties under the rule of an oppressive Sultan. But amid the oppression there is one who lives tranquilly—Ernest Torrence, the confectioner.

William Collier Jr., from the hills beyond Mosul, comes in search of his sweetheart, Greta Nissen, dragged away from him by the tyrant's soldiers. In the brilliant, exotic slave market he finds her, only to realize she is being purchased for the Sultan's harem.

That he may save her, Collier joins a band of citizens who have been reduced to beggars by unreasonable taxations. They pledge allegiance.

Disguised as merchants, the Sultan and members of his court gain entrance to the beggar's rendezvous and discover Collier as the leader.

Among the scenes that follow are a tremendous oriental bacchanal, the swimming of a wide river by three thousand men and a mighty medieval battle scene—all leading up to a tremendous climax that for genuine thrills and beauty has seldom been equalled up the screen.

ARLEN STORY AT AMERICAN

Conway Tearle Stars in "Dancer of Paris."

The story of a man's relentless pursuit of a woman and the spirited manner in which she fights back will be unfolded on the screen at the American theatre tomorrow, when the first Michael Arlen story to reach the screen, "The Dancer of Paris," is presented.

Conway Tearle and Dorothy Mackaill have the leading roles in this production, which is presented through First National by Robert T. Kane. It was produced under the direction of Alfred A. Santell, who is responsible for "Bluebeard's Seven Wives" and "Classified."

The story is laid against a series of rich backgrounds. Starting in Florida, the scene quickly switches to Paris, where, in settings picturesquely revealing the night life of the famous capital, the plot moves on to its climax.

Supporting the stars are Robert Cain, who has the "heavy" role; Paul Ellis and Henry Vibart.

The film holds out tremendous appeal to the admirers of Michael Arlen. His sensationally popular works, such as "The Green Hat" and "These Charming People," have already been adapted to the speaking stage, but in "The Dancer of Paris" he is for the first time presented on the screen.

Confederate Vets Accept Invitation To Meet in Florida

OCALA, Fla., July 21. — Accepting the cordial invitation extended by the Chamber of Commerce and civic bodies of this city, L. W. Jackson, commanding general of the Florida division of the United Confederate Veterans, has issued a general order to all members to meet in Ocala in a grand reunion next November 3, 4 and 5.

This will be the 36th annual state reunion. Civic bodies of Ocala are planning a hearty welcome for the ex-soldiers and their wives and an elaborate program is anticipated.

Uncle Sam Facing Job in Rescuing Landlocked Fish

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 21.—Fish rescue work over the nation will be unusually heavy this year, is the belief of William J. Stratton, director of the Illinois board of conservation.

Heavy floods have landlocked countless fish, and in Illinois, he said, more than 100 men will be assigned to task of replacing "lost" members of the finny tribe in their home waters, by truck and seine.

BEBE DANIELS AND RICARDO CORTEZ IN A SCENE FROM "VOLCANO" A PARAMOUNT PICTURE A WILLIAM HOWARD PRODUCTION

Fate of Two Stars in Ceramic Play, "Lady of Harem."

Buried alive in the Tomb of Love amid sounds of feasting and gay music!

Such was the fate meted out to William Collier Jr. and Greta Nissen in "The Lady of the Harem," a spectacle production directed for Paramount by Raoul Walsh, at the Ceramic theatre.

"The Lady of the Harem," adapted by James T. O'Donohoe from James Elroy Flecker's stage production, "Hassan," is a story of ancient Persia filmed on a scale of tremendous magnitude and lavishness with its plot woven around a cruel Sultan, a kind hearted confectioner and two lovers.

Briefly, the story is this:

The glittering city of Khorasan suffers countless cruelties under the rule of an oppressive Sultan. But amid the oppression there is one who lives tranquilly—Ernest Torrence, the confectioner.

William Collier Jr., from the hills beyond Mosul, comes in search of his sweetheart, Greta Nissen, dragged away from him by the tyrant's soldiers. In the brilliant, exotic slave market he finds her, only to realize she is being purchased for the Sultan's harem.

That he may save her, Collier joins a band of citizens who have been reduced to beggars by unreasonable taxations. They pledge allegiance.

Disguised as merchants, the Sultan and members of his court gain entrance to the beggar's rendezvous and discover Collier as the leader.

Among the scenes that follow are a tremendous oriental bacchanal, the swimming of a wide river by three thousand men and a mighty medieval battle scene—all leading up to a tremendous climax that for genuine thrills and beauty has seldom been equalled up the screen.

ARLEN STORY AT AMERICAN

Conway Tearle Stars in "Dancer of Paris."

The story of a man's relentless pursuit of a woman and the spirited manner in which she fights back will be unfolded on the screen at the American theatre tomorrow, when the first Michael Arlen story to reach the screen, "The Dancer of Paris," is presented.

Conway Tearle and Dorothy Mackaill have the leading roles in this production, which is presented through First National by Robert T. Kane. It was produced under the direction of Alfred A. Santell, who is responsible for "Bluebeard's Seven Wives" and "Classified."

The story is laid against a series of rich backgrounds. Starting in Florida, the scene quickly switches to Paris, where, in settings picturesquely revealing the night life of the famous capital, the plot moves on to its climax.

Supporting the stars are Robert Cain, who has the "heavy" role; Paul Ellis and Henry Vibart.

The film holds out tremendous appeal to the admirers of Michael Arlen. His sensationally popular works, such as "The Green Hat" and "These Charming People," have already been adapted to the speaking stage, but in "The Dancer of Paris" he is for the first time presented on the screen.

Confederate Vets Accept Invitation To Meet in Florida

OCALA, Fla., July 21. — Accepting the cordial invitation extended by the Chamber of Commerce and civic bodies of this city, L. W. Jackson, commanding general of the Florida division of the United Confederate Veterans, has issued a general order to all members to meet in Ocala in a grand reunion next November 3, 4 and 5.

This will be the 36th annual state reunion. Civic bodies of Ocala are planning a hearty welcome for the ex-soldiers and their wives and an elaborate program is anticipated.

Uncle Sam Facing Job in Rescuing Landlocked Fish

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 21.—Fish rescue work over the nation will be unusually heavy this year, is the belief of William J. Stratton, director of the Illinois board of conservation.

Heavy floods have landlocked countless fish, and in Illinois, he said, more than 100 men will be assigned to task of replacing "lost" members of the finny tribe in their home waters, by truck and seine.

SEVEN CIVIL SUITS FILED

Grocery Bills Basis of Four Actions in City Court.

Grocery bills are the basis of four suits which have been filed in municipal court.

Dray, Sherwood, in a suit for $19.42 and Minta Campbell, 408 Ridgeway avenue, for $61.82. E. D. Wright, of the Jess Wright & Son grocery, East End, has sued Charles Harris, Beechwood, for a grocery bill amounting to $58.75. All four suits were filed by Attorney G. S. Thompson.

The Beers-Hanks Motor company, through Foulks & Stevenson, has sued O. N. Earl, 430 Walnut street, for $53.80, alleged to be due for labor and material in repairing a car.

Ralph Betteridge, Harker avenue, has named George R. Prosser, Ogden street, in a suit for $28 for work and labor on an automobile. Foulks & Stevenson represent the plaintiff.

I. H. Aaronson, 505 Market street, has brought an action to eject Frances and Charles Catherine from a two-story residence at 1087 Monaca street, East End.

PYTHIANS PLAN BIG PICNIC AT CASCADE PARK

Four-county Outing on Wednesday, July 28.

SPORTS PROGRAM

Children and Old Folks Will be Guests.

The annual picnic and outing of the Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters of Lawrence, Mercer, Butler, Beaver counties and visitors from East Liverpool and Wellsville and Chester, W. Va., will be held at Cascade park on Wednesday, July 28.

Jacob Miller, president of the outing association, has appointed a score of committees to handle the details of the picnic. As in former years the big feature of the day will be a sport program on the field. Children from the Pythian home at Ben Avon and the old folks from the Pythian home at Harmony will be guests.

All Pythians are asked to come to the band stand for free ride tickets, also for tickets for the grand drawing prizes. Drawings will be held in the early part of the evening. Dancing afternoon and evening. Dancing will be free in the afternoon. A display of fireworks will be set off in the evening.

The Four County Pythian Outing association is made up of representatives of the Knights of Pythian and Pythian Sisters and represents a total membership of about 35,00 Knights and 10,000 Pythian Sisters.

The outing each year serves as a reunion of friends in the order from all over the state and practically all officers of the state and national bodies make it a point to be in attendance. Cascade park is easily reached by all steam and trolley lines and contains every modern amusement device. The park this year has been thoroughly renovated.

It will be used to saturate sacks of mixed sawdust and sand, which will be planted in bodies of water where mosquitoes propogate. Oil on the water is a preventative against mosquito breeding places.

PYTHIANS PLAN BIG PICNIC AT CASCADE PARK

Four-county Outing on Wednesday, July 28.

SPORTS PROGRAM

Children and Old Folks Will be Guests.

The annual picnic and outing of the Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters of Lawrence, Mercer, Butler, Beaver counties and visitors from East Liverpool and Wellsville and Chester, W. Va., will be held at Cascade park on Wednesday, July 28.

Jacob Miller, president of the outing association, has appointed a score of committees to handle the details of the picnic. As in former years the big feature of the day will be a sport program on the field. Children from the Pythian home at Ben Avon and the old folks from the Pythian home at Harmony will be guests.

All Pythians are asked to come to the band stand for free ride tickets, also for tickets for the grand drawing prizes. Drawings will be held in the early part of the evening. Dancing afternoon and evening. Dancing will be free in the afternoon. A display of fireworks will be set off in the evening.

The Four County Pythian Outing association is made up of representatives of the Knights of Pythian and Pythian Sisters and represents a total membership of about 35,00 Knights and 10,000 Pythian Sisters.

The outing each year serves as a reunion of friends in the order from all over the state and practically all officers of the state and national bodies make it a point to be in attendance. Cascade park is easily reached by all steam and trolley lines and contains every modern amusement device. The park this year has been thoroughly renovated.

Waste Automobile Oils Being Used to Battle Mosquitoes

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Waste oil taken from crankcases of automobiles is to be used by the Florida state board of health in combatting mosquitoes. Garages in all cities of the state are being asked to save the oil removed from crankcases. It will be used to saturate sacks of mixed sawdust and sand, which will be planted in bodies of water where mosquitoes propogate. Oil on the water is a preventative against mosquito breeding places.

Brokers and Shoshones. Holding Up the Mirror. Clergyman In Earnest. We Are Very Rich.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

STOCKS went up, new high prices were recorded, the price of money went down, you could speculate cheaply, francs collapsed, bears shed tears, bulls said, "I told you so." That was yesterday's financial record.

While these things happened, Indians of the Bannoe and Shoshone tribes were dancing wildly around their totem pole near Pocatello, to please the Sun God. Aged warriors dropped in their tracks.

Authorities allowed the dance on condition that the Indians would not, as in former days, insert thongs of deer skin under the muscles of their backs and hang themselves from branches of trees, staying there until muscles or thongs gave way. Whites call that shocking. Indians think it pleases the Sun God.

Perhaps, where the angel Gabriel sits, the difference between Indians dancing around the totem pole and brokers dancing around the General Motors pole is not so great.

TO HOLD the mirror up to modern times, read headlines in newspapers, and listen to the radio.

Young people park their cars along roadsides and indulge in affectionate demonstrations. Samuel Hurd, farmer, objected. One of the young people shot him dead. Hurd will know better next time, if he returns to this plane.

THE Rev. Dr. Norris, earnest clergyman of Fort Worth, Tex., refers to himself as a "hellfire and damnation" preacher, and lives up to the description.

He attacked the mayor of his town, on religious and other grounds. When a friend of the mayor called to remonstrate Dr. Norris sent three bullets through his body. It was self-defense, he said, and thousands crowded to his church to shake hands with him.

MR. RICKARD, greatest prize fight impresario, plans to "pull off" the

Canning Fruits and Vegetables at Home

Is the name of a new farmers' bulletin which gives in simple form the application of scientific principles to home canning of fruits and vegetables.

Methods of canning are based on knowledge of the causes of food spoilage and ways of preventing it.

Scientific research is constantly throwing new light on this subject, and the methods recommended in this bulletin are based on the most reliable information the Department of Agriculture has been able to obtain.

VICTIMS SHOT THROUGH HEAD IN BED; PISTOL NEAR FATHER

Woman and Two Children are Among Dead.

CORONER TO ACT

Police Suspect Robert Preto Killed Three, Then Himself.

NEWTON FALLS, O., July 21. — Coroner Henshaw of Warren will hold an inquest here today into the slaying of the Robert Preto family of four members.

The quadruple tragedy was discovered by Cecil Rhineberger, a boarder, when he returned home from work.

The victims lay in bed and all were shot once through the head. Near Preto's body lay a revolver with four exploded shells.

Affair is Mystery.

The dead were:
ROBERT PRETO, 28.
VIRGINIA PRETO, 25.
ALBERTA PRETO, 6.
ROBERT PAUL PRETO, 1.

"The whole affair is a mystery to the people of Newton Falls," said Mayor L. E. Price today. "The supposition is that Preto killed his family and then himself, but there are several angles that the suicide theory does not explain."

Petro was an electrician at the Newton Steel company, the mayor said.

OHIO VALLEY SWELTERS AS TORRID WAVE GRIPS MID-WESTERN STATES

Madison Township Farm is Hottest Place in County

The district near the Madison township farm home of Charles Swan, R. F. D. No. 1, out of Wellsville, was the hottest zone in Columbiana county yesterday.

A physician's fever thermometer placed on the north side of the house which is protected from the sun, registered 100 2-5 degrees at 3 p. m., Swan said.

Swan, who has lived on the farm for 20 years, said it was the hottest day in his memory.

THUNDERSHOWERS ARE FORECAST

Twenty-four Persons Dead in Chicago and Suburbs as Result of Heat.

With the death toll in Ohio's two-day heat wave totalling 15 at noon, relief in the form of showers is promised by the weather man tonight in the East Liverpool district.

Despite the terrific torrid temperature, no prostrations have been reported here.

Tuesday was the warmest day of the year, according to records at the United States Lock No. 8. The mercury went soaring to the 98-degree mark at 3 p. m., two degrees higher than the mark recorded at the same hour on Monday.

Government Readings.

Readings at the dam, which are taken every three hours, were: 12 noon Tuesday, 96; 3. p. m., 98; 6 p. m., 96; 9 p. m., 78; 12 midnight, 74; 3 a. m. (Wednesday), 68; 6 a. m., 66; 8 a. m., 78. The 8 a. m. reading today was four degrees higher than that recorded at the same hour yesterday morning and 10 degrees warmer than that which prevailed on Monday morning.

Lawrence Copeland, government observer at Milliport, 19 miles west of here, reported a maximum temperature of 96 degrees at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Tuesday, Copeland said, was the hottest day on record so far this year. The mercury climbed to the 92-degree mark during the middle of the afternoon on Monday.

A large thermometer on the St. Clair avenue side of the Central fire station registered 118 degrees in the sun at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Temperatures in Ohio.

CLEVELAND, July 21.—The break in the terrific heat wave that has held Ohio and the middle west in its grip for two days was expected by nightfall, E. H. Emery, the government weatherman, said here today. Thundershowers are on the way.

From all over the state come reports of heat records shattered.

At least 15 persons have died in Ohio as the result of the two days of hot weather.

BIDS ON FOUR CITY PARCELS ARE TOO LOW

Rejection of Offers Made to Director Moore Looms.

OPENED TUESDAY

No Bidders Seek Taylor Lot in Sixth Street.

Bids for four of the seven pieces of city real estate offered for sale by Service-Safety Director John W. Moore were opened yesterday by the board of control, but indications today were all bids would be rejected.

Offers were submitted for the vacant lot opposite the City hospital in West Fifth street; West End fire station, Lisbon street; property in Harvey avenue at the state line and the old River Road pump station site.

No bids were received for the Taylor lot in West Sixth street, now under lease as a parking place, as a gasoline station, for the vacant lot in Houston avenue, adjoining the Houston avenue pump station, or the vacant lots in St. George street.

Four offers were made for the Fifth street lot, which has a frontage of 50 feet on Fifth street and extends through to Drury lane. The highest of these was $3,050. The others were $2,760, $1,805 and $1,500. This lot, according to the service-safety director, is appraised at $4,000, but inasmuch as the city pays no taxes it is not costing the municipality anything for its upkeep.

One Offer for Pump Station.

The property at the state line which has a frontage of about 900 feet on Harvey avenue and extends through to the old state road, brought two bids, one for $2,560 and the other for $2,005. Part of this ground, which at the present is leased for gasoline filling station purposes, brings in $25 per month, which revenue, the director points out, is six per cent interest on an investment of $5,000.

One bidder offered $2,505 for the two-story brick building in Lisbon street, formerly the West End fire station. The first floor, is being leased for an automobile paint shop, brings in a rental of $20 per month. The second floor, which until recently was leased by a West End club, netted $15 per month. The $20 rental,

Wellsville Junk Dealer's Horse is Drowned in River

A horse, owned by an unidentified Wellsville junk dealer, was drowned in the Ohio river at the Broadway wharf at 6 o'clock last evening, but the driver escaped by jumping from a wagon to which the animal was hitched.

The junk dealer, it is claimed, drove to the river for the purpose of watering his horse. Unaware of the depth at the upper part of the wharf, he directed the animal across the low retaining wall into the water. The horse and wagon sank in about 14 feet of water.

With the aid of grappling hooks, a chain and a motor truck the horse and vehicle were recovered an hour later by Peter Milliron, Second street contractor.

NEW YORK MAN ADMITS ROLE IN $75,000 JEWEL ROBBERY

One Prisoner Tells of Maiden Lane Hold-up.

NEW YORK, July 21. — Detectives early today raided a room in a Broadway hotel near Sixty-fifth street and captured two men, one of whom confessed, the police say, to the participation in a $75,000 gem robbery on Maiden lane last Monday.

In the room were found two loaded revolvers and a sawed-off shotgun. One of the men intimated that Chicago police would be glad to get him and question him about the murder of a Chicago official, believed to be Assistant State's Attorney W. H. McSwiggen.

This man said he came here from Chicago on July 12 last and mustered a gang of thieves with intent of emulating the activities of the famous Whittemore gang. He described himself as George Cohen, 26, alias Mitchell and Simonds of 4241 Roosevelt road, Chicago, Ill.

In admitting this, Cohen is alleged to have said the murder of the policeman resulted from a fight over alcohol.

"When I get to Chicago," Cohen said, "I can give valuable information about the bootleg ring there."

In addition to the Maiden lane holdup, police believe Cohen and his confederates robbed a jewelry store at 34th street and Third avenue about a month ago and that about the same time they held up another jewelry store on Broadway near 181st street.

One Man Dying, Others Injured in Toledo Plant Riot

TOLEDO, July 22.—Frank Harrison is lying at the point of death today in a local hospital and several other workmen are nursing painful injuries at the result of a riot at the Standard Oil plant in Baxshore road.

Harrison and a fellow worker quarrelled over the use of a gas still at the plant, according to police. Harrison was hit over teh head with a wrench and ageneral fight ensued.

A riot call was sent to police headquarters and after a battle the figat was stopped. Harrison will probably die, physicians said. A number of other workmen were badly beaten up.

TWO AUTOMOBILES REPORTED STOLEN

Police today were searching for two automobiles which were reported stolen from their parking places near Patterson field Monday evening.

One of the cars is a Chrysler, carrying a Florida license. According to a report received by the police, a woman about five feet four inches tall, wearing a black hat and polka dot dress was seen driving the machine away. Name of the owner was not given the police.

The other car was a 1925 model Overland touring car owned by William Walters. It carried Ohio license number 241-561.

C. B. McClintock, Stark County Prosecutor Indicates no Further Effort Will be Made to Hold "George the Greek" in Connection With Slaying of Canton Editor.

EDITOR'S ASSASSINS ARE STILL IN CANTON, SAYS DONAHEY AGENT

COLUMBUS, O., July 21.—Belief that the murder of Don. R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, was committed by two residents of Canton's underworld who are still in Canton, was voiced here today by C. H. Sisson, special investigator for Governor Vic Donahey.

Sisson returned today from Canton, where he spent the past five days conducting an investigation at the direction of the governor, into the "intrigue and corruption" which, it is believed, prompted the murder of Mellett.

Following a conference this forenoon between Sisson and Jacob Meckstroth, secretary to the governor, announcement was made that Sisson will go to Camp Perry Friday for a conference with the governor and with Adjutant General Henderson.

PITTSBURGH, July 21.—Common Pleas Judge James R. MacFarlane today ordered George Psialias, held in connection with the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton, O., publisher, released on a writ of habeas corpus.

Judge MacFarlane delivered his decision without calling for witnesses, holding that there was insufficient evidence in the brief read by William M. Randolph, assistant city prosecutor, to hold Psialias.

C. B. McClintock, city prosecutor of Canton, O., indicated that no further effort would be made to hold Psialias in connection with the murder of the editor.

Psialias' release followed the failure of Henry S. Deville, Canton broker upon whom authorities pinned their hopes of having the man held, to identify Psialias as the man he saw in the vicinity of the Mellett residence shortly before the slaying.

'GEORGE THE GREEK,' KNOWN AS CARD SHARP, MADE BIG WINNINGS HERE

The spotlight has been turned on East Liverpool in the search for the slayers of Don R. Mellett, crusading Canton newspaper publisher, who was shot to death by hired assassins as he placed his automobile in a garage last Friday morning.

As New Kensington police continued to check up on the mystery Chevrolet coach which was abandoned after it was wrecked on the Lincoln highway near West Point on Monday morning, and which is believed a factor in the assassination, it developed today that George the Greek Psialias, now held in Pittsburgh, is well known in the East Liverpool district.

Psialias, said to be the owner of a chain of coffee houses between Pittsburgh and Canton, has a reputation as a card sharp, police say. Two years ago he was a frequent visitor in East Liverpool, and is reported to have made big winnings in a gambling game that operated then in a Fourth street building.

"George the Greek," however, who has denied all knowledge of the killing, apparently has established a flawless alibi.

Registered at Warren Hotel.

WARREN, O., July 21. — After a thorough check-up on the movements of George Psilias, "George, the Greek," during his stay here Thursday night Warren police announced that they have been unable to find a flaw in his alibi offered to Pittsburgh police to prove he knows nothing of the murder of Don Mellett, Canton publisher.

W. J. BURNS AGENCY IS RETAINED TO PROBE PLOT AGAINST OTHER EDITORS

CANTON, Ohio, July 21.—Accepting the belief that Don R. Mellett, 36, was assassinated in the first move of a general conspiracy to kill all newspaper publishers and editors whose crusades hurt the activities of organized gangs of violence, the Fourth Estate one of the leading newspaper trade journals, through its publisher, H. M. Newman, has engaged the William J. Burns International Detective agency to track down the slayers of Canton's courageous publisher.

According to a telegram received today by the editors of the Canton Daily News, the Burns agency has been instructed to investigate the different ramifications of "what appears to be a concerted attempt to throttle the press of the United States by thug violence on certain newspaper editors and publishers who are prominent for their activities against organized crime."

The action was decided upon, the communication stated, at a "conference in the Fourth Estate offices at which were reviewed not only the Mellett murder but also the persecutions of Carl R. Magee, New Mexico editor of the Teapot Dome oil scandal, and George Dale of Muncie, Indiana, who, according to his own statement, was stripped of his newspaper and fortune and railroaded to jail by alleged agents of the Ku Klux Klan."

SHERIFF WRIGHT SEIZES SLOT MACHINES AT BAYARD AS COUNTY LAUNCHES DRIVE AGAINST GAMBLERS

In keeping with a state-wide "clean-up" movement to rid the state of gamblers, gunmen and undesirables, following the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton News, who was shot from ambush near his home early Friday morning, Sheriff George Wright last night launched an offensive against slot machines and other gambling devices.

Starting at Bayard in the western part of the county, he confiscated five machines. Three of these were of the money type, while the others were known as the mint machines. They were removed to the county jail.

Lisbon police last night took two machines which were found in stores of the county seat town. Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter today is at work in the vicinity of Leetonia and Columbiana.

Other towns are to be combed until all gambling equipment has been confiscated, it was declared.

Police in cities are to be requested to co-operate in the drive which was launched upon instructions of Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes.

No slot machines are operating in East Liverpool, police said.

The three money machines seized last night have been operated in the county for a long time, but the mint machines were installed only a few weeks ago, according to reports.

Brokers and Shoshones. Holding Up the Mirror. Clergyman In Earnest. We Are Very Rich.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

STOCKS went up, new high prices were recorded, the price of money went down, you could speculate cheaply, francs collapsed, bears shed tears, bulls said, "I told you so." That was yesterday's financial record.

While these things happened, Indians of the Bannoe and Shoshone tribes were dancing wildly around their totem pole near Pocatello, to please the Sun God. Aged warriors dropped in their tracks.

Authorities allowed the dance on condition that the Indians would not, as in former days, insert thongs of deer skin under the muscles of their backs and hang themselves from branches of trees, staying there until muscles or thongs gave way. Whites call that shocking. Indians think it pleases the Sun God.

Perhaps, where the angel Gabriel sits, the difference between Indians dancing around the totem pole and brokers dancing around the General Motors pole is not so great.

TO HOLD the mirror up to modern times, read headlines in newspapers, and listen to the radio.

Young people park their cars along roadsides and indulge in affectionate demonstrations. Samuel Hurd, farmer, objected. One of the young people shot him dead. Hurd will know better next time, if he returns to this plane.

THE Rev. Dr. Norris, earnest clergyman of Fort Worth, Tex., refers to himself as a "hellfire and damnation" preacher, and lives up to the description.

He attacked the mayor of his town, on religious and other grounds. When a friend of the mayor called to remonstrate Dr. Norris sent three bullets through his body. It was self-defense, he said, and thousands crowded to his church to shake hands with him.

CORONER TO ACT

Police Suspect Robert Preto Killed Three, Then Himself.

NEWTON FALLS, O., July 21. — Coroner Henshaw of Warren will hold an inquest here today into the slaying of the Robert Preto family of four members.

The quadruple tragedy was discovered by Cecil Rhineberger, a boarder, when he returned home from work.

The victims lay in bed and all were shot once through the head. Near Preto's body lay a revolver with four exploded shells.

Affair is Mystery.

The dead were:

ROBERT PAUL PRETO, 1.

"The whole affair is a mystery to the people of Newton Falls," said Mayor L. E. Price today. "The supposition is that Preto killed his family and then himself, but there are several angles that the suicide theory does not explain."

Petro was an electrician at the Newton Steel company, the mayor said.

Madison Township Farm is Hottest Place in County

The district near the Madison township farm home of Charles Swan, R. F. D. No. 1, out of Wellsville, was the hottest zone in Columbiana county yesterday.

A physician's fever thermometer placed on the north side of the house which is protected from the sun, registered 100 2-5 degrees at 3 p. m., Swan said.

Swan, who has lived on the farm for 20 years, said it was the hottest day in his memory.

THUNDERSHOWERS ARE FORECAST

Twenty-four Persons Dead in Chicago and Suburbs as Result of Heat.

With the death toll in Ohio's two-day heat wave totalling 15 at noon, relief in the form of showers is promised by the weather man tonight in the East Liverpool district.

Despite the terrific torrid temperature, no prostrations have been reported here.

Tuesday was the warmest day of the year, according to records at the United States Lock No. 8. The mercury went soaring to the 98-degree mark at 3 p. m., two degrees higher than the mark recorded at the same hour on Monday.

Government Readings.

Readings at the dam, which are taken every three hours, were: 12 noon Tuesday, 96; 3. p. m., 98; 6 p. m., 96; 9 p. m., 78; 12 midnight, 74; 3 a. m. (Wednesday), 68; 6 a. m., 66; 8 a. m., 78. The 8 a. m. reading today was four degrees higher than that recorded at the same hour yesterday morning and 10 degrees warmer than that which prevailed on Monday morning.

Lawrence Copeland, government observer at Millport, 19 miles west of here, reported a maximum temperature of 96 degrees at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Tuesday, Copeland said, was the hottest day on record so far this year. The mercury climbed to the 92-degree mark during the middle of the afternoon on Monday.

A large thermometer on the St. Clair avenue side of the Central fire station registered 118 degrees in the sun at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Temperatures in Ohio.

At least 15 persons have died in Ohio as the result of the two days of hot weather.

BIDS ON FOUR CITY PARCELS ARE TOO LOW

Rejection of Offers Made to Director Moore Looms.

OPENED TUESDAY

No Bidders Seek Taylor Lot in Sixth Street.

Bids for four of the seven pieces of city real estate offered for sale by Service-Safety Director John W. Moore were opened yesterday by the board of control, but indications today were all bids would be rejected.

Offers were submitted for the vacant lot opposite the City hospital in West Fifth street; West End fire station, Lisbon street; property in Harvey avenue at the state line and the old River Road pump station site.

No bids were received for the Taylor lot in West Sixth street, now under lease as a parking place, and gasoline station, for the vacant lot in Houston avenue, adjoining the Houston avenue pump station, or the vacant lots in St. George street.

Four offers were made for the Fifth street lot, which has a frontage of 50 feet on Fifth street and extends through to Drury lane. The highest of these was $3,050. The others were $2,760, $1,805 and $1,500. This lot, according to the service-safety director, is appraised at $4,000, but inasmuch as the city pays no taxes it is not costing the municipality anything for its upkeep.

One Offer for Pump Station.

The property at the state line which has a frontage of about 900 feet on Harvey avenue and extends through to the old state road, brought two bids, one for $2,560 and the other for $2,005. Part of this ground, which at the present is leased for gasoline filling station purposes, brings in $25 per month, which revenue, the director points out, is six per cent interest on an investment of $5,000.

One bidder offered $2,505 for the two-story brick building in Lisbon street, formerly the West End fire station. The first floor, is being leased for an automobile paint shop, brings in a rental of $20 per month. The second floor, which until recently was leased by a West End club, netted $15 per month. The $20 rental,

Wellsville Junk Dealer's Horse is Drowned in River

A horse, owned by an unidentified Wellsville junk dealer, was drowned in the Ohio river at the Broadway wharf at 6 o'clock last evening, but the driver escaped by jumping from a wagon to which the animal was hitched.

The junk dealer, it is claimed, drove to the river for the purpose of watering his horse. Unaware of the depth at the upper part of the wharf, he directed the animal across the low retaining wall into the water. The horse and wagon sank in about 14 feet of water.

With the aid of grappling hooks, a chain and a motor truck the horse and vehicle were recovered an hour later by Peter Milliron, Second street contractor.

NEW YORK MAN ADMITS ROLE IN $75,000 JEWEL ROBBERY

One Prisoner Tells of Maiden Lane Hold-up.

NEW YORK, July 21. — Detectives early today raided a room in a Broadway hotel near Sixty-fifth street and captured two men, one of whom confessed, the police say, to the participation in a $75,000 gem robbery on Maiden lane last Monday.

In the room were found two loaded revolvers and a sawed-off shotgun. One of the men intimated that Chicago police would be glad to get him and question him about the murder of a Chicago official, believed to be Assistant State's Attorney W. H. McSwiggen.

This man said he came here from Chicago on July 12 last and mustered a gang of thieves with intent of emulating the activities of the famous Whittemore gang. He described himself as George Cohen, 26, alias Mitchell and Simonds of 4241 Roosevelt road, Chicago, Ill.

In admitting this, Cohen is alleged to have said the murder of the policeman resulted from a fight over alcohol.

"When I get to Chicago," Cohen said, "I can give valuable information about the bootleg ring there."

In addition to the Maiden lane holdup, police believe Cohen and his confederates robbed a jewelry store at 34th street and Third avenue about a month ago and that about the same time they held up another jewelry store on Broadway near 181st street.

EDITOR'S ASSASSINS ARE STILL IN CANTON, SAYS DONAHEY AGENT

COLUMBUS, O., July 21.—Belief that the murder of Don. R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, was committed by two residents of Canton's underworld who are still in Canton, was voiced here today by C. H. Sisson, special investigator for Governor Vic Donahey.

Sisson returned today from Canton, where he spent the past five days conducting an investigation at the direction of the governor, into the "intrigue and corruption" which, it is believed, prompted the murder of Mellett.

Following a conference this forenoon between Sisson and Jacob Mockstroth, secretary to the governor, announcement was made that Sisson will go to Camp Perry Friday for a conference with the governor and with Adjutant General Henderson.

PITTSBURGH, July 21.—Common Pleas Judge James R. MacFarlane today ordered George Psialias, held in connection with the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton, O., publisher, released on a writ of habeas corpus.

Judge MacFarlane delivered his decision without calling for witnesses, holding that there was insufficient evidence in the brief read by William M. Randolph, assistant city prosecutor, to hold Psialias.

C. B. McClintock, city prosecutor of Canton, O., indicated that no further effort would be made to hold Psialias in connection with the murder of the editor.

Psialias' release followed the failure of Henry S. Deville, Canton broker upon whom authorities pinned their hopes of having the man held, to identify Psialias as the man he saw in the vicinity of the Mellett residence shortly before the slaying.

'GEORGE THE GREEK,' KNOWN AS CARD SHARP, MADE BIG WINNINGS HERE

The spotlight has been turned on East Liverpool in the search for the slayers of Don R. Mellett, crusading Canton newspaper publisher, who was shot to death by hired assassins as he placed his automobile in a garage last Friday morning.

As New Kensington police continued to check up on the mystery Chevrolet coach which was abandoned after it was wrecked on the Lincoln highway near West Point on Monday morning, and which is believed a factor in the assassination, it developed today that George the Greek Psialias, now held in Pittsburgh, is well known in the East Liverpool district.

Psialias, said to be the owner of a chain of coffee houses between Pittsburgh and Canton, has a reputation as a card sharp, police say. Two years ago he was a frequent visitor in East Liverpool, and is reported to have made big winnings in a gambling game that operated then in a Fourth street building.

"George the Greek," however, who has denied all knowledge of the killing, apparently has established a flawless alibi.

Registered at Warren Hotel.

WARREN, O., July 21. — After a thorough check-up on the movements of George Psilias, "George, the Greek," during his stay here Thursday night Warren police announced that they have been unable to find a flaw in his alibi offered to Pittsburgh police to prove he knows nothing of the murder of Don Mellett, Canton publisher.

The movements of Psilias were checked from 9 o'clock last Thursday night until 12:45 Friday morning. After completing the investigation

Big Game Increases In National Forests; Reserve is Advocated

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Big game is increasing in the national forests of the United States, according to J. B. Royall, Florida commissioner of game and fish. National authorities attribute the increase, Royall said, to more effective enforcement of game laws, destruction of predatory animals by state and federal hunters, and, in a few states, complete prohibition of hunting in the forest reserves because of the danger of forest fires.

There are two national forests in Florida. Commissioner Royall advocates a game reserve for a permanent breeding ground for wild game in each county of the state.

Big Game Increases In National Forests; Reserve is Advocated

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Big game is increasing in the national forests of the United States, according to J. B. Royall, Florida commissioner of game and fish. National authorities attribute the increase, Royall said, to more effective enforcement of game laws, destruction of predatory animals by state and federal hunters, and, in a few states, complete prohibition of hunting in the forest reserves because of the danger of forest fires.

There are two national forests in Florida. Commissioner Royall advocates a game reserve for a permanent breeding ground for wild game in each county of the state.

CHAPTER TWENTY.

They were silent for a time. Lou sipped her coffee. For once in her capable life she found herself completely at a loss. As incapable as he had been in the evening.

"Better eat your breakfast, Wilbur," she said, to break the tension of the silence. "Food is useful, you know."

"Yes, I know." He ate a little, then laid down his egg-spoon. "But I'm coming to what I've got to ask you. It's pretty difficult. I—" That sentence didn't get really begun. But after a moment he went at it again, resolutely. "It's a lot to ask, what I'm going to ask of you. Probably it's weak in me. I just thought it would—of course, you may feel you couldn't do any such thing—"

"What is it?" she asked, almost sharply.

"Well, I can ask it. And you can refuse. It wont make any difference in our friendship. I just felt—"

"Wilbur, what is it?"

"You see, Mother's deepest fear is that I'll marry. I've known that for years. You didn't know that I was engaged for a while. Three years ago. It didn't get anywhere. She—" His voice failed him, but he came back to it. "She really broke it off — the things she said and did. It was on her nerves so. Well, anyway, here's what I've been working out. It's the only course I seem to be able to see. I've got to do everything possible to make her realize that it's a real break—and then start in trying to be decent—kinder than I have been. And I wondered if you—if you'd be willing to let me tell her I'm engaged to you."

Her lids drooped. She thought swiftly, wondering at first if he was merely traveling that emotional circle of the evening, and then considering the many possible complications.

He went on with a sort of eagerness: "Of course, I realize now that you could never marry me. I guess I was crazy. I'm not the—I wouldn't tell anybody else. And it needn't mean a thing. Just to help me now."

"It would get out," said she.

"It needn't—not in your crowd down here. You see, I want her to see that I've actually bought a ring, and—"

"Oh, no," said she. "No ring!"

"I—" He hesitated. "I'm afraid that would be part of it."

"I want to help you Wilbur—in any possible way. But I'm afraid I can't let you give me a ring."

"I want to show it to her. And I couldn't hide it in the apartment. She goes through everything—opens my letters—everything."

"There's your desk at the office. She can't very well get into that."

"That's so. I hadn't thought. Perhaps I was partly selfish in that. I couldn't help wanting to—well, to find a beautiful stone and give it to you. Even if it meant nothing except how I feel. You've been so—there'll never be anybody—"

He faltered. And she sat thinking. Finally she looked at him in her direct way, and smiled gently.

"All right," she said. "I'll do it. I'll do what I can, if it will help you work it out. Yes, I could go through with that. I'll come and have dinner with you and her. Act it out the best I can. Yes, I could do that."

Misgivings came later at the office. It was an odd tangle. Rather theatrical, she felt—with possibilities of development in the direction of comedy as well as of somewhat more serious drama. It could no more have been explained to Leslie than to a child of two. He would settle down on the unshakable belief that she played double all along.

Bee came home from the theater on that last Saturday night, her last night of regular work, in fatalistic mood. Her thoughts, as she climbed to the apartment, were on anything but the tempestuous Fred.

Lou, curled up on the couch, reading greeted her with a significant nod toward the center-table. A small parcel lay there, nearly covered with insurance stamps. Bee lifted it and turned it over in her hand.

"Aren't you going to open it?" Lou asked.

"Why should I? It's from Fred."

"Haven't you any curiosity? My word, I have!"

"I don't know." Bee hung up her coat and hat, and then, returning to the table, picked it up again.

"What do you suppose it is?"

"Rather looks like jewelry.

"Hmp!" Bee weighed it in her hand; then, with another little "Hmph!" slowly untied the knotted string. "Jewelry is right," she said, opening the box within the wrappings and exhibiting a platinum bracelet. "Hmp! Diamonds!"

Lou grinned—then threw back her head and laughed aloud as Bee, with an indignant expression (she was too weary for humor) reached quickly for the telephone. "Shucks!" she said. "Why not keep it. I wouldn't mind wearing it. I will say Fred has nice ideas. And he couldn't be called stingy."

But the adamantine Bee sent it straight back by district messenger. Her only remark regarding the incident, after the boy had come and gone, was: "Wish I'd waited an hour—just to be reasonably sure of waking him up. But I'm too sleepy myself."

All day Monday Bee tramped Broadway, looking her desperate prettiest, going from one theatrical office to another. Nearly everywhere she was confronted with the familiar placard, "Positively no engagements today." Other girls and women, in similar cases—girls with bobbed heads and suspiciously copper hair, tall girls and little ingenues—were coming and going in and out of the musty corridors, and a few men.

When she reached home, at six o'clock, aching with weariness, she found Lou standing over an enormous cabinet with a tall pile of disk records beside it on a chair.

Mrs. Nellstrom must have let them in with it," said Lou. "Did you ever see anything so big! It's a regular house." And she added: "There's a note tied to the handle."

"I'm not going to read it."

"Oh, come!"

"You can, if you want to. Not me."

Lou opened the envelope, then chuckled. "Fred is a man of ideas, in his rather primitive way, Bee. He says: 'Try waking me up with this, and see what luck you have.' "

"He's rather got you there, old thing. I can't quite picture a messenger-boy carrying that structure uptown under his arm,"

"All right. But it goes straight back in the morning. I don't care what it costs."

A dried-rose-petal fluttered from the envelope to the floor.

"Mm!" observed Lou. "Romantic stuff."

"If he's romantic, I'm not," said Bee savagely, disappearing into the bedroom.

But nevertheless she returned home on the following evening with a measure of dread; and even, as the week wore on and no further gifts appeared with a little pique. Without a word Fred appeared to have dropped his campaign. It could hardly mean that he had changed overnight. He wasn't that sort. Nor was it likely that the prompt return of that monstrous cabinet had discouraged him. More likely he would pop up when she least looked for it.

"I'll say this for Fred,' she remarked one morning over the coffee, "he did pretty nearly set me on edge. I'm beginning to wish I could get out of this darn town for a while.

"Where could you go?"

Bee spread her hands. "Nowhere. I certainly wont give up and go back home. I'll never do that!"

Never at any time during the present county administration has there been more perfect harmony among authorities of the different branches, the sheriff pointed out, with the result that conditions in the county are said to be the best in years.

PLAN FEATURE FOR BIG PICNIC

Homer Laughlin Squad to Meet Leaguers at Youngstown.

Announcement was made today that an extra feature had been arranged for the annual outing of the employes of the Homer Laughlin China company to be held at Idora park on Saturday, August 21.

This will consist of a ball game between the Homer Laughlin China team of the Industrial league and the Youngstown O. & P. league club. The game will be played either in the morning or afternoon. Manager Reisinger, of the Youngstown club, plans to make an effort to have the regular league game scheduled for that day sidetracked and if he fails in this the game will be staged in the morning.

Plans for the event are going forward and will be completed at a meeting of the general committee composed of representatives from the six shops of the company next week.

32 PRISONERS IN COUNTY JAIL

Perfect co-ordination between the county, district, city and state law enforcement officials of Hancock county has crowded the county prison at New Cumberland to near its capacity, Sheriff Al Tope announced yesterday.

There are 32 prisoners including three women now occupying cells. Many are being held without bond for the next term of court, although the majority are serving sentences.

Never at any time during the present county administration has there been more perfect harmony among authorities of the different branches, the sheriff pointed out, with the result that conditions in the county are said to be the best in years.

Building Frit House.

New building to house the frit kiln is being erected at plant No. 5 of the Homer Laughlin China company. When completed it will house machinery and other equipment.

Mid-Week Services.

Pastors will be in charge of the mid-week prayer services tonight in the local churches.

Many Attending Outing.

Number of Newell business men are attending the annual picnic today at Rock Springs park under the auspices of the Chester Business Men's association. Program of sport events were featured. Lunch was served during the afternoon.

Mexican Boosters

Wonders will never cease. The incredible is always breaking out in some new form. Mexico has taken up the American boosting spirit and is full of Babbitts and publicity stunts. This is on the authority of a dispatch from Dallas, Tex., from which vantage-point eagle-eyed newspaper men interpret Mexico to the states.

"The Chamber of Commerce," we read, "has become a real part of Mexican civic life. Scores of smaller communities have their chambers to promote home affairs, much as do towns in the United States, but yet with a sufficiently different character to retain a distinct Mexican atmosphere."

For example, a special train laden with tourists will be taken several hundred miles, into a strange town, where the passengers will be transferred to dilapidated carriages and hauled over unpaved streets, past one-story adobe buildings, to the local chamber of commerce. There they will find an official welcome, translated from Spanish into English, and a reception and dance, in which introductions are waived and the visitors may dance, to good music, with handsome Mexican girls. After prolonged entertainment and manifestations of good will, the guests are returned to their train, and as they move away the orchestra stands on the station platform bidding them good-by with music.

This sort of thing, widely done, will give Americans a more friendly interest in Mexico and Mexicans, quite aside from their business interest. It also challenges admiration. If the slow, backward Mexicans are evolving into a nation of boosters and go-getters, then, the average American will conclude, there is hope for Mexico.

Farm Engineering

"Modern farming in 85 per cent engineering," says Thomas D. Campbell, a big Montana wheat grower. He thinks the farmer of the future will necessarily be a skilled engineer, and the farm hand will be a skilled mechanic.

Farm work tends more and more to be done by machinery. There is amazingly effective machinery available now for nearly all important farm operations, and the mechanism and method are continually improving, thanks to American inventiveness. America is teaching the world how to farm.

Farming is literally the greatest of our industries, Mr. Campbell reminds those who belittle it. During the height of the season it requires more horsepower than any other industry.

As machines are substituted for men, giving more horsepower and less manpower, the men employed must necessarily change in type, and their fortunes much change with them.

"Farming employes will ultimately be paid wages as attractive as those offered to the skilled laborer in the cities. This will be done through the use of power machinery, employment of skilled artisans and the consequent increased output per man power which will result in reducing the labor cost per acre. We have worked out a method of power farming in connection with farm management which takes a great portion of the weather hazard out of farming in the great wheat growing states, especially in those where the rainfall averages some 14 to 15 inches a year. We feel that we can eliminate low grade transient labor which for years has come to the harvest fields. By substituting skilled mechanics we have greatly decreased the production cost per acre."

This kind of progress, applied to agriculture in general, will unquestionably make farming far more congenial in the future than it is today, and far more profitable for those engaged in it. This is a natural and inevitable development which is overlooked by most of those who say there is "no future in farming."

A Horrific Epithet

Lady Astor, formerly of Kentucky, now a prominent member of the British parliament, has won a new distinction. George Lansbury, Labor member, called her a "liar," to her face, in a parliamentary debate.

Just how her ladyship reacted to that unaccustomed epithet is not recorded, but the offending member was promptly called to order and asked to withdraw the expression. Whereupon he distinguished himself and the unabridged dictionary by apologizing and explaining that the lady, instead of lying, was merely guilty of a "terminological inexactitude."

That was dreadful enough. Thinking it over, a short and ugly word is no worse than two long and ugly words.

Medicine For The Franc

When the French franc sinks from a fraction over five to the dollar to 37 to the dollar, it is pretty far down, to be sure, as the German mark and Russian ruble went—but look what happened to them. France doesn't want ever to see a million francs paid for a bowl of soup.

The new Briand ministry, straining to keep that poor franc from slipping farther and willing to do almost anything to start it up again toward par, urges ratification of the Berenger-Mellon agreement made at Washington a few months ago for the funding of the French debt.

That is undoubtedly right as far as it goes. Failure to settle with America has driven the franc down by creating general distrust of French finance. Ratification of the agreement, which on the whole is about as favorable to France as can be expected, would strengthen the franc by strengthening faith in France's financial integrity.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 21.—Perhaps no character in Manhattan proves so puzzling as Waldo Pierce, a silk-stocking aristocrat who elects to travel rather unconventional paths. He has wealth, but he might be taken at times for a carrier of the banner.

From his enormous 250-pounds bulk issues an oddly modulated voice. His face is adorned with a shaggy beard, his shoes run out at heel, his shirt held together with a safety pin, tieless and his hat ready to adorn a refuse can.

His epigrams are reminiscent of the brilliant mots of Oscar Wilde. He is a painter—having exhibited on Fifth avenue—a writer and a globe trotter of note. During the war he was among the first of the American ambulance drivers and was a distinguished Harvard football star before that.

He once decided on a steamer a few miles out he didn't really care to go to Europe, so he jumped off and swam ashore. He is not a publicity seeker, and for years has led reporters a merry chase. He merely likes to live as the impulses seize him.

In Paris he is almost as well known as the Trocadero. One night, the story goes, he was complaining in a cafe that he had to pay 10 centimes more than most folk for butter. A sympathetic waiter told him where he could go for better treatment. So he promptly bought the cafe and gave it to the astonished garcos.

His father is an indulgent lumberman in Maine whose purse is always open for any outlandish whim of adventure that may start his son off overnight to a far-flung spot on the outer rim of the world. One summer day he is reported walking up the avenue with his feet clad only in rubbers. "They're comfortable," he explained.

People may smile at Pierce but when they meet him they are astounded at his knowledge of almost every topic. Just now he is reported on his way to a tiny Arab fishing village of Tunis with his wife, Ivy Troutman, a former distinguished actress, who adores him.

Pierce somehow reminds me of a writer of gypsy stories who several years back was swept into a sudden success. He had before that been a $25-a-week fiddler in an East Side cafe. He bought a home on Riverside drive and with his wife and children moved in. The home was luxuriously furnished, but during most of their occupancy they lived in the basement, where they also entertained friends. "We find we are more comfortable there," was the simple explanation of the writer.

I've always been afraid of those elegant mansions for a somewhat similar reason. I don't believe I could keep out of the kitchen. Cholly Knickerbocker, my favorite society spy, tells me the super rich never go near the kitchen.

I've wondered if—Otto Kahn, for instance—hedged about by butlers, pantrymen, second pantrymen and such, ever goes pirooting into the ice box after all the help has gone to the servants' hall. If there's any delicacy that beats the boiled cold potato out of the ice box late at night I've never run across it. Somehow one must be dressed—or rather undressed—for the event. Either in pajamas or the long-tailed night shirt.

A New York salesman writes this: "Before a mirror in Grand Central I saw what passes for a man powder his face, take a lipstick from his pocket and rouge his lips. Several others saw it. And nobody did a thing."

There is doubtless too much of this live and let live spirit in New York.

HASKIN'S LETTER

Aviation to The Fore.
I—Army Air Plans.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Aviation, both military and civil, is coming into a place of increased importance in the United States as a result of bills passed by the session of congress just ended, which were based on the several investigations held during the past year, particularly on that by the president's aircraft board over which Dwight P. Morrow presided.

Three new assistant cabinet officers were authorized by the congress, and definite, constructive aviation programs laid out for the Army, for the Navy, and for commercial aviation. After many struggles and some bitter differences of opinion, the United States, the nation which through the Wright brothers, gave aviation to the world, is again in a way to a place of world leadership in flying. We have some distance to go to make up for lost time, but the basic fabric of law has been laid down to permit steady, accurate development.

The new assistant secretaries of the war and navy departments will be the directors of the flying programs for the national defense. The new assistant secretary of commerce will have charge, under Mr. Hoover, of matters dealing with commercial aviation. Each of the armed service has a definite five year program laid out by congress, providing both for men and for machines, or as they say in the army, for personnel and material.

Congress really had a big task in coordinating all of the information and advice which was laid before it into three constructive laws. The case of army aviation will illustrate how difficult was the task and how faithfully the law-makers worked at it. The army five year aviation program was before the military committees of both house and senate from practically the day congress assembled in December last. The bill finally agreed to and smoothed out in conference between the house and senate was one of the last acts passed before the congress adjourned in July.

Back of all this work in congress were the reports of the Lassiter board, the special select committee of the house which met much of last year, and the president's aircraft board of civilian experts which met last autumn under Mr. Morrow's chairmanship. The episodes of the General Wm. Mitchell court martial also furnished information which was of use.

The resulting army five year program is described by Congressman W. Frank James, of Michigan, its principal author, in a statement in United States Air Service Magazine, as "a compromise, but at the same time a most important step in the right direction for the development of the air forces in our national defense."

The new program is a compromise from the extreme view of Gen. Mitchell, who wanted a separate flying department, but it is quite closely in accord with the views of the Morrow board. In the matter of administration it creates a new assistant secretary of war in charge of aviation, sets up the air corps of the army on a firm basis, with representation on the general staff, with a major general in charge as chief of the air corps, three brigadier generals to assist him, and an adequate force of officers, ninety per cent of whom, including the chief of the air corps and two of the brigadiers, must be flying officers.

Army Program.

The sub-committee headed by Congressman James has several experienced aviators now in congress as members. Representative Allen Furlow of Minnesota, a flying ace in the World war, wrote several clauses into the bill which requires flying officers in andd flying commands, and make certain that aviation in the army will not fall under the direction of non-flying theorists. Provisions allowing flying pay as a permanent policy, allowing enlisted men to become pilots, allowing other enlisted men to secure rank as air mechanics, allowing special temporary commissioned rank for officers in special places of responsibility, and similar efforts to recognize properly the special and dangerous work done by leaders in development of flying, all tend to place the aviation services of the army on a solid foundation and to develop a force of trained experts who will remain with the service as it grows.

The five year program will develop a total force of 1650 regular officers, 550 reserve officers, and 15,000 en-

EASY FOR THE TRAINED GERMAN MIND

Seventeen years ago when I was a reporter on the New York Evening World, the body of a young woman, expensively dressed, was found in a thicket in a lonely and remote part of Long Island. She had been murdered—shot through the head. Harry Stowe of our staff, since deceased, was the first reporter to reach the place. The body had not been moved; and in searching about it Stowe happened upon something the local coroner had overlooked—a scrap of discolored paper, bearing printed and written words in German upon it.

Stowe quietly slipped the paper into his pocket and caught the first train for town. He couldn't read German himself, so he took his find to the office of the German consul. There he met an elderly, spectacled, exceedingly serious-looking under-secretary, who translated the printed and written inscriptions for him.

Then the secretary wanted to know what it was all about. Stowe told him, explaining that the identity of the murdered woman was still a profound mystery—that nobody could guess who or what she was. He described her clothing in some detail.

Pooh! snorted the German. 'Stupid fools that these American policemen are! To the trained mind the whole thing is simplicity itself. By a process of elimination and deduction it is possible to ascertain beyond question exactly what manner of woman this was."

"Could you do it!" asked Strowe hopefully.

"In one little minute!" said the under secretary impressively.

"Go ahead then, please, and do it," begged Strowe.

"Very well," said the German. "My young friend, please follow me closely. This paper shows that some women bought at a store in Leipsic certain small articles, kitchen utensils—a breadknife, a potato-masher, a coffee-grinder. No woman in Germany, unless she was a housewife, would buy such things. So!

"On the other hand, this woman, you tell me, wore forty dollar corsets. No woman in Germany, unless she was an actress, would wear forty dollar corsets.

"No actress would buy common household utensils. That would make her a housewife! No housewife would wear forty dollar corsets. That would make her an actress! And there you are!"

The new assistant secretaries of the war and navy departments will be the directors of the flying programs for the national defense. The new assistant secretary of commerce will have charge, under Mr. Hoover, of matters dealing with commercial aviation. Each of the armed service has a definite five year program laid out by congress, providing both for men and for machines, or as they say in the army, for personnel and material.

Congress really had a big task in coordinating all of the information and advice which was laid before it into three constructive laws. The case of army aviation will illustrate how difficult was the task and how faithfully the law-makers worked at it. The army five year aviation program was before the military committees of both house and senate from practically the day congress assembled in December last. The bill finally agreed to and smoothed out in conference between the house and senate was one of the last acts passed before the congress adjourned in July.

Back of all this work in congress were the reports of the Lassiter board, the special select committee of the house which met much of last year, and the president's aircraft board of civilian experts which met last autumn under Mr. Morrow's chairmanship. The episodes of the General Wm. Mitchell court martial also furnished information which was of use.

The resulting army five year program is described by Congressman W. Frank James, of Michigan, its principal author, in a statement in United States Air Service Magazine, as "a compromise, but at the same time a most important step in the right direction for the development of the air forces in our national defense."

The new program is a compromise from the extreme view of Gen. Mitchell, who wanted a separate flying department, but it is quite closely in accord with the views of the Morrow board. In the matter of administration it creates a new assistant secretary of war in charge of aviation, sets up the air corps of the army on a firm basis, with representation on the general staff, with a major general in charge as chief of the air corps, three brigadier generals to assist him, and an adequate force of officers, ninety per cent of whom, including the chief of the air corps and two of the brigadiers, must be flying officers.

Army Program.

The sub-committee headed by Congressman James has several experienced aviators now in congress as members. Representative Allen Furlow of Minnesota, a flying ace in the World war, wrote several clauses into the bill which requires flying officers in andd flying commands, and make certain that aviation in the army will not fall under the direction of non-flying theorists. Provisions allowing flying pay as a permanent policy, allowing enlisted men to become pilots, allowing other enlisted men to secure rank as air mechanics, allowing special temporary commissioned rank for officers in special places of responsibility, and similar efforts to recognize properly the special and dangerous work done by leaders in development of flying, all tend to place the aviation services of the army on a solid foundation and to develop a force of trained experts who will remain with the service as it grows.

The five year program will develop a total force of 1650 regular officers, 550 reserve officers, and 15,000 en-

EASY FOR THE TRAINED GERMAN MIND

Seventeen years ago when I was a reporter on the New York Evening World, the body of a young woman, expensively dressed, was found in a thicket in a lonely and remote part of Long Island. She had been murdered—shot through the head. Harry Stowe of our staff, since deceased, was the first reporter to reach the place. The body had not been moved; and in searching about it Stowe happened upon something the local coroner had overlooked—a scrap of discolored paper, bearing printed and written words in German upon it.

Stowe quietly slipped the paper into his pocket and caught the first train for town. He couldn't read German himself, so he took his find to the office of the German consul. There he met an elderly, spectacled, exceedingly serious-looking under-secretary, who translated the printed and written inscriptions for him.

Then the secretary wanted to know what it was all about. Stowe told him, explaining that the identity of the murdered woman was still a profound mystery—that nobody could guess who or what she was. He described her clothing in some detail.

Pooh! snorted the German. 'Stupid fools that these American policemen are! To the trained mind the whole thing is simplicity itself. By a process of elimination and deduction it is possible to ascertain beyond question exactly what manner of woman this was."

"Could you do it!" asked Strowe hopefully.

"In one little minute!" said the under secretary impressively.

"Go ahead then, please, and do it," begged Strowe.

"Very well," said the German. "My young friend, please follow me closely. This paper shows that some women bought at a store in Leipsic certain small articles, kitchen utensils—a breadknife, a potato-masher, a coffee-grinder. No woman in Germany, unless she was a housewife, would buy such things. So!

"On the other hand, this woman, you tell me, wore forty dollar corsets. No woman in Germany, unless she was an actress, would wear forty dollar corsets.

"No actress would buy common household utensils. That would make her a housewife! No housewife would wear forty dollar corsets. That would make her an actress! And there you are!"

MRS. LEONARD RITES FRIDAY

Succumbs After Observing One Hundredth Birthday.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hannah Leonard, Columbiana county's only centenarian, who died yesterday shortly after noon, will be held Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the late home in Sixth street, in charge of Rev. L. E. Lee, pastor of the First Christian church, and Rev. Armstrong, retired minister. Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Leonard was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stockman, and the oldest of a family of 13—six boys and seven girls. She was a girl when her family moved westward from Pennsylvania into Ohio. Their trip into New Lisbon, now Lisbon and the county seat of Columbiana county, was not a matter of a few hours' ride on the train. It took days and weeks to wend their way through the hills and valleays to the Ohio river, and then down the river in a barge-like craft, mostly hand propelled. She was 14 years old when the family settled in Columbiana county.

Married When 20.

One year later she became a member of the Christian church by immersion in Little Beaver creek by Rev. Harrison Jones, then in charge of the little flock there.

When she was 20 she became the bride of Thomas P. Leonard, the marriage being solemnized in western Pennsylvania by a justice of the peace. No licenses were required at that time. Her husband has been dead for 46 years.

Seven years after her marriage she and her husband went over the stage route to Wellsville and she has lived here since.

Remembers First Train.

In 1852 Mrs. Leonard was a resident here when the most of Wellsville's population stood out in the rain all day to see the first train in from Cleveland on the connecting railroad line that was completed that year. They were rewarded by the sight of a small engine and caboose.

The blood of Quaker stock flowed through Mrs. Leonard's veins, and, consequently she did not believe in war, although 14 of her great-grandsons fought for Uncle Sam in the World conflict.

She lived in the atmosphere of hostilities during the Mexican conflict, the Civil war, the Spanish war and the World war. Of the 14 youths of her line who shouldered guns in 1918, one lost his life—Earl McLain, oldest grandson of her daughter, Mrs. Ellen McLain.

Her views on warfare and bloodshed were undisturbed during the excitement that accompanied the farthest northern foray of Morgan, "The Raider," and his capture on the Crubaugh farm, eight miles north of Wellsville. That was in July of 1863.

Cooked for Union Soldiers.

probably the most outstanding occurrence to her in connection with Morgan's visit was the fact that she and other housewives of the day baked and cooked for several days for the union forces that tented in Creek Bottom prior to Morgan's capture.

Mrs. Leonard has four children living: Mrs. Elizabeth Myers, of Cleveland, the oldest; Mrs. Hannah Polyblank, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Ellen McLain, both of whom are with their mother now, and Charles Leonard, of Cleveland, sheriff of Columbiana county in 1903 and 1904.

Council Asked Not to Permit St. Rocco Observance.

Asserting that "it is to the best interests of the town and that the citizens demand it," the Wesleyan Bible class of the First Methodist Episcopal church last night asked council to refuse to grant a permit for the observance of St. Rocco's day by Italian residents of the city.

The request was made in a letter composed by the class, said to include 100 members, and signed by Holly M. Kessell, president.

Petitioning council "to decline to grant a permit for the annual demonstration by Italian people in honor of St. Rocco," the Wesleyan class referred to the intense feeling at the time of the slaying of Patrolman James Kenney. The class charged that the observance is "actuated as a commercial proposition for certain individuals."

Council received the letter and placed it on file, debating for a short time as to who had authority to grant or refuse the permission, the matter reaching a settlement when City Solicitor Luccock pointed out that primarily a decision is in the hands of council by virtue of an ordinance enacted in 1910.

Question of authority was raised by Mayor W. L. Fogo who anounced that he had already granted Italian residents permission to hold the observance and asserted that if it was not his place to do so he wanted to know about it.

He prefaced his request with a few remarks. He pointed out that several hundred people can be seen every other day or so watching City Industrial League baseball games at Central park.

He further explained that crowds sometimes reaching into the thousands derive pleasure from football games at Central park.

Continuing, he called to mind how, in previous observances by Italians in honor of St. Rocco, the breaking of an aerial light over Central park revealed hundreds crowded on the hillside, countless automobiles surrounding the park and two or three thousand crowded in the park.

He asserted that he had no more than a nominal interest in baseball, was not a football enthusiast, nor did he derive any untold satisfaction out of fireworks, but, nevertheless, he pointed out, other people did and if it was their pleasure to go to ball games or fireworks, it was inconsistent to legislate against some one else's activities.

At the same time, he explained, he had warned against the practice of exploding bombs daily for a week or so previous to the actual celebration as was done last year and he suggested that more set pieces and fewer noise making devices be used.

Although President Clyde Baker called for councilmanic action immediately in order that those promoting the observance could know how to act, solons adjourned and it is likely that nothing further will be done until the next session.

WALKER'S 'CAMP' IS BROKEN UP

Heeding the injunction to wreck what was termed "Hell's Half Acre, Camp No. 2," located on the property formerly occupied by the Walker Sewer Pipe Co., overlooking the Ohio river midway between East Liverpool and Wellsville, those who operated the camp silently folded their tent and moved away.

Sheriff George Wright and Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter made a trip to the camp site again Tuesday night. All remaining to indicate there had been a camp there was a dirty plank used as a table and the whitewashed line of sewer pipe laid in a circle about the place. The plank was shoved into the Ohio river.

When Sheriff Wright and his raiders swooped down upon the camp shortly before midnight last Saturday, sleepy-eyed attendants were told to break camp with the dawn, also that the raiding party would make a return visit. When the second visit to the camp was made there was no tent, and no one about the place.

"We propose to visit this spot several times a week from now on," Sheriff Wright declared Wednesday, "and there will be no more camp there as long as we can prevent one from being established."

LOT DEFENDANT TO FILE ANSWER

Cecil H. Taylor, defendant in two actions pending in court, all growing out of a lot sale in Wellsville several months ago, has been granted leave by Judge William H. Spence to file his answer by July 31. In the case of M. K. Duty, of Wellsville, against Taylor, an injunction was sought, and on whose petition a temporary restraining order was issued April 12 when the petition was filed, and in the case of Flay Clapsaddle, of East Liverpool, money and a restraining order were also sought.

Duty claims those interests who put the lot sale on is indebted to him for work and labor, and Clapsaddle has a claim against the defendant for the same cause. The restraining order was for the purpose of preventing any distribution of funds that were the result of the sale of lots by an intensified advertising campaign.

1927 BUDGET IS APPROVED

City's Estimates Will be Submitted to County Auditor.

City Auditor Fred Eckfeld's budget estimate for 1927, calling for approximately $94,000, which will be turned in to the county auditor, was approved last night by council.

The budget is compiled on the basis of a valuation of $10,074,150.

Although the municipal budget will cut the tax rate about three and a half mills, the school district's financial needs, as well as state levies, may bring it back up again.

Mayor W. L. Fogo, addressing the solons, admonished them not to permit the rate to become higher and, if possible, slice some of it off.

An ordinance directing the safety-service department to readvertise for bids for a fire truck and pumper of not less than 33 horsepower, S. A. E., rating, and 500 gallon capacity, was passed by solons under suspended rules.

Seven old bids, received during the administration of the late J. J. Grafton, which were never acted upon, will be returned.

Objecting to a 10-year contract with the Ohio Power company, Mayor Fogo cautioned council to review their electric light needs before completing the deal for municipal current.

Although favoring back street lights, the mayor also declared that the city should, if possible, light the white way, burning the entire system up until 11 o'clock and then switching half of the lights off.

"Light is the best police protection," asserted Mayor Fogo.

The use of saws and shears on trees throughout the city, which are at present preventing the spread of illumination from street lights, was recommended by the mayor.

Auditor Eckfeld's report for June showed the following balances: General fund, $162.25 overdrawn; safety, $174.19 overdrawn; health, $478.48; service, $1,167.95; water, $1,645.44; cemetery, $1,868.34; library, $320.86; special water, $29,954.62; gasoline tax, $3.996; auto licenses, $4,216.03; cemetery trust, $414.77; firemen's indemnity, $192.52; sinking fund depository, $34,494.

Councilman Ted Swearingen, acting for W. B. Nicholson, as chairman of the street and light committee, called council's attention to a garage built into Beech street over the regular property line, it is said.

The owner of the garage was forced to extend the garage into the street in order to get his car into it. Later, it was said, an adjoining property owner pushed his fence back on a line with the garage.

Solons pointed out that if all of the property owners along the street act likewise, the city is liable to lose some property.

The street and light committee was instructed to investigate the situation.

An ordinance directing the safety-service department to readvertise for bids for a fire truck and pumper of not less than 33 horsepower, S. A. E., rating, and 500 gallon capacity, was passed by solons under suspended rules.

Seven old bids, received during the administration of the late J. J. Grafton, which were never acted upon, will be returned.

Objecting to a 10-year contract with the Ohio Power company, Mayor Fogo cautioned council to review their electric light needs before completing the deal for municipal current.

Although favoring back street lights, the mayor also declared that the city should, if possible, light the white way, burning the entire system up until 11 o'clock and then switching half of the lights off.

"Light is the best police protection," asserted Mayor Fogo.

The use of saws and shears on trees throughout the city, which are at present preventing the spread of illumination from street lights, was recommended by the mayor.

Auditor Eckfeld's report for June showed the following balances: General fund, $162.25 overdrawn; safety, $174.19 overdrawn; health, $478.48; service, $1,167.95; water, $1,645.44; cemetery, $1,868.34; library, $320.86; special water, $29,954.62; gasoline tax, $3.996; auto licenses, $4,216.03; cemetery trust, $414.77; firemen's indemnity, $192.52; sinking fund depository, $34,494.

Councilman Ted Swearingen, acting for W. B. Nicholson, as chairman of the street and light committee, called council's attention to a garage built into Beech street over the regular property line, it is said.

The owner of the garage was forced to extend the garage into the street in order to get his car into it. Later, it was said, an adjoining property owner pushed his fence back on a line with the garage.

Solons pointed out that if all of the property owners along the street act likewise, the city is liable to lose some property.

The street and light committee was instructed to investigate the situation.

listed men, including 500 flying cadets. It contemplates 1800 serviceable airplanes and as many airships and balloons as may be required for auxiliary purposes and training. One of the assistants to the chief of the air corps will have charge of material and supply.

The development of the army program is designed to work in harmony with the business of airplane building as an industry, so that as time goes on we may have a more substantial industry furnishing planes and supplies to both military and civil aviation, and available for emergency development in case of war. In matters of engineering and design, the officers of the air corps will, it is planned, work in harmony with civilian inventors and manufacturers, to keep the United States in the forefront of modern development of better and safer airplanes, as well as more durable and useful machines for all purposes.

Sound Forward Step.

The new five year program does not run into any vast expense but will direct the expenditures for army aviation along definite, budgetted lines. The money which congress does appropriate, from year to year, will be for a known and well-charted program, not for fads and notions as they crop up. All of the studies and investigations which have led to a five year program, while they took time and created some bitterness, have resulted in a definite line of procedure, constructive at each step, and economical in operation. Men like Mr James, who has headed the house sub-committee on army aviation since 1919 without ever being able to pass a single bill until 1926, feel that their studies and labors have at length been rewarded by a sound forward step.

President Coolidge, who appointed the president's aircraft board in 1925 to study the whole program of air defenses, after Secretary of War Davis had recommended such a step, promptly signed the James bill, and named for the position of assistant secretary of war in charge of aviation F. Trubee Davison of New York, a young man who was in the flying service in the World war. Mr. Davison is a son of the late Henry P. Davison, who was a member of the firm of J P. Morgan & Company and was chairman of the American Red Cross during the war. The younger Davison has been a member of the New York legislature, an organizer of the Crime commission which has sought ways and means of eradicating crime in our cities, and is devoting his life to public service.

General Mason M. Patrick becomes chief of the air corps, a post for which he is well fitted because, although an army officer before flying was invented, he qualified as a pilot when 59 years old, an almost unprecedented accomplishment. He has been at the head of the army aviation prior to the passage of the new act, and the five year program follows many of his suggestions.

Additional training facilities to bring the list of flying officers up to the strength required for a real air force are being provided, and by the end of five years the air corps will have no difficulty providing the trained experts for every phase of its work. The ten per cent of non-flying officers allowed gives room for such technical non-flyers as may be needed to complete the work of the corps.

So great was the hurricane in parts of the Leeward Islands two years ago that the people have not yet recovered from the effects.

Miss Sylvia Shay Becomes Bride of Rev. J. H. Smith

A pretty wedding took place this afternoon in the Orchard Grove Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, when Miss Sylvia Ethelyan Shay, daughter of Mrs. Morcy Shay of Riverview street, became the bride of Rev. Jay Holmes Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith of Canton, O.

The church was elaborately decorated with palms, ferns,, summer flowers and white streamers. Previous to the ceremony Oliver Johnson sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." Mrs. A. M. Burns played Handel's, "Largo." Mrs. Foster Brindley sang "Oh! Promise Me."

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, the bridal party took their places. The ring service was read by Rev. S. Lee-Whiteman, Sr., pastor of the Orchard Grove church, assisted by Rev. W. S. Speaker, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Smithfield. Miss Anna Grace McCoy, a niece of the bride, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mont McCoy of New Sheffield, Pa., served as flower girl.

The bride was gowned in ivory satin crepe, with pearl trimming. She wore a veil of tulle, and a strand of pearls was her adornment. Her shower bouquet was of bride's roses. Previous to her marriage she was engaged as a bookkeeper at the Potters' National bank.

The maid of honor was Miss Eva Marie Smith of Canton, a sister of the bridegroom. She was gowned in orchid georgette embroidered with silver. Her corsage was of rosebuds.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Mt. Union college with the class of '25, and took a post graduate course in the theological seminary at Louisville, Ky. He is assistant pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church in Louisville, Ky.

His best man was Rev. Bruce Walker, pastor of the Marion Heights Methodist Episcopal church of Youngstown. The ushers were George Noblock, Fred Pollock, U. S. Cunningham and Fred Neiser.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother in Riverview street, where a wedding dinner was served. The bride's table was centered with a large wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and groom. At this time Oliver Johnson sang, "At Dawning."

Rev. and Mrs. Smith left for a honeymoon to be spent in Canton and Cincinnati. They will make their future home in Louisville, Ky.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eck of New Waterford; Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson of Martin's Ferry; Miss Anna McCarty of Sewickley; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith and daughter, Betty of Canton; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beck of Youngstown; Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Speaker of Smithfield; Rev. Girls! Whiten Skin With Lemon Juice

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

Miss Sylvia Shay Becomes Bride of Rev. J. H. Smith

A pretty wedding took place this afternoon in the Orchard Grove Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, when Miss Sylvia Ethelyan Shay, daughter of Mrs. Morcy Shay of Riverview street, became the bride of Rev. Jay Holmes Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith of Canton, O.

The church was elaborately decorated with palms, ferns,, summer flowers and white streamers. Previous to the ceremony Oliver Johnson sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." Mrs. A. M. Burns played Handel's, "Largo." Mrs. Foster Brindley sang "Oh! Promise Me."

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, the bridal party took their places. The ring service was read by Rev. S. Lee-Whiteman, Sr., pastor of the Orchard Grove church, assisted by Rev. W. S. Speaker, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Smithfield. Miss Anna Grace McCoy, a niece of the bride, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mont McCoy of New Sheffield, Pa., served as flower girl.

The bride was gowned in ivory satin crepe, with pearl trimming. She wore a veil of tulle, and a strand of pearls was her adornment. Her shower bouquet was of bride's roses. Previous to her marriage she was engaged as a bookkeeper at the Potters' National bank.

The maid of honor was Miss Eva Marie Smith of Canton, a sister of the bridegroom. She was gowned in orchid georgette embroidered with silver. Her corsage was of rosebuds.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Mt. Union college with the class of '25, and took a post graduate course in the theological seminary at Louisville, Ky. He is assistant pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church in Louisville, Ky.

His best man was Rev. Bruce Walker, pastor of the Marion Heights Methodist Episcopal church of Youngstown. The ushers were George Noblock, Fred Pollock, U. S. Cunningham and Fred Neiser.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother in Riverview street, where a wedding dinner was served. The bride's table was centered with a large wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and groom. At this time Oliver Johnson sang, "At Dawning."

Rev. and Mrs. Smith left for a honeymoon to be spent in Canton and Cincinnati. They will make their future home in Louisville, Ky.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eck of New Waterford; Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson of Martin's Ferry; Miss Anna McCarty of Sewickley; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith and daughter, Betty of Canton; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beck of Youngstown; Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Speaker of Smithfield; Rev. Girls! Whiten Skin With Lemon Juice

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

HERRIOT READY TO QUIT PARIS PREMIER JOB

Ministerial Declaration Will be Cabinet Valedictory.

48-HOUR TENURE

Franc Hits New Low, But Shows Signs of Recovery.

PARIS, July 31.—The Herriot ministry will resign tonight, after its ministerial declaration of policy has been read in the chamber of deputies, according to a report circulated this afternoon by the semi-official French News Agency.

The government, it is stated, has reached the conclusion that it cannot possibly secure a vote of confidence and will offer its ministerial declaration as a valedictory, after a tenure of less than 48 hours.

Expect Drastic Action.

Showing greater power of recovery than it has for almost a fortnight the franc, after opening at 50.05 to the dollar, a low record for all time, had climbed to 46.44 at noon today.

The relative steadiness of the franc is ascribed to the widespread belief that something drastic in the direction of relieving the French financial chaos would be done before the day was over.

One of the possibilities was that a national union government headed by former President Raymond Poincare would be formed. This government would have the support of a substantial and steady majority in parliament.

Another possibility was the establishment of a "committee of safety" independent of parliament. This was being urged today by a bloc of some 250 deputies.

Both the Echo De Paris, which is a militarist organ, and the Nationalist L'Avenir hinted guardedly of a possible revolution if Herriot, "representing the party of disorder," remains in power long.

Americans Are Attacked.

PARIS, July 21.—American sightseers on a bus enroute to Montmartre were attacked today by about 100 residents who, it is claimed, resented the loud talk of the visitors.

The Americans fought back and were holding their own fairly well when the police arrived.

Passengers in another bus also were booed and hissed, a crowd reminding the tourists of the attack in the open-air restaurant atop Montmartre yesterday, calling out, "You 'll receive the same reception as yesterday."

Numerous minor altercations have been reported. Until today resentment against Americans and other foreigners had been confined to hooting and catcalls.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 21. — Industrial stock prices were depressed as the result of liberal selling of the speculative leaders in the early trading today, and moderate losses were scored by the active motor, steel, oil and specialty stocks. Selling was attributed mostly to professional sources, in recognition of the weakened technical position of the market following a week or more of uninterrupted advances in prices. Call money renewals were quoted at 4 per cent.

Selling concentrated on Hudson Motors, General Motors and other spectacular leaders in the latest advance in the market. Hudson sold down 3½ point at 63½; General Motors lost 2 points; Mack Trucks 1; Baldwin Locomotive 1½; United States Steel and other active industrials sold fractionally lower. Weakness in the oil stocks continued, selling being induced by the large increase last week in the daily production of crude oil.

Offerings of industrial stocks were well absorbed, and prices rallied in the second hour. With the exception of a few of the southwestern issues, the railroad stocks were inactive and quiet. Coppers were firm.

Dempsey-Tunney prize fight in Chicago.

He predicts a bigger "gate," which means more money than was ever paid for any prize fight in the history of the world.

The Dempsey-Carpentier fight drew a crowd of 80,000 that paid $1,600,000 for their pleasure. Mr. Rickard expects Chicago to do better, also that Chicago will appreciate the great honor, as it should.

WE ARE a rich people. Twenty-eight thousand, nine hundred and eighty-nine banks in the United States have deposits of $54,000,000,000. That sounds like a great deal, but it is only $450 apiece for 100,000,000 Americans, of whom many are worth $100,000, many others worth $1,000,000 many worth ten, twenty, thirty millions, some worth $100,000,000 and a good deal more. This is a rich country, and we are getting richer every day, but with no particular plan visible.

THIRTEEN, burned to death in a mountain inn at Haines Falls, N. Y., cannot be identified and will go to the graves with religious rites of two kinds. Monday, Roman Catholic rites were celebrated. Yesterday, Protestant rites were added. If there happens to be a Buddhist, Mohammedan or Confucian among the 13, he will have to take his chance.

SAM WING, accomplished gunman on the On Leong tong, went to the electric chair, but first gave orders for burial service, both Chinese and Christian. He was never a Christian, but told his friends that the electric chair, being unknown to Chinese gods, they might have no provision for a corpse from that source.

Christians having invented the electric chair, doubtless have a God that would know what to do with the remains, so the thoughtful Chinese decided on both religions for the funeral service.

WE SPEND our lives watching men and women passing through a door labeled "Death," and we all have theories, but nobody, apart from faith, has any knowledge of what is on the other side of the door. By and by our time comes, and we go.

"NEWARK gunmen kill cashier, flee with $13,000." That's the latest; the average is half a dozen such murders a day.

MIKE McERLINE, gangster, brought from Chicago to jail to face the judge, insists upon delivering a long, very drunken speech, expressing his low opinion of all judges.

This indicates that prohibition is not a 100 per cent success, at least in Chicago jails.

NEWS about one kind of "bad business" from the west will please everybody. The jail in the Yellowstone National park has been closed for lack of "trade." It stood there 32 years, with never a customer, and now it is torn down.

Two Autos Damaged In Crash in Which Street Car Figures

Two automobiles, one owned by the Columbiana County Finance company and the other by Wilbur Enochs, Maplewood, were damaged in a collision with a west-bound Steubenville-East Liverpool interurban car on West Sixth street at 1:45 o'clock this morning.

The accident occurred when Enochs, who had parked his car at one side of the street, attempted to pull into the middle of the thoroughfare, failing to notice the approach of the street car. His machine was crushed against the Overland coupe owned by the finance company.

The front wheels of Enoch's auto were locked beneath the front vestibule of the street car and the crew was compelled to jack up one end of the street car to release it. Traffic along the street was tied up for nearly half an hour. Enochs was unhurt.

The street car was in charge of Motorman George Culp, Wellsville, and Conductor Harvey Allison, East Liverpool.

Florence Allen Releases Cleveland Dems From Pledge

Forest City Republicans Endorse Myers Y. Cooper for Nomination for Governor.

CLEVELAND, July 21.—Judge Florence Allen has released the Cuyahoga county Democrats from their pledge to support her for the senatorial nomination.

At the same time, local Republicans endorsed Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, for governor.

These two developments in the political situation here were believed today to have an important effect in the state campaign.

In a letter to W. B. Gongwer, county chairman, Judge Allen explained that she took her action because of the "perplexing situation" caused by the entry of former Senator Atlee Pomerene into the senatorial race.

The Republicans picked Cooper to head their ticket because he is likely to help their county ticket most, Maurice Maschke said.

At the Democratic ward leaders' meeting last night "slate ballots" were distributed on which both Judge Allen's name and Pomerene's had been printed. Next to Pomerene's name was a note: "Senator Pomerene and this organization are friendly."

Other state candidates whose names appear on the slate included James A. Reynolds, Cleveland, Lieutenant-governor; Stephen M. Young, Cleveland, secretary-of-state; John W. Pattison, and Cincinnati, state treasurer.

The Republicans gave endorsement at their meeting last night to the following:

Henry L. Emmerson, Cleveland, lieutenant-governor; Clarence J. Brown, Blanchester, secretary of state; Guy C. Davis, Findlay, state treasurer; H. H. Griswold, Chardon, attorney general; Frank B. Willis, United States senator; Edward S. Matthias of Van Wert and Thomas A. Jones of Jackson, supreme court.

Sandles Attacks Donahey.

COLUMBUS, July 21.—Declaring the Democratic party unafraid of grand juries, and urging Governor Donahey to permit Attorney General Crabbe to make a special probe into the alleged graft attempts in connection with the selection of a site for the Northern Ohio feeble-minded institution, A. P. Sandles, Ottawa, Democratic candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, today attacked the governor in a letter.

The letter declared the governor's actions and the silence maintained by the accused threatened the entire Democratic party at the coming primry and called upon the governor to "forget your third term ambitions and save your state and friends embarrassment by granting the attorney general's request before primary day."

Leland Thompson Purchases Building in Fourth Street.

Purchase of the E. J. Smith's three-story brick business and apartment building in East Fourth street, east of the Presbyterian church, by Leland Thompson, was announced today. The consideration was not made public.

The first floor of the structure is occupied by the city water works department and an electrical supply shop. The second and third floors are living apartments. The new owner will assume possession of the property August 1.

The building was purchased by Smith about three years ago from Mrs. Harry Surles. It housed the down town postoffice for many years before it moved into the larger quarters in what is now the Moose temple.

Thompson also owns the adjoining three-story brick building occupied by the Ohio Power company and the business property in Washington street housing the Smith & Phillips Music company.

"George the Greek"

Police Chief Gillen announced these results:

Was in Youngstown.

At 9 o'clock Psilias was in Youngstown, according to George Morris, of Youngstown, who joined the suspected man there. Psilias and Morris drove to Niles, reaching there at 9:30 o'clock.

At Niles they picked up Harry Andrackos, according to a story Andrackos told police, and which was verified by Andrackos' wife. From Niles they drove on to Warren, reaching Warren at 9:45 o'clock.

At that point, track of Psilias was lost until 11 o'clock, an hour and 15 minutes later. The trail was picked up at a Warren confectionery store, where the proprietress, known only as "Mary" claimed she saw Psilias at that time.

Seen By Detectives.

She also declared, police say, that two Warren city detectives were in the store at the time Psilias was there. Later, these men reported that they saw a big automobile of the make Psilias is said to have driven standing outside the store.

At 11 o'clock, police say, Psilias returned to Youngstown and remained there for an hour and a half, driving to Niles, which he reached at 12:30. At that time, the police say, he put up his car in the garage of the Hunt Motor Car company.

Shortly after that he registered at the Lincoln hotel in Warren and remained there until 9:30 o'clock Friday morning, according to Chief Gillen.

"Jimmy" Lamont Held.

CLEVELAND, O., July 21.—"Warren Jimmy" Lamont who surrendered to the police with the words "I see in the papers that you are looking for me" was being held by police here today who planned to question him closely again in connection with the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher.

Lamont claimed he was in Cleveland at the time of the Canton murder but Patrolman August Beckman said he saw Lamont driving a new Chevrolet car in that city last Thursday or Friday.

A bloodstained new Chevrolet car was found wrecked near Lisbon, Ohio.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the late residence.

Up until about a year and a half ago he lived in Armstrong lane, Park boulevard. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Elizabeth, five years old, and one stepson, George E. Willshaw.

Psialias Released

Witness' Name Made Public.

After viewing Psialias, Deville said he was not certain that he was the man he saw at the wheel of an automobile near the Mellett home, although the prisoner "resembled him somewhat."

Deville came here with the understanding that his name would not be made public, but learned upon his arrival at the county jail that his name had been broadcast.

Detective Ora Slater, special investigator, and Police Lieut. Peter Conners, of the local homicide squad, said that fear of vengeance from the gang that killed Mellett might have influenced the witness in his identification effort after he learned that his name had been revealed.

Lengel Resumes Probe

CANTON, O., July 21.—Authorities determined to solve the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher who laid down his life for the cause of righteousness, were reported speeding back to Canton from a futile trip to Pittsburgh today without a single, definite clew to the slaying but resolved to turn the guns of sleuthdom against the walls of mystery that have surrounded the crime.

Meantime the underworld of Canton was restlessly stirred by an announcement that Chief of Police S. A. Lengel had held an harmonious two hours' conference with Safety Director Earl Hexamer and had promised to call in the lords of Canton's jungle district and subject them to a further, severe grilling.

This latter fact was looked upon today as one of the biggest developments in the case. Hexamer reported that the chief declared that he was more than willing to go into the matter as deeply as those conducting the probe wished.

He had been previously told by Hexamer to attend to police matters and Slater would have complete charge of the probe. The reconciliation between the two forces was greeted with much accord by those most interested in the probe, who declared that it was the fore-runner of a complete agreement wherein the police department and Slater's forces would soon be working hand in hand.

Mellett's Spirit Carries On.

CANTON, July 21.— The spirit of Don R. Mellett is carrying on.

One of the fearless publisher's campaigns was for the removal of Canton Civil Service Commissioners John W. Burris and Price Janson.

Common Pleas Judge Charles Krichbaum today announced that if attorneys could agree on certain technical facts he would probably hear arguments for the dissolution of a restraining order granted to Commissioner Janson after George Beresford, policeman friend of Mellett's, had filed charges against the commissioners.

The hearing, it was said, will be another important move by Mellett's attorney, H. C. Pontius, in an effort to oust the two commissioners who voted for the reinstatement of Chief of Police Lengel.

Rev. J. V. Wright To Preach Tonight In Chester Church

Rev. J. Vernon Wright, Pittsburgh, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church, will preach tonight at 8 o'clock in the Chester M. E. church. He will also conduct the fourth quarterly conference.

WALL OF MEN AND GUNS BARS RUM SMUGGLER

Additional Customs Patrolmen on Duty at Borders.

OHIO WATCHED

Forty-five Agents Plan to Check Canadian Flow.

WASHINGTON, July 21. — Allocation of reinforcements to complete the wall of men and guns erected about the United States to check liquor and narcotics smuggling was announced by the treasury today.

Practically every district excepting New Orleans, New Jersey, and North and South Carolina were given additional customs patrolmen. These districts are adequately protected by the coast guard and prohibition service, according to Frank Dow, acting prohibition chief.

The principal reinforcement detail went to the Ohio-Michigan district which was given 45 men. Many of these will form a special patrol along the Detroit river where a big quantity of Canadian liquor crosses into the United States.

New York city was given a patrol of 34 men to watch incoming ships for liquor shipments and merchandise smugglers, and to combat smugglers who succeed in getting their goods through the coast guard blockade off Long Island.

Eighteen men were assigned to northern New York, Buffalo and Rochester to combat liquor shipments over the Canadian border.

ture of 98 degrees was recorded late yesterday afternoon, breaking a July heat record of 55 years. On August 6, 1918, the mercury climbed to 100 degrees here.

Many points in the state today reported prospects of still hotter weather. East Liverpool, which had a high mark of 98 decrees yesterday, had 78 degrees at 8 a. m. today, which was four points higher than the mark at that hour yesterday morning.

Kentucky Suffers.

Further southward the heat was greater as was apparent by reports from Kentucky, where marks well over the century point were registered. Owensboro, Ky., had 105 and Paducah 104.

Newark and Middletown had 98 degrees, while Wellsville unofficially reported 100 2-5 degrees. Other high readings were Marion, Lima and Dayton, 96; Wooster, 97; Akron, Bowling Green and Cincinnati, 95, and Coshocton, 91 1-2.

To the six heat victims reported Monday have been added nine more. Loriers Ford, 11, was drowned at Madison-on-the-Lake, near Cleveland; Ellis Neal, 44, died of the heat at Akron; Brant B. Albin, 45, was drowned and Harvey Rollins, Jr., 5, died of the heat at Dayton; Samuel Blumberg was probably fatally hurt at Middletown when he struck his head on the concrete bottom of the municipal swimming pool; at Newton Falls, Robert Preto, 28, was believed to have been crazed by the heat and killed three members of his family and himself, and at Bowling Green Mrs. William Potts, 67, dropped dead on the street overcome by the heat.

Seek Relief Along the Lake Front.

CHICAGO, July 21.—With 24 dead in Chicago and suburbs as a result of the record-breaking heat wave of the past two days, relief in the form of thundershowers was promised by the weather bureau today.

The mercury has hovered around the 90 mark since Sunday. Monday a maximum temperature of 94.2 made that day the hottest July 19 in the history of the local weather bureau. It claimed 14 lives. Yesterday the mercury climbed to 95 and 10 more persons succumbed to the heat.

The present torrid wave has been general over the middle western states. It is traveling slowly from west to east.

It was estimated that one million persons, a third of the population of Chicago, sought relief along the 30 miles of lake front yesterday. The beaches were crowded from dawn to dusk, many persons remaining there throughout the night.

Five of the heat victims were babies less than a year old. Hospitals are jammed with cases of prostration. One man dropped dead after playing 18 holes of golf in the hot sun.

WEST'S SHOWS DRAW THRONG

Carnival Patrons Have Gala Time at Patterson Field.

Another immense crowd thronged the midway last evening of the West's Wonder Shows, which is playing a week's engagement at Patterson field, under auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Spanish-American War Veterans.

All of the dozen or more shows and the eight rides were well patronized. A special matinee for the school children this afternoon was also well attended.

Among the attractions this year is "Lady Fanchon," which is advertised as the "world's greatest educated horse." This show, in charge of Col. William Littleton, is now enroute to California where Lady Fanchon will appear in the movies. Rescue of a baby by the horse from a burning building is one of the features of this act.

Other offerings are the Dixieland Minstrels, wild animal show, St. Moritz ice skaters, Jolly Bonita, Bug House, Lula-Lee, circus side show and others.

Concerts by two bands were given at the carnival grounds during the evening.

"The day of the armed city editor has passed but if outlawry against editors continues, the newspaper world is prepared to defend itself," the message said.

HERRIOT READY TO QUIT PARIS PREMIER JOB

Ministerial Declaration Will be Cabinet Valedictory.

48-HOUR TENURE

Franc Hits New Low, But Shows Signs of Recovery.

PARIS, July 31.—The Herriot ministry will resign tonight, after its ministerial declaration of policy has been read in the chamber of deputies, according to a report circulated this afternoon by the semi-official French News Agency.

The government, it is stated, has reached the conclusion that it cannot possibly secure a vote of confidence and will offer its ministerial declaration as a valedictory, after a tenure of less than 48 hours.

Expect Drastic Action.

Showing greater power of recovery than it has for almost a fortnight the franc, after opening at 50.05 to the dollar, a low record for all time, had climbed to 46.44 at noon today.

The relative steadiness of the franc is ascribed to the widespread belief that something drastic in the direction of relieving the French financial chaos would be done before the day was over.

One of the possibilities was that a national union government headed by former President Raymond Poincare would be formed. This government would have the support of a substantial and steady majority in parliament.

Another possibility was the establishment of a "committee of safety" independent of parliament. This was being urged today by a bloc of some 250 deputies.

Both the Echo De Paris, which is a militarist organ, and the Nationalist L'Avenir hinted guardedly of a possible revolution if Herriot, "representing the party of disorder," remains in power long.

Americans Are Attacked.

PARIS, July 21.—American sightseers on a bus enroute to Montmartre were attacked today by about 100 residents who, it is claimed, resented the loud talk of the visitors.

The Americans fought back and were holding their own fairly well when the police arrived.

Passengers in another bus also were booed and hissed, a crowd reminding the tourists of the attack in the open-air restaurant atop Montmartre yesterday, calling out, "You 'll receive the same reception as yesterday."

Numerous minor altercations have been reported. Until today resentment against Americans and other foreigners had been confined to hooting and catcalls.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 21. — Industrial stock prices were depressed as the result of liberal selling of the speculative leaders in the early trading today, and moderate losses were scored by the active motor, steel, oil and specialty stocks. Selling was attributed mostly to professional sources, in recognition of the weakened technical position of the market following a week or more of uninterrupted advances in prices. Call money renewals were quoted at 4 per cent.

Selling concentrated on Hudson Motors, General Motors and other spectacular leaders in the latest advance in the market. Hudson sold down 3½ point at 63½; General Motors lost 2 points; Mack Trucks 1; Baldwin Locomotive 1½; United States Steel and other active industrials sold fractionally lower. Weakness in the oil stocks continued, selling being induced by the large increase last week in the daily production of crude oil.

Offerings of industrial stocks were well absorbed, and prices rallied in the second hour. With the exception of a few of the southwestern issues, the railroad stocks were inactive and quiet. Coppers were firm.

Dempsey-Tunney prize fight in Chicago.

He predicts a bigger "gate," which means more money than was ever paid for any prize fight in the history of the world.

The Dempsey-Carpentier fight drew a crowd of 80,000 that paid $1,600,000 for their pleasure. Mr. Rickard expects Chicago to do better, also that Chicago will appreciate the great honor, as it should.

WE ARE a rich people. Twenty-eight thousand, nine hundred and eighty-nine banks in the United States have deposits of $54,000,000,000. That sounds like a great deal, but it is only $450 apiece for 100,000,000 Americans, of whom many are worth $100,000, many others worth $1,000,000 many worth ten, twenty, thirty millions, some worth $100,000,000 and a good deal more. This is a rich country, and we are getting richer every day, but with no particular plan visible.

THIRTEEN, burned to death in a mountain inn at Haines Falls, N. Y., cannot be identified and will go to the graves with religious rites of two kinds. Monday, Roman Catholic rites were celebrated. Yesterday, Protestant rites were added. If there happens to be a Buddhist, Mohammedan or Confucian among the 13, he will have to take his chance.

SAM WING, accomplished gunman on the On Leong tong, went to the electric chair, but first gave orders for burial service, both Chinese and Christian. He was never a Christian, but told his friends that the electric chair, being unknown to Chinese gods, they might have no provision for a corpse from that source.

Christians having invented the electric chair, doubtless have a God that would know what to do with the remains, so the thoughtful Chinese decided on both religions for the funeral service.

WE SPEND our lives watching men and women passing through a door labeled "Death," and we all have theories, but nobody, apart from faith, has any knowledge of what is on the other side of the door. By and by our time comes, and we go.

"NEWARK gunmen kill cashier, flee with $13,000." That's the latest; the average is half a dozen such murders a day.

MIKE McERLINE, gangster, brought from Chicago to jail to face the judge, insists upon delivering a long, very drunken speech, expressing his low opinion of all judges.

This indicates that prohibition is not a 100 per cent success, at least in Chicago jails.

NEWS about one kind of "bad business" from the west will please everybody. The jail in the Yellowstone National park has been closed for lack of "trade." It stood there 32 years, with never a customer, and now it is torn down.

Two Autos Damaged In Crash in Which Street Car Figures

Two automobiles, one owned by the Columbiana County Finance company and the other by Wilbur Enochs, Maplewood, were damaged in a collision with a west-bound Steubenville-East Liverpool interurban car on West Sixth street at 1:45 o'clock this morning.

The accident occurred when Enochs, who had parked his car at one side of the street, attempted to pull into the middle of the thoroughfare, failing to notice the approach of the street car. His machine was crushed against the Overland coupe owned by the finance company.

The front wheels of Enoch's auto were locked beneath the front vestibule of the street car and the crew was compelled to jack up one end of the street car to release it. Traffic along the street was tied up for nearly half an hour. Enochs was unhurt.

The street car was in charge of Motorman George Culp, Wellsville, and Conductor Harvey Allison, East Liverpool.

Florence Allen Releases Cleveland Dems From Pledge

Forest City Republicans Endorse Myers Y. Cooper for Nomination for Governor.

CLEVELAND, July 21.—Judge Florence Allen has released the Cuyahoga county Democrats from their pledge to support her for the senatorial nomination.

At the same time, local Republicans endorsed Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, for governor.

These two developments in the political situation here were believed today to have an important effect in the state campaign.

In a letter to W. B. Gongwer, county chairman, Judge Allen explained that she took her action because of the "perplexing situation" caused by the entry of former Senator Atlee Pomerene into the senatorial race.

The Republicans picked Cooper to head their ticket because he is likely to help their county ticket most, Maurice Maschke said.

At the Democratic ward leaders' meeting last night "slate ballots" were distributed on which both Judge Allen's name and Pomerene's had been printed. Next to Pomerene's name was a note: "Senator Pomerene and this organization are friendly."

Other state candidates whose names appear on the slate included James A. Reynolds, Cleveland, Lieutenant-governor; Stephen M. Young, Cleveland, secretary-of-state; John W. Pattison, and Cincinnati. state treasurer.

The Republicans gave endorsement at their meeting last night to the following:

Henry L. Emmerson, Cleveland, lieutenant-governor; Clarence J. Brown, Blanchester, secretary of state; Guy C. Davis, Findlay, state treasurer; H. H. Griswold, Chardon, attorney general; Frank B. Willis, United States senator; Edward S. Matthias of Van Wert and Thomas A. Jones of Jackson, supreme court.

Sandles Attacks Donahey.

COLUMBUS, July 21.—Declaring the Democratic party unafraid of grand juries, and urging Governor Donahey to permit Attorney General Crabbe to make a special probe into the alleged graft attempts in connection with the selection of a site for the Northern Ohio feeble-minded institution, A. P. Sandles, Ottawa, Democratic candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, today attacked the governor in a letter.

The letter declared the governor's actions and the silence maintained by the accused threatened the entire Democratic party at the coming primary and called upon the governor to "forget your third term ambitions and save your state and friends embarrassment by granting the attorney general's request before primary day."

Leland Thompson Purchases Building in Fourth Street.

Purchase of the E. J. Smith's three-story brick business and apartment building in East Fourth street, east of the Presbyterian church, by Leland Thompson, was announced today. The consideration was not made public.

The first floor of the structure is occupied by the city water works department and an electrical supply shop. The second and third floors are living apartments. The new owner will assume possession of the property August 1.

The building was purchased by Smith about three years ago from Mrs. Harry Surles. It housed the down town postoffice for many years before it moved into the larger quarters in what is now the Moose temple.

Thompson also owns the adjoining three-story brick building occupied by the Ohio Power company and the business property in Washington street housing the Smith & Phillips Music company.

"George the Greek"

Police Chief Gillen announced these results:

Was in Youngstown.

At 9 o'clock Psilias was in Youngstown, according to George Morris, of Youngstown, who joined the suspected man there. Psilias and Morris drove to Niles, reaching there at 9:30 o'clock.

At Niles they picked up Harry Andrackos, according to a story Andrackos told police, and which was verified by Andrackos' wife. From Niles they drove on to Warren, reaching Warren at 9:45 o'clock.

At that point, track of Psilias was lost until 11 o'clock, an hour and 15 minutes later. The trail was picked up at a Warren confectionery store, where the proprietress, known only as "Mary" claimed she saw Psilias at that time.

Seen By Detectives.

She also declared, police say, that two Warren city detectives were in the store at the time Psilias was there. Later, these men reported that they saw a big automobile of the make Psilias is said to have driven standing outside the store.

At 11 o'clock, police say, Psilias returned to Youngstown and remained there for an hour and a half, driving to Niles, which he reached at 12:30. At that time, the police say, he put up his car in the garage of the Hunt Motor Car company.

Shortly after that he registered at the Lincoln hotel in Warren and remained there until 9:30 o'clock Friday morning, according to Chief Gillen.

"Jimmy" Lamont Held.

CLEVELAND, O., July 21.—"Warren Jimmy" Lamont who surrendered to the police with the words "I see in the papers that you are looking for me" was being held by police here today who planned to question him closely again in connection with the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher.

Lamont claimed he was in Cleveland at the time of the Canton murder but Patrolman August Beckman said he saw Lamont driving a new Chevrolet car in that city last Thursday or Friday.

A bloodstained new Chevrolet car was found wrecked near Lisbon, Ohio.

W. R. PARKS DIES IN YOUNGSTOWN

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the late residence.

Psialias Released

Witness' Name Made Public.

After viewing Psialias, Deville said he was not certain that he was the man he saw at the wheel of an automobile near the Mellett home, although the prisoner "resembled him somewhat."

Deville came here with the understanding that his name would not be made public, but learned upon his arrival at the county jail that his name had been broadcast.

Detective Ora Slater, special investigator, and Police Lieut. Peter Conners, of the local homicide squad, said that fear of vengeance from the gang that killed Mellett might have influenced the witness in his identification effort after he learned that his name had been revealed.

Lengel Resumes Probe

CANTON, O., July 21.—Authorities determined to solve the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher who laid down his life for the cause of righteousness, were reported speeding back to Canton from a futile trip to Pittsburgh today without a single, definite clew to the slaying but resolved to turn the guns of sleuthdom against the walls of mystery that have surrounded the crime.

Meantime the underworld of Canton was restlessly stirred by an announcement that Chief of Police S. A. Lengel had held an harmonious two hours' conference with Safety Director Earl Hexamer and had promised to call in the lords of Canton's jungle district and subject them to a further, severe grilling.

This latter fact was looked upon today as one of the biggest developments in the case. Hexamer reported that the chief declared that he was more than willing to go into the matter as deeply as those conducting the probe wished.

He had been previously told by Hexamer to attend to police matters and Slater would have complete charge of the probe. The reconciliation between the two forces was greeted with much accord by those most interested in the probe, who declared that it was the fore-runner of a complete agreement wherein the police department and Slater's forces would soon be working hand in hand.

Mellett's Spirit Carries On.

CANTON, July 21. — The spirit of Don R. Mellett is carrying on.

One of the fearless publisher's campaigns was for the removal of Canton Civil Service Commissioners John W. Burris and Price Janson.

Common Pleas Judge Charles Krichbaum today announced that if attorneys could agree on certain technical facts he would probably hear arguments for the dissolution of a restraining order granted to Commissioner Janson after George Beresford, policeman friend of Mellett's, had filed charges against the commissioners.

The hearing, it was said, will be another important move by Mellett's attorney, H. C. Pontius, in an effort to oust the two commissioners who voted for the reinstatement of Chief of Police Lengel.

Rev. J. V. Wright To Preach Tonight In Chester Church

Rev. J. Vernon Wright, Pittsburgh, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church, will preach tonight at 8 o'clock in the Chester M. E. church. He will also conduct the fourth quarterly conference.

The one offer for the River Road pump station site, sought it is believed for a filling station, was $201. The property has a frontage of about 100 feet on the improved highway and extends back to the low water mark at the river's edge.

Boy Killed By Train.

STEUBENVILLE, July 21.—Robert Grayson, 18, one of the two youths seriously injured when run down by a Pennsylvania flyer while returning from a swimming partly last night, died in the Valley hospital today from a fractured skull. William Snodgrass, 19, his companion, may recover, hospital attaches said.

WALL OF MEN AND GUNS BARS RUM SMUGGLER

Additional Customs Patrolmen on Duty at Borders.

OHIO WATCHED

Forty-five Agents Plan to Check Canadian Flow.

WASHINGTON, July 21. — Allocation of reinforcements to complete the wall of men and guns erected about the United States to check liquor and narcotics smuggling was announced by the treasury today.

Practically every district excepting New Orleans, New Jersey, and North and South Carolina were given additional customs patrolmen. These districts are adequately protected by the coast guard and prohibition service, according to Frank Dow, acting prohibition chief.

The principal reinforcement detail went to the Ohio-Michigan district which was given 45 men. Many of these will form a special patrol along the Detroit river where a big quantity of Canadian liquor crosses into the United States.

New York city was given a patrol of 34 men to watch incoming ships for liquor shipments and merchandise smugglers, and to combat smugglers who succeed in getting their goods through the coast guard blockade off Long Island.

Eighteen men were assigned to northern New York, Buffalo and Rochester to combat liquor shipments over the Canadian border.

MAY PELLEY, 5, HURT IN FALL

ture of 98 degrees was recorded late yesterday afternoon, breaking a July heat record of 55 years. On August 6, 1918, the mercury climbed to 100 degrees here.

Many points in the state today rereported prospects of still hotter weather. East Liverpool, which had a high mark of 98 decrees yesterday, had 78 degrees at 8 a. m. today, which was four points higher than the mark at that hour yesterday morning.

Kentucky Suffers.

Further southward the heat was greater as was apparent by reports from Kentucky, where marks well over the century point were registered. Owensboro, Ky., had 105 and Paducah 104.

Newark and Middletown had 98 degrees, while Wellsville unofficially reported 100 2-5 degrees. Other high readings were Marion, Lima and Dayton, 96; Wooster, 97; Akron, Bowling Green and Cincinnati, 95, and Coshocton, 91 1-2.

To the six heat victims reported Monday have been added nine more. Loriers Ford, 11, was drowned at Madison-on-the-Lake, near Cleveland; Ellis Neal, 44, died of the heat at Akron; Brant B. Albin, 45, was drowned and Harvey Rollins, Jr., 5, died of the heat at Dayton; Samuel Blumberg was probably fatally hurt at Middletown when he struck his head on the concrete bottom of the municipal swimming pool; at Newton Falls, Robert Preto, 28, was believed to have been crazed by the heat and killed three members of his family and himself, and at Bowling Green Mrs. William Potts, 67, dropped dead on the street overcome by the heat.

Seek Relief Along the Lake Front.

CHICAGO, July 21.—With 24 dead in Chicago and suburbs as a result of the record-breaking heat wave of the past two days, relief in the form of thundershowers was promised by the weather bureau today.

The mercury has hovered around the 90 mark since Sunday. Monday a maximum temperature of 94.2 made that day the hottest July 19 in the history of the local weather bureau. It claimed 14 lives. Yesterday the mercury climbed to 95 and 10 more persons succumbed to the heat.

The present torrid wave has been general over the middle western states. It is traveling slowly from west to east.

It was estimated that one million persons, a third of the population of Chicago, sought relief along the 30 miles of lake front yesterday. The beaches were crowded from dawn to dusk, many persons remaining there throughout the night.

Five of the heat victims were babies less than a year old. Hospitals are jammed with cases of prostration. One man dropped dead after playing 18 holes of golf in the hot sun.

WEST'S SHOWS DRAW THRONG

Carnival Patrons Have Gala Time at Patterson Field.

Another immense crowd thronged the midway last evening of the West's Wonder Shows, which is playing a week's engagement at Patterson field, under auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Spanish-American War Veterans.

All of the dozen or more shows and the eight rides were well patronized. A special matinee for the school children this afternoon was also well attended.

Among the attractions this year is "Lady Fanchon," which is advertised as the "world's greatest educated horse." This show, in charge of Col. William Littleton, is now enroute to California where Lady Fanchon will appear in the movies. Rescue of a baby by the horse from a burning building is one of the features of this act.

Other offerings are the Dixieland Minstrels, wild animal show, St. Moritz ice skaters, Jolly Bonita, Bug House, Lula-Lee, circus side show and others.

Concerts by two bands were given at the carnival grounds during the evening.

opinion of the publishers of the Fourth Estate as expressed in the communication.

"The point of this probe is that the freedom of the American press has been placed in jeopardy by repeated outrages which call for a swift punishment," was the battle cry sounded in the telegram.

"The day of the armed city editor has passed but if outlawry against editors continues, the newspaper world is prepared to defend itself," the message said.

OPEN SMITH'S FERRY HIGHWAY BIDS TUESDAY

Call for Proposals on Section of Midland Road.

SECOND LETTING

Rinehart Brothers Low Bidders Few Weeks Ago.

Bids for the readvertised section of the Midland-East Liverpool road through Smith's Ferry, will be opened by the Pennsylvania state highway department at Harrisburg next Tuesday.

Rinehart Brothers, local contractors, who recently completed that section of the road from Midland to the upper end of Smiths Ferry, were the low bidders when the work was advertised a few weeks ago. All bids were rejected when an irregularity was found at Beaver in the certification of records from the borough of Glasgow, providing for a change in the highway.

Owing to the extensive grading work, it is doubtful if the road will be completed before winter. The contracts will require the moving of approximately 47,000 cubic yards of earth to cut the highway along the hillside from the creek to the east end of the village. Rinehart brothers are prepared to put two steam shovels to work if they are awarded the contract.

This job will link up the improved road between East Liverpool and Beaver.

Rinehart Brothers, local contractors, who recently completed that section of the road from Midland to the upper end of Smiths Ferry, were the low bidders when the work was advertised a few weeks ago. All bids were rejected when an irregularity was found at Beaver in the certification of records from the borough of Glasgow, providing for a change in the highway.

Owing to the extensive grading work, it is doubtful if the road will be completed before winter. The contracts will require the moving of approximately 47,000 cubic yards of earth to cut the highway along the hillside from the creek to the east end of the village. Rinehart brothers are prepared to put two steam shovels to work if they are awarded the contract.

This job will link up the improved road between East Liverpool and Beaver.

Chester Stops Turk-Nash Flag Rivals at Smith Field, 4-0

Mike Is on and Ohio Pennant Seekers Are Held to Three Blows

Riley Slab Ace Puts Steam Behind Slants to Blank Fowler Combine R. Pollock and Eddie Bayley Only Enemy Batters to Connect Safely.

MEETING for the first time in combat for second half honors in the City Industrial league, Chester, 1925 champions, defeated the well-balanced fast stepping Turk-Nash aggregation on Smith field yesterday, 4 to 0.

"How did it happen?" queried an East Liverpool spectator to a group of cross river fans in middle field as the big crowd that witnessed the contest filed out.

"Mike" was the cryptic response of one silent man in the background. And there was not one dissenting voice to the viewpoint thus adduced.

And so by unanimous accord of friend and foe alike, the single word "Mike" tells the whole story. For Mike, whatever his off form in the final contests of the first half, was, in the language of the fans, "On again" on this important occasion. Steam? Yes. The ball fairly sizzled across the plate into the cavernous glove of W. McMath, who caught him. But three safe hits were made off him, two singles by the brilliant and hard-working R. Pollock in the second and fifth innings and one by the dependable Eddie Bayley in the third. Mike fanned eight.

Failed to Reach Second.

Not a single Turk-Nash player reached second during the contest. Pollock twice was forced by Alcock as he essayed to make the spot while E. Bayley was caught stealing by a wide margin on the occasion he held forth on the paths.

Opposing Cebula on the hilltop was "Sonny" Deshler, who, in the closing period of the first half, beat Mike and Chester, 4 to 1. As on the former occasion he allowed seven hits, but yesterday they produced three more runs from them.

Deshler's control, however, was equal to Cebula's. Neither could have done better for each refused to allow a single walk.

Play Errorless Ball.

Chester played errorless ball, while only a muff and bad throw by McConnell marred the fielding of Turk-Nash.

Manager Fowler presented his usual lineup. Eddie Bayley and J. Watson accepted four chances and D. Morgan three. Deshler handled the two that came to him.

Heckathorne covered first for Chester and did it well. Wyant was in right. He negotiated a timely double in the sixth, but later was caught napping by the wily Bayley, who signalled a quick assist by Deshler.

L. McMath's triple in the fourth was the longest hit of the game. It landed behind the automobiles, from where Pollock relayed it to E. Bayley and he to Morgan, holding the runner at the hot corner.

Evans, opening Chester's half of the first, flew to A. Bayley. Greene singled to left and stole second from where he scored on P. Cebula's sizzling single past third base. Wyant forced P. Cebula at second, D. Morgan to J. Watson. L. McMath fanned.

Heckathorne singled to left in the second but was forced by F. Marshall at second, E. Bayley to J. Watson. W. McMath singled to middle, F. Marshall going to second from where he reached third as McConnell muffed M. Cebula's high drive to left. McConnell threw to the plate, the ball bounding past Schneidmiller into the crowd on which F. Marshall finished, W. McMath took third and M. Cebula second. Evans went out, E. Bayley to Alcock. On the play M. Cebula ran to third, forcing W. McMath towards the plate. Alcock ran across the diamond with the ball, assisted to Schneidmiller, who returned the ball to the bagman in time for him to tab the catcher and retire the side.

L. McMath tripled to right in the fourth and scored on a passed ball. Heckathorne fanned, F. Marshall went out, D. Morgan to Alcock. W. McMath fanned.

P. Cebula, singling to left in the sixth, scored on Wyant's long double to middle. L. McMath and Heckathorne fanned while Wyant was caught off second, Deshler to E. Bayley.

All in all the game was well played and will take its place as one of the best and hardest fought of the season.

YOUNG CHASE, JOINING COAST CLUB, FOLLOWS FAMOUS DAD'S FOOTSTEPS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—A lithe, bronzed lad of sixteen, stalked into the offices of the Mission club of the Pacific Coast league yesterday and signed a contract.

The boy is Hal Chase, Jr., son of the once famous baseball star of the same name and according to those who have watched him, is a "chip off the old block" when it comes to playing baseball.

Young Chase has determined to make baseball his career and to redeem on the diamond the name of his father.

He is still in school and will remain there for the next two years, practicing with the Missions on Saturdays and Sundays and during vacation periods.

In 1928 he will join the club regularly, President William H. McCarthy announced after the boy had affixed his signature to the contract.

"He has the same natural ability of his father and with the experience he will gain with us during the next two years, I expect him to develop into a valuable man," McCarthy said.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON.
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

In the back swing, when the player reaches slightly outward with the club and with the head held still, the left shoulder must, of course, come down under. Near the top when, with the grip tightening, the pull becomes pronounced, this shoulder pulls some to the right side of the line from the eye to the ball. How far it can go to the right of this line is measured by the resiliency of the player's muscles. Youth goes far with it, but the average business man golfer will do well not to try for so much. Getting this shoulder—the left one—in back of the line from the eye to the ball is the pivot. Be satisfied if your shoulder is about even with the line to the ball. Stopping there will not cause so much strain in the swing as to destroy rhythm and overthrow your balance.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The fast-traveling Tigers knocked the Athletics for two successive and distinct goals by scores of 5 to 0 and 8 to 3, sweeping the series. Rip Collins held the A's to five hits in the opener.

Scoring seven runs in one inning, Cleveland thrashed the Senators, 9 to 2, behind Sherry Smith's twirling.

The White Sox murdered the Red Sox again, 13 to 2. Red Faber was hit hard but stood for no nonsense when hits meant runs.

Pete Donohue, the champion hard-luck pitcher of the big leagues, had a bit of good luck for a change when the Reds beat the Dodgers in the ninth, 5 to 4, on an error.

Pittsburgh joined the Reds in pulling away from the madding crowd of pennant contenders by pushing the Braves off the cliff again, 8 to 5. The Pirates were outbatted but the Braves were outsmarted.

The amazing Cubs knocked the Giants silly again and beat them to a pulp, 16 to 2. The enraged Bruins pounded four New York pitchers for 18 singles while Irish Meusel got half of the Giants' eight hits.

MOTORS TRIM LAUGHLIN, 7-3

Continue Winning Streak at Newell Club's Expense.

CONTINUING its winning streak, Victory Motor defeated Laughlin in a fast City Industrial league contest last evening at Newell, 7 to 3.

After English had fanned in the third Gilcrist singled through short. Suder went out to J. Strobel. Crawford singled to left, scoring Gilcrist. Parson, singling, scored Crawford. Babb was retired, V. Bailey to Mundy.

Davis beat out an infield hit in the fourth. Coleman walked. Sainor fanned. V. Bayley doubled to center, scoring Davis and Coleman. W. Mundy doubled, scoring Bailey. The former stole third and finished on a wild pitch.

DELAWARE WATER GAP, Pa., July 21.—Although golfers were loud in their praise of Walter Hagen today as a result of his victory over Johnny Farrell by a margin of nine strokes in the eastern open championship here, disappointment was expressed because of Sir Walter's failure to break the world's record of 274 for 72 holes of medal golf, set by Emmet French, of Youngstown, in the Ohio open championship in 1922.

Hagen's brilliant 69 in the afternoon failed to offset a mediocre round of 74 in the morning round, which was marred by rain. His final score was 275, one stroke above the record.

Bill Mehlhorn, of Chicago, finished third with 289.

But When and Where's Secret With Rickard

Most Likely, Say Guessers, it Will be Tunney in Either New York or New Jersey, September.

By Copeland C. Burg.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Jack Dempsey is going to fight.

Just when and where and who are elements still unknown but it was definitely learned today that the heavyweight champion is actually to affix his wavering signature to a contract immediately after his arrival in Chicago in August from his Colorado training camp.

That day—August 5—is significant.

Twenty-four hours previous Dempsey's long-lamented contract with his former manager, will have expired.

Most likely Dempsey will defend his title against Gene Tunney and the bout will be staged in New York or New Jersey.

That appears the final low-down today, as Tex Rickard, the happy New York promoter, girded himself for a conference with Dempsey's new manager, Gene Normile, following five successive days of giving Chicago the hectic merry-go-round in approved fashion of the roaring forties.

Rickard has an option on Dempsey's services and as soon as Kearn's contract has expired he will exercise it most fully by having the heavy king sign a contract, thus shutting out Kearns from any of the boodle.

Rickard again declared this morning that he was ready to make a positive announcement regarding a Dempsey-Tunney bout and that unless "something very unexpected" happened he would today name the location and date of the bout. Sept. 1 was rumored as the likely day.

Coliseum Contract Void.

Normile, who arrived in Chicago shouting Dempsey only weighed 196 pounds and was in superb shape, made it plain the champion had no contract with the Chicago Coliseum club.

Normile said the Chicago club forgot to pay Dempsey $100,000 last March, as agreed, and as a consequence the contract was now null and void.

That the wise Mr. Rickard has any future Dempsey bout right at the bottom of the bag and intends to stage it either in New York or vicinity or Chicago there appears no question.

As soon as Dempsey has signed a contract with him, Rickard will jump a rattler to New York and make a final appearance before the commission on a Dempsey-Tunney fight. Should the New York body bow him out, Rickard plans to sell his contract to the highest bidder.

While spending five days in Chicago preparing for Dempsey's arrival, Rickard has not been idle.

Details of a visit paid by him to the new Illinois boxing commission revealed today that Rickard highly complimented the commissioners on this and that, including the weather, and established himself on extremely friendly terms with the commission.

Having Dempsey's contract in his pocket and basking in the smile of the Illinois commission, Rickard may with much fortitude face the frowns of the New York body.

Average wages paid in Paris and vicinity range from $1.33 to $1.77 a day, according to figures recently given out.

Chester Stops Turk-Nash Flag Rivals at Smith Field, 4-0

Mike Is on and Ohio Pennant Seekers Are Held to Three Blows

Riley Slab Ace Puts Steam Behind Slants to Blank Fowler Combine R. Pollock and Eddie Bayley Only Enemy Batters to Connect Safely.

MEETING for the first time in combat for second half honors in the City Industrial league, Chester, 1925 champions, defeated the well-balanced fast stepping Turk-Nash aggregation on Smith field yesterday, 4 to 0.

"How did it happen?" queried an East Liverpool spectator to a group of cross river fans in middle field as the big crowd that witnessed the contest filed out.

"Mike" was the cryptic response of one silent man in the background. And there was not one dissenting voice to the viewpoint thus adduced.

And so by unanimous accord of friend and foe alike, the single word "Mike" tells the whole story. For Mike, whatever his off form in the final contests of the first half, was, in the language of the fans, "On again" on this important occasion. Steam? Yes. The ball fairly sizzled across the plate into the cavernous glove of W. McMath, who caught him. But three safe hits were made off him, two singles by the brilliant and hard-working R. Pollock in the second and fifth innings and one by the dependable Eddie Bayley in the third. Mike fanned eight.

Failed to Reach Second.

Not a single Turk-Nash player reached second during the contest. Pollock twice was forced by Alcock as he essayed to make the spot while E. Bayley was caught stealing by a wide margin on the occasion he held forth on the paths.

Opposing Cebula on the hilltop was "Sonny" Deshler, who, in the closing period of the first half, beat Mike and Chester, 4 to 1. As on the former occasion he allowed seven hits, but yesterday they produced three more runs from them.

Deshler's control, however, was equal to Cebula's. Neither could have done better for each refused to allow a single walk.

Play Errorless Ball.

Chester played errorless ball, while only a muff and bad throw by McConnell marred the fielding of Turk-Nash.

Manager Fowler presented his usual lineup. Eddie Bayley and J. Watson accepted four chances and D. Morgan three. Deshler handled the two that came to him.

Heckathorne covered first for Chester and did it well. Wyant was in right. He negotiated a timely double in the sixth, but later was caught napping by the wily Bayley, who signalled a quick assist by Deshler.

L. McMath's triple in the fourth was the longest hit of the game. It landed behind the automobiles, from where Pollock relayed it to E. Bayley and he to Morgan, holding the runner at the hot corner.

Evans, opening Chester's half of the first, flew to A. Bayley. Greene singled to left and stole second from where he scored on P. Cebula's sizzling single past third base. Wyant forced P. Cebula at second, D. Morgan to J. Watson. L. McMath fanned.

Heckathorne singled to left in the second but was forced by F. Marshall at second, E. Bayley to J. Watson. W. McMath singled to middle, F. Marshall going to second from where he reached third as McConnell muffed M. Cebula's high drive to left. McConnell threw to the plate, the ball bounding past Schneidmiller into the crowd on which F. Marshall finished. W. McMath took third and M. Cebula second. Evans went out, E. Bayley to Alcock. On the play M. Cebula ran to third, forcing W. McMath towards the plate. Alcock ran across the diamond with the ball, assisted to Schneidmiller, who returned the ball to the bagman in time for him to tab the catcher and retire the side.

L. McMath tripled to right in the fourth and scored on a passed ball. Heckathorne fanned. F. Marshall went out, D. Morgan to Alcock. W. McMath fanned.

P. Cebula, singling to left in the sixth, scored on Wyant's long double to middle. L. McMath and Heckathorne fanned while Wyant was caught off second, Deshler to E. Bayley.

All in all the game was well played and will take its place as one of the best and hardest fought of the season.

YOUNG CHASE, JOINING COAST CLUB, FOLLOWS FAMOUS DAD'S FOOTSTEPS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—A lithe, bronzed lad of sixteen, stalked into the offices of the Mission club of the Pacific Coast league yesterday and signed a contract.

The boy is Hal Chase, Jr., son of the once famous baseball star of the same name and according to those who have watched him, is a "chip off the old block" when it comes to playing baseball.

Young Chase has determined to make baseball his career and to redeem on the diamond the name of his father.

He is still in school and will remain there for the next two years, practicing with the Missions on Saturdays and Sundays and during vacation periods.

In 1928 he will join the club regularly, President William H. McCarthy announced after the boy had affixed his signature to the contract.

"He has the same natural ability of his father and with the experience he will gain with us during the next two years, I expect him to develop into a valuable man," McCarthy said.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

In the back swing, when the player reaches slightly outward with the club and with the head held still, the left shoulder must, of course, come down under. Near the top when, with the grip tightening, the pull becomes pronounced, this shoulder pulls some to the right side of the line from the eye to the ball. How far it can go to the right of this line is measured by the resiliency of the player's muscles. Youth goes far with it, but the average business man golfer will do well not to try for so much. Getting this shoulder—the left one—in back of the line from the eye to the ball is the pivot. Be satisfied if your shoulder is about even with the line to the ball. Stopping there will not cause so much strain in the swing as to destroy rhythm and overthrow your balance.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The fast-traveling Tigers knocked the Athletics for two successive and distinct goals by scores of 5 to 0 and 8 to 3, sweeping the series. Rip Collins held the A's to five hits in the opener.

Scoring seven runs in one inning, Cleveland thrashed the Senators, 9 to 2, behind Sherry Smith's twirling.

The White Sox murdered the Red Sox again, 13 to 2. Red Faber was hit hard but stood for no nonsense when hits meant runs.

Pete Donohue, the champion hard-luck pitcher of the big leagues, had a bit of good luck for a change when the Reds beat the Dodgers in the ninth, 5 to 4, on an error.

Pittsburgh joined the Reds in pulling away from the madding crowd of pennant contenders by pushing the Braves off the cliff again, 8 to 5. The Pirates were outbatted but the Braves were outsmarted.

The amazing Cubs knocked the Giants silly again and beat them to a pulp, 16 to 2. The enraged Bruins pounded four New York pitchers for 18 singles while Irish Meusel got half of the Giants' eight hits.

BEBE DANIELS AND RICARDO CORTEZ IN A SCENE FROM "VOLCANO" A PARAMOUNT PICTURE A WILLIAM HOWARD PRODUCTION

Fate of Two Stars in Ceramic Play, "Lady of Harem."

Buried alive in the Tomb of Love amid sounds of feasting and gay music!

Such was the fate meted out to William Collier Jr. and Greta Nissen in "The Lady of the Harem," a spectacle production directed for Paramount by Raoul Walsh, at the Ceramic theatre.

"The Lady of the Harem," adapted by James T. O'Donohoe from James Elroy Flecker's stage production, "Hassan," is a story of ancient Persia filmed on a scale of tremendous magnitude and lavishness with its plot woven around a cruel Sultan, a kind hearted confectioner and two lovers.

Briefly, the story is this:

The glittering city of Khorasan suffers countless cruelties under the rule of an oppressive Sultan. But amid the oppression there is one who lives tranquilly—Ernest Torrence, the confectioner.

William Collier Jr., from the hills beyond Mosul, comes in search of his sweetheart, Greta Nissen, dragged away from him by the tyrant's soldiers. In the brilliant, exotic slave market he finds her, only to realize she is being purchased for the Sultan's harem.

That he may save her, Collier joins a band of citizens who have been reduced to beggars by unreasonable taxations. They pledge allegiance.

Disguised as merchants, the Sultan and members of his court gain entrance to the beggar's rendezvous and discover Collier as the leader.

Among the scenes that follow are a tremendous oriental bacchanal, the swimming of a wide river by three thousand men and a mighty medieval battle scene—all leading up to a tremendous climax that for genuine thrills and beauty has seldom been equalled up the screen.

ARLEN STORY AT AMERICAN

Conway Tearle Stars in "Dancer of Paris."

The story of a man's relentless pursuit of a woman and the spirited manner in which she fights back will be unfolded on the screen at the American theatre tomorrow, when the first Michael Arlen story to reach the screen, "The Dancer of Paris," is presented.

Conway Tearle and Dorothy Mackaill have the leading roles in this production, which is presented through First National by Robert T. Kane. It was produced under the direction of Alfred A. Santell, who is responsible for "Bluebeard's Seven Wives" and "Classified."

The story is laid against a series of rich backgrounds. Starting in Florida, the scene quickly switches to Paris, where, in settings picturesquely revealing the night life of the famous capital, the plot moves on to its climax.

Supporting the stars are Robert Cain, who has the "heavy" role; Paul Ellis and Henry Vibart.

The film holds out tremendous appeal to the admirers of Michael Arlen. His sensationally popular works, such as "The Green Hat" and "These Charming People," have already been adapted to the speaking stage, but in "The Dancer of Paris" he is for the first time presented on the screen.

Confederate Vets Accept Invitation To Meet in Florida

OCALA, Fla., July 21. — Accepting the cordial invitation extended by the Chamber of Commerce and civic bodies of this city, L. W. Jackson, commanding general of the Florida division of the United Confederate Veterans, has issued a general order to all members to meet in Ocala in a grand reunion next November 3, 4 and 5.

This will be the 36th annual state reunion. Civic bodies of Ocala are planning a hearty welcome for the ex-soldiers and their wives and an elaborate program is anticipated.

Uncle Sam Facing Job in Rescuing Landlocked Fish

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 21.—Fish rescue work over the nation will be unusually heavy this year, is the belief of William J. Stratton, director of the Illinois board of conservation.

Heavy floods have landlocked countless fish, and in Illinois, he said, more than 100 men will be assigned to task of replacing "lost" members of the finny tribe in their home waters, by truck and seine.

SEVEN CIVIL SUITS FILED

Grocery Bills Basis of Four Actions in City Court.

BEBE DANIELS AND RICARDO CORTEZ IN A SCENE FROM "VOLCANO" A PARAMOUNT PICTURE A WILLIAM HOWARD PRODUCTION

Fate of Two Stars in Ceramic Play, "Lady of Harem."

Buried alive in the Tomb of Love amid sounds of feasting and gay music!

Such was the fate meted out to William Collier Jr. and Greta Nissen in "The Lady of the Harem," a spectacle production directed for Paramount by Raoul Walsh, at the Ceramic theatre.

"The Lady of the Harem," adapted by James T. O'Donohoe from James Elroy Flecker's stage production, "Hassan," is a story of ancient Persia filmed on a scale of tremendous magnitude and lavishness with its plot woven around a cruel Sultan, a kind hearted confectioner and two lovers.

Briefly, the story is this:

The glittering city of Khorasan suffers countless cruelties under the rule of an oppressive Sultan. But amid the oppression there is one who lives tranquilly—Ernest Torrence, the confectioner.

William Collier Jr., from the hills beyond Mosul, comes in search of his sweetheart, Greta Nissen, dragged away from him by the tyrant's soldiers. In the brilliant, exotic slave market he finds her, only to realize she is being purchased for the Sultan's harem.

That he may save her, Collier joins a band of citizens who have been reduced to beggars by unreasonable taxations. They pledge allegiance.

Disguised as merchants, the Sultan and members of his court gain entrance to the beggar's rendezvous and discover Collier as the leader.

Among the scenes that follow are a tremendous oriental bacchanal, the swimming of a wide river by three thousand men and a mighty medieval battle scene—all leading up to a tremendous climax that for genuine thrills and beauty has seldom been equalled up the screen.

ARLEN STORY AT AMERICAN

Conway Tearle Stars in "Dancer of Paris."

The story of a man's relentless pursuit of a woman and the spirited manner in which she fights back will be unfolded on the screen at the American theatre tomorrow, when the first Michael Arlen story to reach the screen, "The Dancer of Paris," is presented.

Conway Tearle and Dorothy Mackaill have the leading roles in this production, which is presented through First National by Robert T. Kane. It was produced under the direction of Alfred A. Santell, who is responsible for "Bluebeard's Seven Wives" and "Classified."

The story is laid against a series of rich backgrounds. Starting in Florida, the scene quickly switches to Paris, where, in settings picturesquely revealing the night life of the famous capital, the plot moves on to its climax.

Supporting the stars are Robert Cain, who has the "heavy" role; Paul Ellis and Henry Vibart.

The film holds out tremendous appeal to the admirers of Michael Arlen. His sensationally popular works, such as "The Green Hat" and "These Charming People," have already been adapted to the speaking stage, but in "The Dancer of Paris" he is for the first time presented on the screen.

Confederate Vets Accept Invitation To Meet in Florida

OCALA, Fla., July 21. — Accepting the cordial invitation extended by the Chamber of Commerce and civic bodies of this city, L. W. Jackson, commanding general of the Florida division of the United Confederate Veterans, has issued a general order to all members to meet in Ocala in a grand reunion next November 3, 4 and 5.

This will be the 36th annual state reunion. Civic bodies of Ocala are planning a hearty welcome for the ex-soldiers and their wives and an elaborate program is anticipated.

Uncle Sam Facing Job in Rescuing Landlocked Fish

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 21.—Fish rescue work over the nation will be unusually heavy this year, is the belief of William J. Stratton, director of the Illinois board of conservation.

Heavy floods have landlocked countless fish, and in Illinois, he said, more than 100 men will be assigned to task of replacing "lost" members of the finny tribe in their home waters, by truck and seine.

PYTHIANS PLAN BIG PICNIC AT CASCADE PARK

Four-county Outing on Wednesday, July 28.

SPORTS PROGRAM

Children and Old Folks Will be Guests.

The annual picnic and outing of the Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters of Lawrence, Mercer, Butler, Beaver counties and visitors from East Liverpool and Wellsville and Chester, W. Va., will be held at Cascade park on Wednesday, July 28.

Jacob Miller, president of the outing association, has appointed a score of committees to handle the details of the picnic. As in former years the big feature of the day will be a sport program on the field. Children from the Pythian home at Ben Avon and the old folks from the Pythian home at Harmony will be guests.

All Pythians are asked to come to the band stand for free ride tickets, also for tickets for the grand drawing prizes. Drawings will be held in the early part of the evening. Dancing afternoon and evening. Dancing will be free in the afternoon. A display of fireworks will be set off in the evening.

The Four County Pythian Outing association is made up of representatives of the Knights of Pythian and Pythian Sisters and represents a total membership of about 35,00 Knights and 10,000 Pythian Sisters.

The outing each year serves as a reunion of friends in the order from all over the state and practically all officers of the state and national bodies make it a point to be in attendance. Cascade park is easily reached by all steam and trolley lines and contains every modern amusement device. The park this year has been thoroughly renovated.

Waste Automobile Oils Being Used to Battle Mosquitoes

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Waste oil taken from crankcases of automobiles is to be used by the Florida state board of health in combatting mosquitoes. Garages in all cities of the state are being asked to save the oil removed from crankcases. It will be used to saturate sacks of mixed sawdust and sand, which will be planted in bodies of water where mosquitoes propogate. Oil on the water is a preventative against mosquito breeding places.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness shown during the sickness and death of our loved one, Evelyn Hughes. Especially do we thank Rev. and Mrs. Benedum and Mrs. Brindley and those who sent flowers.
